Brute Force Dominic Lennard, 2019-11-01 Considers how dangerous beasts in horror films illuminate the human animal relationship It's always been a wild world with humans telling stories of killer animals as soon as they could tell stories at all Movies are an especially popular vehicle for our fascination with fierce creatures In Brute Force Dominic Lennard takes a close look at a range of cinematic animal attackers including killer gorillas sharks snakes bears wolves spiders and even a few dinosaurs Lennard argues that animal horror is not so much a focused genre as it is an impulse tapping into age old fears of becoming prey At the same time these films expose conflicts and uncertainties in our current relationship with animals Movies considered include King Kong Jaws The Grey Them Arachnophobia Jurassic Park Snakes on a Plane An American Werewolf in London and many more Drawing on insights from film studies art history cognitive science and evolutionary psychology Brute Force is an engaging critical exploration and appreciation of cinema's many bad beasts The brilliance of Dominic Lennard's Brute Force is not only that it is long overdue but one didn't realize it was due in the first place Yet upon reflection and of course through Lennard's engaging book one realizes not only the ubiquity of animals in horror but their utter centrality to so many classic horror films In reading this we can hear the distant rumble of footsteps of a genetically reborn Tyrannosaurus or the hurried pounding of our beloved Rover who has decided that he wants more than kibbles and bits for dinner and we look mighty appetizing Groundbreaking is often overused but in this case it truly fits David Desser coeditor of Tough Ain't Enough: New Perspectives on the Films of Clint Eastwood Bugs Britannica Peter Marren, Richard Mabey, 2010 Encyclopedias The World's Work, 1925 Planet Earth David Nicholson-Lord, 2006 There can be few BBC series that have generated as many gripping tales as Planet Earth With producers and camera crews travelling to almost every corner of the world from the highest mountains to the lowest depths using every kind of craft and technological wizardry imaginable from helicopters and submersibles to satellites and remote cameras they have witnessed remarkable things This book tells the dramatic tales of their encounters trials and tribulations Particularly memorable are the ingenious means by which some of the unique sequences in the series were made High definition film footage photos will bring the tales to life Publisher description Professional Feature Writing Bruce Garrison, 2009-10-16 Professional Feature Writing provides the basics of news media feature writing and establishes a solid
