Architectural Glass to Resist Seismic and Extreme Climatic Events Richard A. Behr, 2009-09-14 Glass is a popular cladding material for modern buildings. The trend for steel framed glass clad buildings instead of those using traditional materials such as brick and concrete has inherent problems. These include for example the performance of architectural glass in extreme climatic events such as windstorms and heavy snow loads and also during earthquakes. This book reviews the state of the art in glass and glazing technology to resist failure due to these natural events. Building code seismic requirements for architectural glass in the United States are considered first of all followed by a chapter on glazing and curtain wall systems to resist earthquakes. The next two chapters discuss snow loads on building envelopes and glazing systems and types and design of glazing systems to resist snow loads. Wind pressures and the impact of wind borne debris are then considered in the next group of chapters which also review special types of glazing systems to resist windstorms. A final chapter reviews test methods for the performance of glazing systems during earthquakes and extreme climatic events. With its distinguished editor and team of contributors Architectural glass to resist seismic and extreme climatic events is an essential resource for architects, structural, civil and architectural engineers, researchers and those involved in designing and specifying building glazing and cladding materials in areas where severe windstorms, snow and earthquakes are a threat. Considers the state of the art in glass and glazing technology to resist failure due to extreme climatic events. Reviews specific building techniques and test methods to enhance glazing performance during snow storms, wind storms and earthquakes.

Eco-Resorts Zbigniew Bromberek, 2009-06-04 Eco Resorts is a design guide for low impact environmentally friendly tourist resorts in the tropics. The book is the first to offer architects practical, detailed guidance in developing resort buildings that work with a tropical climate and meet the needs and expectations of the client and building inhabitants. The book includes both architectural design and material solutions supported by theoretical principles to present a sustainable approach to resort design. It demonstrates that tropical resort buildings do not necessarily require large energy input in compliance with green building standards. Case studies show how principles of sustainable design have been successfully applied in tropical environments. Written by an industry insider with practical design experience, knowledge and expertise. Demonstrates design practices related to site planning and layout and re-assesses best practices for a tropical environment allowing architects to apply design principles to their own projects. Includes international case studies from several countries to illustrate best practice from a variety of tropical climate destinations around the world. Zbigniew Bromberek PhD is an architect educated and registered in Poland and postgraduate educated and residing in Australia. Z has been practising and teaching architecture for nearly 30 years. He has been involved and associated with various educational institutions and professional organizations in a number of countries around the world. Before the current appointment as Senior Lecturer in Architecture at the University of Tasmania, Z spent three years as Lecturer in Environmental Design at the University of

Queensland and two years as Guest Professor in Architectural Design in Nanjing PR China He was also the President of the Architectural Science Association ANZAScA for three consecutive terms in 2000 05 Z s major research interests include design environment interaction low impact architecture and re integration of architecture as an expression of a multi disciplinary approach to design
