Different Shades of the Past Mateusz Kamionka, Przemysław Łukasik, 2023-01-30 In his book 21 Lessons for the 21st Century the historian Yuval Noah Harari wrote that man had the possibility to conquer the world precisely because he could create fictional stories and believe in them People created more and more complex stories about themselves that served and continue to serve according to the professor of the University of Jerusalem building unity social harmony and gaining power A narrative about past in which memory fragmentation and victimisation play a large role may be a temptation to instrumentalise the past This is especially true in relation to the events of the twentieth century when a series of bloody war conflicts occurred As shown in the following post conference volume today the wars of the past World War I and World War II Indian Pakistani war and current conflicts Russo Ukrainian war war in Sudan or Nagorno Karabakh are also a catalyst for the process of instrumentalisation This process can be analysed both at the level of the evolution of the language of conflict including the erosion of the values of democratic dialogue and the use of specific means of commemorating the past monuments museums the Internet

Childhood Memories Charlene Roberson Chandler, 2011-04-29 An inspiring childhood autobiography although written at my son Marks request is a tribute to my tall strong gaunt mother as she struggled to raise twelve children during the poverty of the early 1900s and the Depression Era As I reflect back over all those early years and how the deprivation and hard work shaped our character and ultimately governed our lives I see how it made us strong and strengthened us to withstand and persevere through the adversities and storms of life Childhood is such a wonderful age As the generations of today read about my life as a child during the first half of the Twentieth Century and the Depression Era perhaps they can just begin to appreciate all the blessings they have in this present Twenty First Century Self-Sustaining Systems Robert Hirschfeld, Kim Rose, 2008-10-16 The Workshop on Self sustaining Systems S3 is a forum for the discussion of topics relating to computer systems and languages that are able to bootstrap implement modify and maintain themselves One property of these systems is that their implementation is based on small but powerful abstractions examples include amongst others Squeak Smalltalk COLA Klein Self PyPy Python Rubinius Ruby and Lisp Such systems are the engines of their own replacement giving researchers and developers great power to experiment with and explore future directions from within their own small language kernels S3 took place on May 15 16 2008 at the Hasso Plattner Institute HPI in Potsdam Germany It was an exciting opportunity for researchers and practitioners interested in self sustaining systems to meet and share their knowledge experience and ideas for future research and development S3 provided an opportunity for a community to gather and discuss the need for self sustainability in software systems and to share and explore thoughts on why such systems are needed and how they can be created and deployed Analogies were made for example with evolutionary cycles and with urban design and the subsequent inevitable socially driven change The S3 participants left with a greater sense of community and an enthusiasm for probing more deeply into this subject We see the need for self sustaining systems becoming critical not only to the developer's community but to the users in business academia learning and play and so we hope that this S3 workshop will become the first of many War

Memorialization and Nation-Building in Twentieth-Century Southeast Asia John Lee Candelaria, 2025-02-18 War Memorialization and Nation Building in Twentieth Century Southeast Asia explores how three Southeast Asian countries the Philippines Thailand and Singapore have utilized war memorialization in their nation building efforts Set against the backdrop of colonialism world wars independence struggles and the Cold War the book interrogates how these nations war experiences have shaped national myths and legitimized state narratives Examining the role of state sponsored monuments and memorials in these countries the author sheds light on their impact on national identity formation state legitimacy and citizen unity Through these three distinct case studies the book highlights the complexity and diversity of memorialization practices within the region their intersections with state agendas and the international context that backdropped the region's nation building projects Utilizing war monuments and memorials as its primary data source the author explains the temporal dynamics of peace and conflict and the significance of tangible history in these nations He critically examines the transition from heroic to victimhood narratives in war memorialization and its implications for memory cultures and societies at large A unique study of the commemoration of war experiences in Southeast Asia this book offers a nuanced understanding of how war memories and memorialization practices have shaped and continue to influence Southeast Asia's political and social landscapes through the cases of the Philippines Thailand and Singapore It will be of interest to researchers studying Southeast Asian Studies History and International Relations Long Distance Entanglement Between Quantum Memories

Death at the Edges of Empire Shannon Bontrager, 2020-02-01 Hundreds of thousands of individuals perished in the epic conflict of the American Civil War As battles raged and the specter of death and dying hung over the divided nation the living worked not only to bury their dead but also to commemorate them President Abraham Lincoln s Gettysburg Address perhaps best voiced the public yearning to memorialize the war dead His address marked the beginning of a new tradition of commemorating American soldiers and also signaled a transformation in the relationship between the government and the citizenry through an embedded promise and obligation for the living to remember the dead In Death at the Edges of Empire Shannon Bontrager examines the culture of death burial and commemoration of American war dead By focusing on the Civil War the Spanish Cuban American War the Philippine American War and World War I Bontrager produces a history of collective memories of war expressed through American cultural traditions emerging within broader transatlantic and transpacific networks Examining the pragmatic collaborations between middle class Americans and government officials negotiating the contradictory terrain of empire and nation Death at the Edges of Empire shows how Americans imposed modern order on the inevitability of death as well as how they used the war dead to reimagine political identities and opportunities into imperial ambitions
