Subrata Dasgupta,2024-05-14 This book examines two venerable cultures art and technology and uses the young interdisciplinary of cognitive history combined with case studies of both ancient and modern artifacts to explore and unveil some of the bridges by which this reconciliation of two seemingly distant and oppositional cultures can be effected Art and technology are commonly regarded as oppositional While both are concerned with made things artifacts and both have their origins in pre literate antiquity the primary purposes they are intended for are quite distinct the artifacts of technology serve utilitarian purposes while those of art serve affective needs This opposition between art and technology notably argued by such scholars as Lewis Mumford and George Kubler is challenged in this book For when we consider art and technology as creative phenomena then many significant interesting and often subtle commonalities emerge whereby a reconciliation a unity of these two great cultures seems possible This book utilizes case studies of both ancient and modern artifacts ranging from the Nataraja sculpture of ancient India a great astronomical clock of ancient China and Japanese Samurai swordmaking through Gothic cathedrals and Renaissance paintings of Europe to English Elizabethan machinery to the French Impressionists to modernist concrete structures and paintings in both East and West This book will be of interest to students and professional scholars interested in the histories of art and technology cultural history and creativity studies New York Magazine ,1997-05-26 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine s consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea Creative (and Cultural) Industry Entrepreneurship in the 21st Century Inge Hill,Sara R.
