Building Britains Wooden Walls The Barnard Dynasty 16971851:

Building Britain's Wooden Walls John E. Barnard,1997 The East India Company's Maritime Service, 1746-1834 Jean Sutton,2010 The book charts in detail successive voyages by members of the Larkins family who were leading owners of East India Company ships showing what it was like to sail to and trade with India in this period It provides a great deal of material on trade warfare developments in seamanship and navigation the opening up of trade to China and much more The Seaforth Bibliography Eugene Rasor,2009-04-17 This remarkable work is a comprehensive historiographical and bibliographical survey of the most important scholarly and printed materials about the naval and maritime history of England and Great Britain from the earliest times to 1815 More than 4 000 popular standard and official histories important articles in journals and periodicals anthologies conference symposium and seminar papers guides documents and doctoral theses are covered so that the emphasis is the broadest possible But the work is far far more than a listing The works are all evaluated assessed and analysed and then integrated into an historical narrative that makes the book a hugely useful reference work for student scholar and enthusiast alike It is divided into twenty one chapters which cover resource centres significant naval writers pre eminent and general histories the chronological periods from Julius Caesar through the Vikings Tudors and Stuarts to Nelson and Bligh major naval personalities warships piracy strategy and tactics exploration discovery and navigation archaeology and even naval fiction Quite simply no one with an interest and enthusiasm for naval history can afford to be without this book at their side Trading in War Margarette Lincoln,2018-01-01 A vivid account of the forgotten citizens of maritime London who sustained Britain during the Revolutionary Wars In the half century before the Battle of Trafalgar the port of London became the commercial nexus of a global empire and launch pad of Britain s military campaigns in North America and Napoleonic Europe The unruly riverside parishes east of the Tower seethed with life a crowded cosmopolitan and incendiary mix of sailors soldiers traders and the network of ordinary citizens that served them Harnessing little known archival and archaeological sources Lincoln recovers a forgotten maritime world Her gripping narrative highlights the pervasive impact of war which brought violence smuggling pilfering from ships on the river and a susceptibility to subversive political ideas It also commemorates the working maritime community shipwrights and those who built London s first docks wives who coped while husbands were at sea and early trade unions This meticulously researched work reveals the lives of ordinary Londoners behind the unstoppable rise of Britain s sea power and its eventual defeat of Napoleon Enterprising Women and Shipping in the Nineteenth Century Helen Doe,2009 An examination of women entrepreneurs who invested in and often managed non feminine businesses such as shipping and shipbuilding in the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Far from the genteel notion of Victorian women as milliners and haberdashers this book shows that women could and did manage male businesses and manage men Women invested in the expanding shipping industry throughout the late eighteenth and the nineteenth century and actively ran non feminine businesses such as shipbuilding By setting the businesswomen firmly in the context of the industry the book examines the business challenges from the woman s perspective It demonstrates how a woman needed to understand the business requirements while in some cases also being a single parent As business managers they had to manage a male workforce deal with large and important customers and ensure they maintained their firm s reputation and continued to win orders Nor were these women mere caretakers for the next generation in many cases continuing to run the business in an active manner after their son or sons were of age This book reveals communities of independent women in England who were active entrepreneurs and investors in a period when women were increasingly supposed to be relegated to a more domestic role It includes brief biographies of many of these women entrepreneurs who were also conventional mothers wives and daughters Helen Doe is an Honorary Fellow of the Centre for Maritime Historical Studies University of Exeter a Council Member of the Society for Nautical Research chair of their marketing committee a member of the British Commission for Maritime History on the Advisory Council of the SS Great Britain and a Trustee of the National Maritime Museum Cornwall

Science, Utility and British Naval Technology, 1793-1815 Roger Morriss, 2020-10-07 During the French Revolutionary and Napoleonic Wars the technology employed by the British navy changed not just the material resources of the British navy but the culture and performance of the royal dockyards This book examines the role of the Inspector General of Naval Works an Admiralty office occupied by Samuel Bentham between 1796 and 1807 which initiated a range of changes in dockyard technology by the construction of experimental vessels the introduction of non recoil armament the reconstruction of Portsmouth yard and the introduction of steam powered engines to pump water drive mass production machinery and reprocess copper sheathing While primarily about the technology this book also examines the complementary changes in the industrial culture of the dockyards For it was that change in culture which permitted the dockyards at the end of the Wars to maintain a fleet of unprecedented size and engage in warfare both with the United States of America and with Napoleonic Europe

The Mariner's Mirror Leonard George Carr Laughton,Roger Charles Anderson,William Gordon Perrin,1998 Britain Against Napoleon Roger Knight,2013-10-24 From Roger Knight established by his multi award winning book The Pursuit of Victory as an authority none of his rivals can match N A M Rodger Britain Against Napoleon is the first book to explain how the British state successfully organised itself to overcome Napoleon and how very close it came to defeat For more than twenty years after 1793 the French army was supreme in continental Europe and the British population lived in fear of French invasion How was it that despite multiple changes of government and the assassination of a Prime Minister Britain survived and won a generation long war against a regime which at its peak in 1807 commanded many times the resources and manpower This book looks beyond the familiar exploits of the army and navy to the politicians and civil servants and examines how they made it possible to continue the war at all It shows the degree to which as the demands of the war remorselessly grew the whole British population had to play its part The intelligence war was also central Yet no participants were more important Roger Knight argues than the bankers and traders of the City of London without whose financing the armies of Britain s allies could not have taken the field The Duke of Wellington famously said that the battle which finally defeated Napoleon was the nearest run thing you ever saw in your life this book shows how true that was for the Napoleonic War as a whole Roger Knight was Deputy Director of the

National Maritime Museum until 2000 and now teaches at the Greenwich Maritime Institute at the University of Greenwich
In 2005 he published with Allen Lane Penguin The Pursuit of Victory The Life and Achievement of Horatio Nelson which won the Duke of Westminster's Medal for Military History the Mountbatten Award and the Anderson Medal of the Society for Nautical Research The present book is a culmination of his life long interest in the workings of the late 18th century British state
