Belden, 2015-06-15 Excerpt from Building Superintendence for Steel Structures A Practical Work on the Duties of a Building Superintendent Tendent for Steel Frame Buildings and the Proper Methods of Handling the Materials and Construction The problems of superintendence of steel frame structures are so different from those which arise in connection with other types of buildings that it has been necessary for men to make a specialty of building superintendence for steel buildings The knowledge of the best types of design the proper methods of fabrication the tests which should be connected for quality of steel and finally the proper methods of erecting the steel all call for special training apart from the usual building superintendence methods It is with the idea of giving engineer and layman the most authoritative information on this important subject that this little volume has been published It does not attempt to go into the theory of design of steel structures but confines itself to the problems of superintendence alone The author is abundantly qualified to speak on this subject as he has erected many steel buildings for one of the biggest contracting firms in the country He has given the reader the benefit of his experience as a superintendent by outlining the duties of this office and making clear the engineering legal and practical knowledge required Then he goes into detail regarding the inspection of the steel material in the fabrication shops and the proper method of storing it until needed The problems of erection are all treated equipment required foundations the handling of the steel riveting and painting The author closes the article with some advice as to the proper organization of his force how the superintendent should work with architect and owner and what qualities a good superintendent should possess Altogether the article should prove a valuable addition to the technical literature in this field About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Building Superintendence for Steel Structures Edgar Stanton Belden, 1917 Building Superintendence American School of Correspondence, American School (Lansing, Ill.), Edward Nichols, 1907 Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress, 2006 Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress.
