Building Technology And Settlement Planning In A West African Civilization:

Encyclopaedia of the History of Science, Technology, and Medicine in Non-Western Cultures Helaine Selin, 2008-03-12

Here at last is the massively updated and augmented second edition of this landmark encyclopedia. It contains approximately 1000 entries dealing in depth with the history of the scientific, technological, and medical accomplishments of cultures outside of the United States and Europe. The entries consist of fully updated articles together with hundreds of entirely new topics. This unique reference work includes intercultural articles on broad topics such as mathematics and astronomy as well as thoughtful philosophical articles on concepts and ideas related to the study of non-Western Science such as rationality, objectivity, and method. You will also find material on religion and science, East and West, and magic and science.

Building Technology and Settlement Planning in a West African Civilization Tarikhu Farrar, 1996-01-01 Examines indigenous building technology, architecture, and settlement order of the Akan peoples of the southern half of what is now the Republic of Ghana. Considers the body of skills, techniques, and organization of labor, range of materials, and their characteristics, acquisition, and handling, and finally in terms of the formal structural and aesthetic qualities of the buildings. Places the growth of Akan building traditions and settlement in the broader contexts of history and culture, growth and change.

Medical Missionaries and Colonial Knowledge in West Africa and Europe, 1885-1914 Linda Maria Ratschiller Nasim, 2023-11-02 This open access book offers an entangled history of hygiene by showing how knowledge of purity, health, and cleanliness was shaped by evangelical medical missionaries and their encounters with people in West Africa. By tracing the interactions and negotiations of six Basel Mission doctors who practised on the Gold Coast and in Cameroon from 1885 to 1914, the author demonstrates how notions of religious purity, scientific health, and colonial cleanliness came together in the making of hygiene during the age of High Imperialism. The heyday of evangelical medical missions abroad coincided with the emergence of tropical medicine as a scientific discipline during what became known as the Scramble for Africa. This book reveals that these projects were intertwined and that hygiene played an important role in all three of them. While most historians have examined modern hygiene as a European bourgeois and scientific phenomenon, the author highlights both the colonial and the religious fabric of hygiene, which continues to shape our understanding of purity, health, and cleanliness to this day.

Labour and Living Standards in Pre-Colonial West Africa Klas Rönnbäck, 2015-11-19 Sub-Saharan Africa is the poorest region in the world. But its current status has skewed our understanding of the economy before colonization. Rönnbäck reconstructs the living standards of the population at a time when the Atlantic slave trade brought money and men into the area, enriching our understanding of West African economic development.

New Orleans in the Atlantic World William Boelhower, 2013-09-13 The thematic project New Orleans in the Atlantic World was planned immediately after hurricane Katrina and focuses on what meteorologists have always known: the city's identity and destiny belong to the broader Caribbean and Atlantic worlds, as perhaps no other American city does. Balanced precariously between land and sea, the city's geohistory has always interwoven diverse cultures languages peoples and economies Only with the rise of the new Atlantic Studies matrix however have scholars been able to fully appreciate this complex history from a multi disciplinary multilingual and multi scaled perspectivism In this book historians geographers anthropologists and cultural studies scholars bring to light the atlanticist vocation of New Orleans and in doing so they also help to define the new field of Atlantic Studies This book was published as a special issue of Atlantic Studies

Early Modern Dutch Prints of Africa ElizabethA. Sutton,2017-07-05 Using Pieter de Marees Description and Historical Account of the Gold Kingdom of Guinea 1602 as her main source material author Elizabeth Sutton brings to bear approaches from the disciplines of art history and book history to explore the context in which De Marees account was created Since variations of the images and text were repeated in other European travel collections and decorated maps Sutton is able to trace how the framing of text and image shaped the formation of knowledge that continued to be repeated and distilled in later European depictions of Africans She reads the engravings in De Marees account as a demonstration of the intertwining domains of the Dutch pictorial tradition intellectual inquiry and Dutch mercantilism At the same time by analyzing the marketing tactics of the publisher Cornelis Claesz this study illuminates how early modern epistemological processes were influenced by the commodification of knowledge Sutton examines the book s construction and marketing to shed new light on the social milieus that shared interests in ethnography trade and travel Exploring how the images and text function together Sutton suggests that Dutch visual and intellectual traditions informed readers choices for translating De Marees text visually Through the examination of early modern Dutch print culture Early Modern Dutch Prints of Africa expands the boundaries of our understanding of the European imperial enterprise

The Ghana Reader Kwasi Konadu,Clifford C. Campbell,2016-02-04 Covering 500 years of

Ghana's history The Ghana Reader provides a multitude of historical political and cultural perspectives on this iconic African nation Whether discussing the Asante kingdom and the Gold Coast's importance to European commerce and transatlantic slaving Ghana's brief period under British colonial rule or the emergence of its modern democracy the volume's eighty selections emphasize Ghana's enormous symbolic and pragmatic value to global relations They also demonstrate that the path to fully understanding Ghana requires acknowledging its ethnic and cultural diversity and listening to its population's varied voices Readers will encounter selections written by everyone from farmers traders and the clergy to intellectuals politicians musicians and foreign travelers With sources including historical documents poems treaties articles and fiction The Ghana Reader conveys the multiple and intersecting histories of Ghana's development as a nation its key contribution to the formation of the African diaspora and its increasingly important role in the economy and politics of the twenty-first century

An Archaeology of Elmina Christopher R. DeCorse, 2001 This volume examines a complex African settlement on the coast of present-day Ghana from the fifteenth through the nineteenth centuries European narratives and indigenous oral histories As the first European trading post in sub-Saharan Africa remarkable cultural continuity is seen in the midst of technological change

The Political Economy of the Interior Gold Coast Jarvis L. Hargrove, 2015-12-09 This book analyzes the Gold Coast and the Asante kingdom in the years following the abolition of the transatlantic slave trade and prior to the start of colonial rule The Asante state one of the largest in the Gold Coast and West Africa after the eighteenth century is the central focus of this work Studying their transition from a large-scale supplier of captives to the transatlantic slave trade to traders in legitimate goods is a critical component that should be analyzed across West Africa This work highlights the political and economic relationships between the interior Asante state with surrounding African groups and Europeans chiefly British traders who entered the region in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries

The Asafoi (socio-military Groups) in the History and Politics of Accra (Ghana) from the 17th to the Mid-20th Century John Kwadwo Osei-Tutu, 2000

Precolonial African Material Culture, V. Tarikhu Farrar, 2020-01-20 The idea of an inherent backwardness of technology and material culture in early sub-Saharan Africa is a persistent and tenacious myth in the scholarly and popular imagination Due to the emergence of the field of African studies and the upsurge in historical and archaeological research in recent decades the stridency of this myth has weakened and the overtly racist content of arguments mustered in its defense have tended to disappear But more important are transformations in social political and cultural consciousness which have worked to reshape conceptualizations of African peoples their histories and their cultures Precolonial African Material Culture offers a thorough challenge to the myth of technological backwardness V. Tarikhu Farrar revisits the early technology of sub-Saharan Africa as revealed by recent research and reconsiders long-possessed primary historical sources He then explores the ways that indigenous African technologies have influenced the world beyond the African continent

Economic Incentives in Sub-Saharan African Urban Planning Kwasi Gyau Baffour Awuah, 2021-04-19

This book explores incentives capable of enhancing the effectiveness of urban planning systems in Sub Saharan Africa using economic theory as a framework. It argues that urban planning is fundamental to the achievement of sustainable and resilient cities but against the backdrop of rising levels of urbanisation and growth poverty informal development and climate change such systems are failing to be promoted and successfully maintained in the region. Across ten chapters it analyses the connection between urban planning and socio economic development indicators of effective urban planning systems and the role and influence of incentives with real world evidence. It develops quantitative models to estimate the costs and benefits of urban planning systems focussing on the developing world where organised data is less accessible. Using Ghana as a case study it demonstrates a step by step approach on how to implement the quantitative models discussed. Economic Incentives in Sub Saharan African Urban Planning will be useful reading for researchers policy makers development agencies and students in urban planning sustainable development and economics.

Capitalism and Cartography in the Dutch Golden Age Elizabeth A. Sutton, 2015-06-05. In Capitalism and Cartography in the Dutch Golden Age Elizabeth A. Sutton explores the fascinating but previously neglected history of corporate cartography during the Dutch Golden Age from ca 1600 to 1650. She examines how maps were used as propaganda tools for the Dutch West India Company in order to encourage the commodification of land and an overall capitalist agenda. Building her exploration around the central figure of Claes Jansz Vischer an Amsterdam based publisher closely tied to the Dutch West India Company Sutton shows how printed maps of Dutch Atlantic territories helped rationalize the Dutch Republic's global expansion. Maps of land reclamation projects in the Netherlands as well as the Dutch territories of New Netherland now New York and New Holland Dutch Brazil reveal how print media were used both to increase investment and to project a common narrative of national unity. Maps of this era showed those boundaries commodities and topographical details that publishers and the Dutch West India Company merchants and governing Dutch elite deemed significant to their agenda. In the process Sutton argues they perpetuated and promoted modern state capitalism.
