Military Masculinity and Postwar Recovery in the Soviet Union Erica L. Fraser, 2019-01-01 Catastrophic wartime casualties and postwar discomfort with the successes of women who had served in combat roles combined to shatter prewar ideals about what service meant for Soviet masculine identity The soldier had to be reimagined and resold to a public that had just emerged from the Second World War and a younger generation suspicious of state control In doing so Soviet military culture wrote women out and attempted to reestablish soldiering as the premier form of masculinity in society Military Masculinity and Postwar Recovery in the Soviet Union combines textual and visual analysis as well as archival research to highlight the multiple narratives that contributed to rebuilding military identities Each chapter visits a particular site of this reconstruction including debates about conscription and evasion appropriate role models for cadets misogynist military imagery in cartoons the fraught militarized workplaces of nuclear physicists and the first cohort of cosmonauts who represented the completion of the project to rebuild militarized masculinity

Politics, Policy and Power in Translation History Lieven D'hulst, Carol O'Sullivan, Michael Schreiber, 2016-09-09 The contributions in this book are partly based on papers given at the 7th congress of the European Society for Translation Studies held at the University of Mainz in Gernersheim For this publication all papers have undergone a review process In order to illustrate the variety of contents and approaches involved in the concepts of translation policy and politics the chapters are organised thematically rather than chronologically The objective in doing so was to show how policies influence a wide array of discursive practices The first group of articles is concerned with the policy of translating and interpreting in power settings A second group deals with translation policies as applied to a wide corpus of literary texts A third group is devoted to the policies of media translation
