Creating A World Economy Merchant Capital Colonialism And World Trade 1400 1825:

Creating A World Economy Alan K. Smith, 2019-04-02 This is an exploration in world history that examines complex and intriguing questions concerning the origins of the first truly global economy centered in Europe which served in turn as a solid basis for the later emergence of the modern world system Professor Smith first examines the remarkable progress achieved by many cultures around the world achievements that for some time far exceeded anything then found in Europe The study then probes beyond traditionalism as a sufficient explanation of the inability of these societies to maintain the economic momentum that had begun so auspiciously and carefully examines the experience of European societies by way of comparison finding that remarkably similar processes tended to unfold at first regions of Europe that made the earliest gains in material progress were like other parts of the world unable to sustain these advances Still in some parts of Europe particularly the Netherlands and England a new alignment of social forces was yielding the social system that would eventually evolve into capitalism This breakthrough allowed for continued dynamic material progress particularly for the English Able to establish an unprecedented commercial dominance in vast reaches of the world the British found themselves at the hub of a new world economy much more complex than any earlier intercultural commercial system The book delineates the systemic roles assumed by the various regions of the world and by European merchant capital and explains the tensions within this system that ensured its continued dynamism and eventual transformation into the current world economic system Creating a World Economy combines an epic sweep with a mastery of historical detail and is sure to stimulate discussion among sociologists and historians interested in questions of a global nature Colonial Cinema and

Imperial France, 1919-1939 David Henry Slavin, 2001-10-09 In this book the author uses such key colonial era films as L Atlantide and Pepe le Moko to document how the French cinema reflected the changing policies and values of French colonialism in the inter war period The Political Economy of Indigo in India, 1580-1930 Ghulam A. Nadri, 2016-07-11 In The Political Economy of Indigo in India 1580 1930 A Global Perspective Ghulam A Nadri explores the dynamics of the indigo industry and trade from a long term perspective and examines the local and global forces that affected the potentialities of production in India and elsewhere and caused periods of boom and slump in the industry Using the commodity chains conceptual framework he examines the stages in the trajectory of indigo from production to consumption Nadri shows convincingly that the growth or decline in indigo production and trade in India was a part of the global processes of production trade and consumption and that indigo as a global commodity was embedded in the politics of empire and colonial expansion Shaping the Stuart World, 1603 - 1714 Allan I. MacInnes, Arthur H. Williamson, 2006 Shaping the Stuart World examines the wide ranging European interaction inherent in British expansion and discovers a multi dimensional multi national Atlantic as a result Spain Sweden and especially the Netherlands emerge as central to English and Scottish endeavors overseas and to the extremely diverse populations and cultures that eventually came to be known as British North America Security Communities Emanuel Adler, Michael Barnett, 1998-10-28 This book argues that community can exist at the international level and that security politics is profoundly shaped by it with states dwelling within an international community having the capacity to develop a pacific disposition By investigating the relationship between international community and the possibility for peaceful change this book revisits the concept first pioneered by Karl Deutsch security communities Leading scholars examine security communities in various historical and regional contexts in places where they exist where they are emerging and where they are hardly detectable Building on constructivist theory the volume is an important contribution to international relations theory and security studies attempting to understand the conjunction of transnational forces state power and international organizations that can produce a security community

Private Military and Security Companies Erika Calazans, 2016-05-11 This book's primary concern is the application of International Humanitarian Law and International Human Rights Law in addressing the business conduct of Private Military and Security Companies PMSCs during armed conflicts as well as state responsibility for human rights violations and current attempts at international regulation The book discusses four interconnected themes First it differentiates private contractors from mercenaries presenting an historical overview of private violence Second it situates PMSCs employees under the legal status of civilian or combatant in accordance with the Third and Fourth Geneva Conventions of 1949 It then investigates the existing law on state responsibility and what sort of responsibility companies and their employees can face Finally the book explores current developments on regulation within the industry on national regional and international levels These themes are connected by the argument that in order to find gaps in the existing laws it is necessary to establish what they are what law is applicable and what further developments are needed

The Waves of Time K. R. Dark, 2016-10-06 Since the end of the Cold War analysts of international politics have given much greater attention to issues of change It has become increasingly clear to specialists from many fields that any understanding of large scale political change must encompass far longer timescales than has been usual in the study of world politics and must incorporate multi disciplinary perspectives This book evaluates and draws on relevant theoretical approaches from other disciplines such as sociology economics geography history anthropology and archaeology as well as evolutionary theory and the mathematical study of complexity Using an epistemological framework Dark sets out a theory of long term world political change the theory of Macrodynamics This is then applied to historical anthropological and archaeological data to explain the changing forms of political organization from the earliest human societies to the late twentieth century The resulting analysis is a reinterpretation of the processes of global political change in the past and present This in turn opens new areas of enquiry in the study of international relations and has profound implications for how we understand the changing world of today

Before European Hegemony William R Day, 2017-07-05 The modern vision of the world as one dominated by one or more superpowers begs the question of how best to understand the world system that existed before the rise of the first modern powers Janet Abu Lughod's solution to this problem in this highly influential work is that Before European Hegemony a predominantly insular agrarian world was dominated by groups of mercantile city states that traded with one another on equal terms across a series of interlocking areas of influence In this reading of history China and Japan the kingdoms of India Muslim caliphates the Byzantine Empire and European maritime republics alike enjoyed no absolute dominance over their neighbours and commercial partners and the egalitarian international trading network that they built endured until European advances in weaponry and ship types introduced radical instability to the system Abu Lughod's portrait of a more balanced world is a masterpiece of synthesis driven by one highly creative idea her world system of interlocking spheres of influence quite literally connected masses of evidence together in new ways A triumph of fine critical thinking
