The Artless Jew Kalman P. Bland, 2001-07-02 Conventional wisdom holds that Judaism is indifferent or even suspiciously hostile to the visual arts due to the Second Commandment's prohibition on creating graven images the dictates of monotheism and historical happenstance This intellectual history of medieval and modern Jewish attitudes toward art and representation overturns the modern assumption of Jewish iconophobia that denies to Jewish culture a visual dimension Kalman Bland synthesizes evidence from medieval Jewish philosophy mysticism poetry biblical commentaries travelogues and law concluding that premodern Jewish intellectuals held a positive liberal understanding of the Second Commandment and did in fact articulate a certain Jewish aesthetic He draws on this insight to consider modern ideas of Jewish art revealing how they are inextricably linked to diverse notions about modern Jewish identity that are themselves entwined with arguments over Zionism integration and anti-Semitism Through its use of the past to illuminate the present and its analysis of how the present informs our readings of the past this book establishes a new assessment of Jewish aesthetic theory rooted in historical analysis Authoritative and original in its identification of authentic Jewish traditions of painting sculpture and architecture this volume will ripple the waters of several disciplines including Jewish studies art history medieval and modern history and philosophy

Into the Light of Things George J. Leonard, 1995-06-15 When John Cage opened his compositions to chance sounds in the 1950s and Andy Warhol began exhibiting paintings of Brillo boxes in the 1960s the art of the commonplace seemed like something radically even frighteningly new But noting an unprecedented shift around 1800 away from the idealism of Western aesthetics Leonard shows that attacks on the art object as outspoken as any made by twentieth century avant gardists can be found in the works of Wordsworth Ruskin Carlyle Emerson and Whitman From Wordsworth to Cage a certain kind of artist sought to re orient humanity's devotion from the next world to this one to situate paradise in the simple produce of the common day Enough of Science and Art Wordsworth began his first book of poems Come forth into the light of things Two hundred years later John Cage would tell us We open our eyes and ears seeing life each day excellent as it is This realization no longer needs art By studying artists together with poets Leonard uncovers the rich tradition that links Wordsworth to Cage and illuminates many figures in between Into the Light of Things transforms our understanding of modern culture Jacket
