Building State Capacity In Africa:

Building State Capacity in Africa Brian Levy, Sahr John Kpundeh, 2004-01-01 This publication considers options for strengthening institutional capacity within the public sector in African countries by drawing on the experiences of public sector reform programmes in over a dozen African states Issues discussed include the relationship between governance and economic development public expenditure and accountability anti corruption reforms the politics of decentralisation political structures and public service delivery

The Politics of Successful Governance Reforms Mark Robinson, 2013-10-18 This book examines the factors that give rise to successful governance reforms in developing countries focusing on the importance of political commitment supportive institutions and the timing of reforms It reviews the lessons arising from the design and implementation of successful governance reforms in Brazil India Uganda and other parts of Africa through comparative analysis of experience with public financial management anti corruption civil service reform and innovations in service delivery The contributors suggest that three factors are critical in explaining positive outcomes strong consistent commitment from politicians to initiate and sustain reforms a high level of technical capacity and some degree of insulation from societal interests at least in the early phases for designing and managing reforms incremental approaches with cumulative benefits are more likely to produce sustainable results Explicit attention to the political feasibility of reform identifying and building incentives for reform and a more gradual and piecemeal approach are all integral to the success of future governance reforms

Governance and Nationbuilding K. Jenkins, Kate Jenkins, William Plowden, 2008-01-01 a detailed and well argued book They provide an excellent historical narrative that explodes the twin myths that nation building is a new phenomenon and that the post war recovery in Japan and Germany constitutes examples of successful nation building that can be replicated elsewhere this book is essential reading for anyone engaged in this issue Aidan Hehir Political Studies Review Nation Building Good Governance and Democratization are the main slogans guiding efforts to help societies in trouble But nearly all such contemporary endeavors fail This book is invaluable in exposing the causes for disappointing results and thus provides foundations for much improved policies It is obligatory reading for all concerned with improving governance Yehezkel Dror The Hebrew University of Jerusalem and author of The Capacity to Govern A Report to the Club of Rome 2002 Reporting on the failure of international intervention Jenkins and Plowden offer an illuminating analysis of an old but always ignored truth institutions can be imported not exported Luiz Carlos Bresser Pereira Getulio Vargas Foundation S o Paulo Brazil Anyone contemplating giving aid to developing countries for economic development and governmental modernisation should read this wide ranging and sharp analysis of why past programmes have brought disappointment and disillusion and what can be done in the future to ensure more effective use of such aid It goes beyond economics encompassing history culture social factors and above all politics It reflects the accumulated wisdom and scholarship of two experienced practical administrators and consultants who have seen at first hand what can go wrong G W Jones London School of Economics and Political Science UK This study by Jenkins and Plowden breaks new ground in the treatment of these issues They get behind the generalities that often bedevil debates on governance and document in telling detail the myriad ways in which aid donors have systematically attempted to transfer and transplant an idealised and largely Westernised blueprint of governance to societies which were either unable or unwilling to receive them Because their study is rooted not only in a careful survey of a comprehensive literature but also in an informed understanding of the preferences and practices of the main aid donor organisations it adds up to a devastating critique of the inadequacies and failures of this crucial aid strategy A penetrating well argued assessment of governance and public management reform in a global context this timely book makes a much needed critical contribution to what has too often been an unthinking and superficial debate It should be required reading for all students of comparative governance and public management Martin Minogue University of Manchester UK Governance and Nationbuilding describes how aid donors have attempted to improve the performance of government in developing countries and countries in crisis Kate Jenkins and William Plowden review the widespread lack of success tracing the history of international government intervention the roles of donors and recipient countries the ways in which expert advice and support have been provided and the donors own evaluation of their work The authors outline and analyse the many obstacles to success highlighting how the lack of effective learning from experience has led to repeated failures to improve the quality of government The authors draw on the donors own assessments of the issues and on their own experience in the British Government and many other countries They recommend a new approach to improving government much less grandiose and more modest expectations on the part of the donors and a new and enhanced role for recipient countries This is a hard hitting analysis of the problems and potential proposals for change by two experts in the field Both have not only advised governments Parliamentary Assembly - Working Papers - 2008 Ordinary Session (Third Part) 23-27 June 2008 Volume VI (2009) Council of Europe, 2009-01-01

Agenda for Africa's Economic Renewal Benno J. Ndulu, Nicolas Van De Walle, Simon Appleton, In Agenda for Africa s Economic Renewal ten experts from Africa Europe and the United States look beyond structural adjustment and identify the strategic elements that are needed to engineer Africa s economic recovery in the coming years Starting from the considerable degree of consensus among policymakers and scholars about what ails African economies the authors analyze the key choices that need to be made in the critical areas of agriculture trade and industry state capacity and the social sectors The authors consider these strategic priorities in the extremely fragile environment of democratic rule in many countries of the region and they stress the long overdue need to focus directly on the political implications of economic policy choices Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2013: Justification of the budget estimates: related agencies United States. Related Agencies,2012 Africa's Pulse, No. 19, April 2019 Cesar Calderon, Gerard Kambou, Vijdan Korman, Megumi Kubota, Catalina Cantu Canales, 2019-04-08 Economic growth in Sub Saharan Africa is estimated to have decelerated from 2.5 percent in 2017 to 2.3 percent in 2018 below the rate of growth of population for a fourth consecutive year Regional growth in 2018 is below the pace projected in 2018 October issue of Africa's Pulse 0.4 percentage points lower This slowdown was more pronounced in the first half of 2018 and it reflected weaker exports among the region's large oil exporters Nigeria and Angola due to dwindling oil production amid higher but volatile international prices for crude petroleum A deeper contraction in Sudanese economic activity and a broad based growth slowdown among non resource intensive countries also played a role Sub Saharan African countries with fragile context have made considerable efforts to find a way out of fragility Regional and sub regional economic organizations are promoting economic cooperation and addressing security and peace challenges that go beyond national borders The special topic of this issue of Africa's Pulse argues that the digital economy can unlock new pathways for inclusive growth innovation job creation service delivery and poverty reduction in Africa The continent has made great strides in mobile connectivity however it still lags the rest of the world in access to broadband Only 27 percent of the population in the continent have access to internet few citizens have digital IDs businesses are slowly adopting digital technologies and only few governments are investing strategically in developing digital infrastructure services skills and entrepreneurship Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2012 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Appropriations. Subcommittee on Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies, 2011 Governance Reform Brian Levy, 2007-01-01 Developing country governance and its monitoring have risen to the top of the development agenda This mounting interest is in response to compelling evidence that links governance to development performance policy quality public service provision the investment climate and the extent of corruption Governance Reform Bridging Monitoring and Action lays out a broad framework for analyzing and monitoring governance in developing countries It identifies fourteen core indicators for governance monitoring both broad measures of overall patterns and specific actionable measures that can be used to guide reforms and track progress The book also summarizes good practices for reforming public bureaucracies and checks and balances institutions including parliaments the justice system media and information and local governance highlights improvements in transparency as a relatively low cost and low key way of deepening government accountability to civil society and suggests ways to complement top down reforms with approaches that focus directly on improving service provision and the investment climate such as strengthening the bottom up accountabilities of service providers to communities firms and citizens Governance Reform has no universally applicable trajectory of change Rather the aims are to find country specific entry points for reform which have development impact in the short term to address binding public management constraints and to help build momentum for further change Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2014 United States. Environment, and Related Agencies,2013 The Future of the South African Political Economy Post-COVID 19 Mzukisi Qobo,Mills Soko,Nomfundo Xenia Ngwenya,2022-10-31 This book examines the COVID 19 pandemic through socioeconomic lens that draw on history approaches to state market relations and public policy perspectives In 2020 the world experienced the worst pandemic since the outbreak of the Spanish Flu of 1918 which continues to have far reaching implications for the global economy and triggered macro economic dislocations that severely affected the most vulnerable countries and segments of society This book was conceived as a response to the disruptive shifts induced by the pandemic with a particular focus on South Africa International experience has shown that countries and societies that have gone through tough economic times either as a consequence of wars or economic depressions have responded to crises by enacting unpopular policy measures based on difficult tradeoffs which often made way for innovation The authors outline policy responses to the COVID 19 crisis and propose several interventions to mitigate its effects These include developing innovative approaches to fiscal and monetary policies labour market policies industrial policies as well as social policies Building state capabilities improving the governance and performance of state institutions and managing digital change are some of the clear policy interventions that are laid out in this book Governance for Development in Africa David Booth,Diana Cammack,2013-10-10 Drawing on in depth empirical research spanning a number of countries in Africa Booth and Cammack's path breaking book offers both an accessible overview of issues surrounding governance for development on the continent whilst also offering a bold new alternative In doing so they controversially argue that externally imposed good governance approaches make unrealistic assumptions about the choices leaders and officials are in practice able to make As a result reform initiatives and assistance programmes supported by donors regularly fail while ignoring the potential for addressing the causes rather than the symptoms of this situation In reality the authors show anti developmental behaviours stem from unresolved yet in principle soluble collective action problems Governance for Development in Africa offers a comprehensive and critical examination of the institutional barriers to economic and social progress in Africa and makes a compelling plea for fresh policy thinking and new ways of envisioning so called good governance State Capacity and Economic Development Mark Dincecco,2017-11-27 Analyzes the historical origins of state and provides a new perspective on the relationship between state capacity and economic development Africa in the New Millennium Georges Nzongola-Ntalaja,2001 The contributions to this Discussion Paper were prepared for a workshop on Africa in the new millennium held in Stockholm in May 2001 The aim was to raise important questions to help contextualise and deal with the problems facing the continent It was an attempt to go below the surface of immediate crises and open up a debate around Africa and its international relations It is hoped that publication of these papers will encourage further debate and contribute towards realizing the goal of African recovery Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies Appropriations for 2014: Justification of the budget estimates: Related agencies United States. Peacebuilding, Power, and Politics in Africa

Devon Curtis, Gwinyayi A. Dzinesa, 2012-09-21 Peacebuilding Power and Politics in Africa is a critical reflection on peacebuilding efforts in Africa. The authors expose the tensions and contradictions in different clusters of peacebuilding activities including peace negotiations, statebuilding, security sector governance, and disarmament, demobilization, and reintegration. Essays also address the institutional framework for peacebuilding in Africa and the ideological underpinnings of key institutions including the African Union, NEPAD, the African Development Bank, the Pan African Ministers Conference for Public and Civil Service, the UN Peacebuilding Commission, the World Bank, and the International Criminal Court. The volume includes on-the-ground case study chapters on Sudan, the Great Lakes Region of Africa, Sierra Leone, and Liberia, the Niger Delta, Southern Africa, and Somalia, analyzing how peacebuilding operates in particular African contexts. The authors adopt a variety of approaches but they share a conviction that peacebuilding in Africa is not a script that is authored solely in Western capitals and in the corridors of the United Nations. Rather, the writers in this volume focus on the interaction between local and global ideas and practices in the reconstitution of authority and livelihoods after conflict. The book systematically showcases the tensions that occur within and between the many actors involved in the peacebuilding industry as well as their intended beneficiaries. It looks at the multiple ways in which peacebuilding ideas and initiatives are reinforced, questioned, reappropriated, and redesigned by different African actors. A joint project between the Centre for Conflict Resolution in Cape Town, South Africa, and the Centre of African Studies at the University of Cambridge.

The Political Economy of Africa Vishnu Padayachee, 2010-06-10 The Political Economy of Africa aims to fill a major gap in the existing literature by exploring the economy and economics of Africa. The book has a critical approach from the perspective of political economy rather than mainstream economics. This book addresses the seemingly intractable economic problems of the African continent and traces their origins but also always brings out the instances of successful economic change and the possibilities for economic revival and renewal.

Development Outreach, 2004 New Perspectives on the Divide Between National and International Law Janne E. Nijman, André Nollkaemper, 2007-11-01 This book aims to contribute to our understanding of one of the most pressing issues of modern international law: the relationship between the international legal order on the one hand and the domestic legal orders of over 190 sovereign states on the other hand. The traditional and dominant understanding of this relationship is that there exists a strict separation between the international legal order and domestic legal orders. Processes of legal globalisation and internationalisation have made this relationship much more complex. Legal authority has shifted away from the state in both vertical and horizontal directions. Forced by the pressures of interdependence, states have allowed international bodies to oversee and sometimes even implement and enforce domestic legislation. At the same time, private persons are more and more drawn into an internationalized order. Increasing cross-border flows of services, goods, and capital mobility and communication have further undermined any stable notion of what is national and what is international This book offers several partly complementary and partly competing perspectives that allow us understand and make sense of the complex interaction between the international and domestic sphere
