Developing Scientific Literacy: Using News Media in the Classroom Ruth Jarman, Billy McClune, 2007-03-16 This is an excellent source of ideas on using the media to enrich science teaching and engage pupils It contains numerous ideas on using newspapers and other sources in science and how to encourage young people to read them carefully and critically Prof Jerry Wellington School of Education University of Sheffield UK Throughout the book all the ideas content suggestions and arguments are supported by in depth research and solid referencing making this an authoritative yet eminently readable reference volume for current and would be secondary science teachers School Science Review Science related news stories have great potential as a resource for teaching and learning about science and its impact on society By demonstrating the relevance of the subject in everyday life they can form a valuable bridge between the school classroom and the real world

Worldwide those advocating science education reform stress the need to promote scientific literacy among young people and typically this includes equipping students to critically engage with science reports in the media. However, very little guidance exists for those who wish to do so. Developing Scientific Literacy addresses this gap, offering a much needed framework for teachers wishing to explore science in the media in secondary schools or colleges. It suggests how teachers across a number of subject areas can collaborate to promote among young people an aptitude and ability to engage thoughtfully with science in the media. Drawing on research and development work, the authors describe key characteristics of science news reporting. Discuss its potential as a resource for teaching and learning about science and for developing young people's criticality in respect of such reports. Identify appropriate instructional objectives and suggest activities through which these might be achieved. This timely book is a source of valuable ideas and insights for all secondary science teachers. It will also be of interest to those with responsibilities for initial teacher training and continuing professional development. Extreme Science M. Gail Jones, Amy R. Taylor, Michael R. Falvo, 2009. An understanding of scale and scaling effects is of central importance to a scientific understanding of the world. With Extreme Science help middle and high school biology, Earth science, chemistry, physics, and math students develop quantitative evaluation. Comprehending scale at the largest and smallest levels is where a quantitative understanding of the world begins. The Shipley Collection of Scientific Papers, 1887. Readings in Cognitive Science Allan Collins, Edward E. Smith, 2013-10-02. Readings in Cognitive Science: A Perspective from Psychology and Artificial Intelligence brings together important studies that fall in the intersection between artificial intelligence and cognitive psychology. This book is composed of six chapters and begins with the complex anatomy and physiology of the human brain. The next chapters deal with the components of cognitive science such as the semantic memory similarity and analogy and learning. These chapters also consider the application of mental models which represent the domain specific knowledge needed to understand a dynamic system or natural physical phenomena. The remaining chapters discuss the concept of reasoning, problem solving, planning, vision, and imagery. This book is of value to psychologists, psychiatrists, neurologists, and researchers who are interested in cognition. Popular Science, 1923-06. Popular Science gives our readers the information and tools to improve their technology and their world. The core belief that Popular Science and our readers share is that the future is going to be better and science and technology are the driving forces that will help make it better. Strange but True: Tiny Creatures Timothy J. Bradley, 2012-09-01. Describes some of the small but deadly creatures that can sometimes have a major impact on humans, including stinging bullet ants, phorid flies, bloodsucking ticks, and fleas, dust mites, and parasitic nematode worms.
