Greene, 2021-01-31 In the early 400s numerous Indian and Central Asian Buddhist meditation masters chānshi traveled to China where they established the first enduring traditions of Buddhist meditation practice in East Asia The forms of contemplative practice that these missionaries brought with them and which their Chinese students further developed remained for several centuries the basic understanding of meditation chān in China Although modern scholars and readers have long been familiar with the approaches to meditation of the Chan Zen School that later became so popular throughout East Asia these earlier and in some ways more pervasive forms of practice have long been overlooked or ignored This volume presents a comprehensive study of the content and historical formation as well as complete English translations of two of the most influential manuals in which these approaches to Buddhist meditation are discussed the Scripture on the Secret Essential Methods of Chan Chan Essentials and the Secret Methods for Curing Chan Sickness Methods for Curing Translated here into English for the first time these documents reveal a distinctly visionary form of Buddhist meditation whose goal is the acquisition of concrete symbolic visions attesting to the practitioner's purity and progress toward liberation Both texts are apocryphal scriptures Taking the form of Indian Buddhist sutras translated into Chinese they were in fact new compositions written or at least assembled in China in the first half of the fifth century Though written in China their historical significance extends beyond the East Asian context as they are among the earliest written

Early Buddhist Meditation Keren

Arbel,2017-03-16 This book offers a new interpretation of the relationship between insight practice satipatthana and the attainment of the four jhānas i.e. right samādhi a key problem in the study of Buddhist meditation The author challenges the traditional Buddhist understanding of the four jhānas as states of absorption and shows how these states are the actualization and embodiment of insight vipassanā It proposes that the four jhānas and what we call vipassanā are integral dimensions of a single process that leads to awakening Current literature on the phenomenology of the four jhānas and their relationship with the practice of insight has mostly repeated traditional Theravāda interpretations No one to date has offered a comprehensive analysis of the fourfold jhāna model independently from traditional interpretations This book offers such an analysis It presents a model which speaks in the Nikāyas' distinct voice It demonstrates that the distinction between the practice of serenity samathā bhāvanā and the practice of insight vipassanā bhāvanā a fundamental distinction in Buddhist meditation theory is not applicable to early Buddhist understanding of the meditative path It seeks to show that the common interpretation of the jhānas as altered states of consciousness absorptions that do not reveal anything about the nature of phenomena is incompatible with the teachings of the Pāli Nikāyas By carefully analyzing the descriptions of the four jhānas in the early Buddhist texts in Pāli their contexts associations and meanings within the conceptual framework of early Buddhism the relationship between this central element in the Buddhist path and insight meditation becomes revealed in all its power Early Buddhist Meditation will be of interest to scholars of Buddhist studies Asian philosophies and religions as well as Buddhist practitioners with a serious interest in the process of insight meditation
