

Building Bridges over Troubled Waters EU Civil Servants and the Transcendence of Distance and Difference

Seamus Montgomery

ABSTRACT

This Forum contribution presents fragmented accounts of historical narratives collected while conducting ethnographic fieldwork among civil servants in and around the European Commission in Brussels, Belgium. It focuses on the roles that heritage-making practices play in articulating European identity and belonging within these institutional spaces. In the ongoing debates over ‘bridges’ and ‘walls’, Commission officials advocate building the former and tearing down the latter. The European heritage narratives they enact tell the story of a supranational community formed from the expansion of external borders and the elimination of internal ones. Through the transcendence of borders, both physical and cognitive, geographic distances and social differences are made increasingly irrelevant. Their efforts in this regard are nonetheless hindered by futurist temporalities that orient Europeanness in opposition to the past.

During the campaigns for the 2016 EU membership referendum in the United Kingdom, those in favour of Brexit vowed to ‘take back control of our laws, money and borders’ while those against maintained that Britain and Europe were ‘better together’. Across the pond, Donald Trump entered the office of the presidency on a promise to ‘build the

The Science of Religion, Spirituality, and Existentialism Kenneth E. Vail III, Clay Routledge, 2020-04-04. The Science of Religion Spirituality and Existentialism presents in depth analysis of the core issues in existential psychology: their connections to religion and spirituality e.g. religious concepts, beliefs, identities and practices and their diverse outcomes e.g. psychological, social, cultural and health. Leading scholars from around the world cover research exploring how fundamental existential issues are both cause and consequence of religion and spirituality informed by research data spanning multiple levels of analysis such as evolution, cognition and neuroscience, emotion and motivation, personality and individual differences, social and cultural forces, physical and mental health among many others. The Science of Religion Spirituality and Existentialism explores known contours and emerging frontiers addressing the big question of why religious belief remains such a central feature of the human experience. Discusses both abstract concepts of mortality and concrete near death experiences. Covers the struggles and triumphs associated with freedom, self regulation and authenticity. Examines the roles of social exclusion, experiential isolation, attachment and the construction of social identity. Considers the problems of uncertainty, the effort to discern truth and reality and the challenge to find meaning in life. Discusses how the mind developed to handle existential topics, how the brain and mind implement the relevant processes and the many variations and individual differences that alter those processes. Delves into the psychological functions of religion and science, the influence on pro and antisocial behavior, politics and public policy and looks at the role of spiritual concerns in understanding the human body and maintaining physical health.
