Calamity Jane James D. McLaird, 2012-11-27 Forget Doris Day singing on the stagecoach Forget Robin Weigert's gritty portrayal on HBO's Deadwood The real Calamity Jane was someone the likes of whom you've never encountered That is until now This book is a definitive biography of Martha Canary the woman popularly known as Calamity Jane Written by one of today's foremost authorities on this notorious character it is a meticulously researched account of how an alcoholic prostitute was transformed into a Wild West heroine Always on the move across the northern plains Martha was more camp follower than the scout of legend A mother of two she often found employment as waitress laundress or dance hall girl and was more likely to be wearing a dress than buckskin But she was hard to ignore when she'd had a few drinks and she exploited the aura of fame that dime novels created around her even selling her autobiography and photos to tourists Gun toting swearing hard drinking Calamity Jane was all of these to be sure But whatever her flaws or foibles James D. McLaird paints a compelling portrait of an unconventional woman who more than once turned the tables on those who sought to condemn or patronize her He also includes dozens of photos many never before seen depicting Jane in her many guises His book is a long awaited biography of Martha Canary and the last word on Calamity Jane

Large Mammals And A Brave People, The Valley Bisa people inhabit the Luangwa Valley in central Zambia Among them the hunter who tracks such large game as the lion elephant and buffalo commands great respect and esteem from the other members of the lineage who traditionally rely on him for their subsistence and protection Although the social organization and technology of the Bisa people have undergone tremendous change in the last one hundred years the role of hunter retains its social importance and the legitimizing hunting rituals have their roots in local history Drawing on data collected during his fieldwork among the Bisa continuing since the 1960s Stuart Marks describes the changes that have occurred in hunting patterns the sociological variables that govern an individual's decision to become a hunter and the common cosmological convictions that hunters bring to their profession Available for the first time in paperback the new introduction and afterword to this edition reflect on methodological and ideological changes in the anthropological study of African peoples as well as updating the circumstances of the Bisa people since the book's first appearance in 1976 Through the interventions of the larger national society the Bisa have lost much of their land and access to important portions of their resources while experiencing repression in their struggles to maintain livelihoods with what local assets are left Nevertheless Marks notes that they face their hardships with tolerance integrity persistence and humility The general reader as well as prehistorians and anthropologists concerned with human evolution and hunting societies will find this volume useful It will also be of interest to wildlife managers and ecologists Stuart A Marks is actively involved in conservation and development work at the local national and international levels Currently he is an independent scholar and consultant and was a Research Professor of Anthropology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from 1997 to 2002 He is the author of the award winning Southern Hunting in Black and White Nature History and Ritual in a Carolina Community The Imperial Lion Human Dimensions to Wildlife Management in Central Africa and a forthcoming volume Wild Animals and Rural African Livelihoods
