Cole,2009-05-05 Bringing together a powerful group of leading educational thinkers including Michael Fullan Dennis Sparks Linda Lambert and Dean Fink this volume examines how to sustain improvement through shared leadership School improvement through developing leadership capacity Terrel Howard Bell,1976* Leadership Capacity for Lasting School Improvement Linda Lambert,2003-07-15 From the author of Building Leadership Capacity in Schools insightful ideas for confronting the key challenges of leadership development in your school or district including resistance to participation time constraints the changing role of the principal and skills development Building Leadership-capacity for Sustained School-improvement Ablal Mansour,2011 The third wave of school reform in Quebec that started in 2000

emphasized developing student leadership For a school to become successful it became mandatory for the administration to build leadership capacity and developing teacher leadership in curriculum and professional development and school governance Building leadership capacity and sustaining school improvement are the focus of this thesis It describes the basic actions that schools should take to build leadership capacity and investigates the characteristics of a capacity building head and the ultimate effect of building leadership capacity on student development It also suggests that leadership capacity is context specific and differentiated among schools Leadership capacity is defined as broad based skilful participation in the work of leadership Lambert 1998 5 and a way of understanding sustainable school improvement Lambert 2006 239 given each school culture and context Following a review of literature five key research questions were formulated addressed through three interpretive case studies carried out in three private secondary schools in Montreal Quebec The research tried to investigate the process of building leadership capacity and how it sustains school improvement The study predominantly used a flexible multiple case study design using qualitative methods of data collection In each school semi structured interviews non participant observations and document checking were conducted providing method and data triangulation Given that this research involves multiple case studies data analysis was conducted in two stages within case and cross case analysis Yin 1994 112 Analysis revealed that building leadership capacity usually starts by broadly and skilfully involving teachers in leadership activities Sustainable improvement can be supported by transforming the school into a professional learning community where learning and improvement become a habit of mind daily practiced by teachers and students Knowing that the ultimate goal of school improvement is to enhance student learning and achievement this can be achieved when schools develop students to become leaders of their own learning journey Developing teacher leadership in a school ultimately reflects on student leadership and learning In addition to these internal leadership capacity processes each school has its unique contextual factors consequently capacity building is multifaceted Fullan 2006 based on developing strategies that are unique to each school given its context internal leadership capacity predispositions and culture that ensure sustainable improvement for each particular school The suggested leadership capacity model provides a visual display for building leadership capacity based on the dynamic interaction between internal capacity culture and external context

Developing Leadership: Creating the Schools of Tomorrow Martin Coles, Geoff Southworth, 2004-11-16 What is our best present understanding of good school leadership How do I lead my school to make it relevant to students of the 21st century The idea for this book grew out of an international conference organized by the National College for School Leadership An International Future learning from best practice worldwide which explored innovative and significant aspects of educational leadership and brought together international colleagues to generate new understandings The conference proved a dynamic forum for debate for researchers academics policy makers and practitioners It was clear at the conference that there was a consensus of understanding around certain key themes that crossed national boundaries In Developing Leadership well known international contributors explore this consensus to promote the key themes which reflect our best present understanding of good school leadership and to inform school leaders about leading edge thinking which bears on their role. These key ideas which are highlighted at various points throughout the book are built around professional learning communities, distributed leadership, strategic thinking about ICT, sustainability, internship, mentoring and coaching.

Developing School Leaders Mark Brundrett, Megan Crawford, 2012-08-06. Many countries face a crisis in recruitment to the most senior positions in schools at a time when arguments rage about the best way to develop our school leaders. Focusing on leadership development in ten diverse cultural contexts, this book brings together some of the most senior commentators in the field of educational leadership development to provide a global perspective on leadership development programmes and practices. The rise of leadership development programmes has presented opportunities for some and challenges for others. These challenges are both practical and conceptual and relate to a series of questions that are unpacked in the book, including: What is the appropriate balance between the academic and the practical in leadership programmes? Should provision be located in higher education?

institutions in other government sponsored organizations or commissioned from the private sector Are models of leadership studies derived from the business and industry relevant to schools How can research into impact inform leadership development policy and strategy Should programmes be integrated into higher degree provision or should new and innovative forms of accreditation be developed This book should be fascinating reading for all those engaged in educational research and teaching and working in educational leadership
