

The background is a detailed illustration of Harbin, China, during the early 20th century. It features a central emblem with a sunburst and the words 'HARBIN' and 'CHINA'. Surrounding the emblem are various Chinese characters and architectural details, including a large building on the left with the characters '交通銀行' (交通銀行) and a smaller building on the right with the characters '中國銀行' (中國銀行). The title 'CREATING A CHINESE HARBIN' is prominently displayed in the center, with 'NATIONALISM IN AN INTERNATIONAL CITY' and '1916-1932' in smaller text above and below it respectively. The author's name 'JAMES H. CARTER' is at the bottom.

Creating A Chinese Harbin Nationalism In An International City 1916 193:

Creating a Chinese Harbin James H. Carter, 2019-06-30 James H Carter outlines the birth of Chinese nationalism in an unlikely setting the international city of Harbin Planned and built by Russian railway engineers the city rose quickly from the Manchurian plain changing from a small fishing village to a modern city in less than a generation Russian Chinese Korean Polish Jewish French and British residents filled this multiethnic city on the Sungari River The Chinese took over Harbin after the October Revolution and ruled it from 1918 until the Japanese founded the puppet state of Manchukuo in 1932 In his account of the radical changes that this unique city experienced over a brief span of time Carter examines the majority Chinese population and its developing Chinese identity in an urban area of fifty languages Originally Carter argues its nascent nationalism defined itself against the foreign presence in the city while using foreign resources to modernize the area Early versions of Chinese nationalism embraced both nation and state By the late 1920s the two strands had separated to such an extent that Chinese police fired on Chinese student protesters This division eased the way for Japanese occupation the Chinese state structure proved a fruitful source of administrative collaboration for the area s new rulers in the 1930s

Lost Adventures Edward Marshall Perdue, 2005 If one wants to begin to understand the GULAG he would read anyone of at least 131 books such as My twenty two prisons and My Escape from Solovetski 1929 by Bezonov Eliuriai Dimitrevich Red Gaols a Woman s Experiences in Russian Prisons 1935 by author did not want to be identified Prisoner of the OGPU 1935 by Kitechin George An Account of the Construction of the New Canal between the White Sea and the Baltic Sea 1935 by Maxim Gorky and 30 writers Many people refer to the book The Gulag Archipelago 1974 by Solzenitsyn I as the book on the GULAG partly from his experience and research thereof The author started with a simple expression written about John W Adkins He left home at an early age and never returned home age There was literally no information about him Most people familiar with my work have been totally amazed at the amount of the information documents obtained by the author from the archives on one individual After many years of work the author did not want to leave this material to just a research project sitting on the bookshelf

Nationalism in an International City James Hugh Carter, 1998 Beyond the Amur Victor Zatsepine, 2017-03-09 Beyond the Amur describes the distinctive frontier society that emerged in the Amur a river region that shifted between Qing China and Imperial Russia as the two empires competed for resources Official histories depict the Amur as a distant battleground caught between rival empires Zatsepine by contrast views it as a unified natural economy populated by Chinese Russian Indigenous Japanese Korean Manchu and Mongol people who crossed the border in search of work or trade and who came together to survive a harsh physical environment This colourful account of a region and its people highlights the often overlooked influence of frontier developments on state politics and imperial policies and histories

Empire careers Catherine Ladds, 2017-02-01 This is the first book length study of the 11 000 foreign nationals who worked for the Chinese Customs Service between 1854 and 1949 exploring how their lives and careers were shaped by imperial ideologies networks and structures In doing so it highlights the vast range of people British and non British elite and non elite for whom the empire world spoke of opportunity Empire careers considers the professional triumphs and tribulations of the foreign staff their social activities their private and family lives and how all of these factors were influenced by the changing political context in China and abroad Contrary to the common assumption that China was merely an outpost of empire exploration of the Customs cosmopolitan personnel encourages us to see China as a place where multiple imperial trajectories converged overlapped and competed This book will be of interest to students and scholars of imperial history and the political history of modern China

The Making of a Chinese City Søren Clausen, Stig Thøgersen, 2016

Mitya's Harbin Lenore Lamont Zissermann, 2018

Harbin Mark Gamsa, 2020 This book offers an intimate portrait of early twentieth century Harbin a city in Manchuria where Russian colonialists and later refugees from the Revolution met with Chinese migrants The deep social and intellectual fissures between the Russian and Chinese worlds were matched by a multitude of small efforts to cross the divide as the city underwent a wide range of social and political changes Using surviving letters archival photographs and rare publications this book also tells the personal story of a forgotten city resident Baron Roger Budberg a physician who being neither Russian nor Chinese nevertheless stood at the very centre of the cross cultural divide in Harbin The biography of an important city fleshing out its place in the global history of East West contacts and twentieth century diasporas this book is also the history of an individual life and an original experiment in historical writing

Mitya's Harbin Lenore Lamont Zissermann, 2016 This book tells a story of the city of Harbin China It also chronicles the experiences of a White Russian family living there before they had to leave China in the late 1950s Publisher

To the Harbin Station David Wolff, 1999 In 1898 near the projected intersection of the Chinese Eastern Railroad the last leg of the Trans Siberian and China s Sungari River Russian engineers founded the city of Harbin Between the survey of the site and the profound dislocations of the 1917 revolution Harbin grew into a bustling multiethnic urban center with over 100 000 inhabitants In this area of great natural wealth Russian Chinese Japanese Korean and American ambitions competed and converged and sometimes precipitated vicious hostilities Drawing on the archives both central and local of seven countries this history of Harbin presents multiple perspectives on Imperial Russia's only colony The Russian authorities at Harbin and their superiors in St Petersburg intentionally created an urban environment that was tolerant not only toward their Chinese host but also toward different kinds of Russians For example in no other city of the Russian Empire were Jews and Poles who were numerous in Harbin encouraged to participate in municipal government The book reveals how this liberal Russian policy changed the face and fate of Harbin As the history of Harbin unfolds the narrative covers a wide range of historiographic concerns from several national histories These include the role of the Russian finance minister Witte the building of the Trans Siberian Railroad the origins of Stolypin's reforms the development of Siberia and the Russian Far East the 1905 Revolution the use of ethnicity as a tool of empire civil military conflict strategic area studies Chinese nationalism the Japanese decision for war against the Russians Korean nationalism in exile and the rise of the soybean as an international commodity In all these concerns Harbin was a vibrant source of creative unorthodox policy and turbulent economic and political claims

Harbin and Manchuria Thomas Lahusen, 2001 This special issue of South Atlantic Quarterly focuses on the layered cultures of the northeast China city of Harbin and the region formerly known as Manchuria During the first half of the twentieth century Harbin a by product of the construction of the Chinese Eastern Railway at the turn of the century and the rest of Manchuria became the site of conflicting and competing Russian Western Japanese and Chinese colonialisms Home to migrants from the famine-ridden Shandong province impoverished Japanese settlers Jews fleeing the pogroms of Russia White Russians escaping the civil war and Koreans caught between Japanese expansionism and Chinese nationalism Harbin was a colonial place like no other one that eventually comprised more than fifty nationalities speaking forty-five languages Crossing the boundaries of their specializations contributors respond to the complexity of this history while considering the concrete concept of place and its relation to the more abstract idea of space A rare encounter between scholars of East Asian and Slavic studies this well-illustrated collection includes discussions of history politics economics anthropology sociology cinema and cultural studies An eclectic and comprehensive exploration of memory and its reconstruction in the Harbin Manchuria diaspora Harbin and Manchuria provides the first full treatment of this colonial encounter Contributors Olga Bakich Sabine Breuillard James Carter Elena Chernolutskaia Prasenjit Duara Thomas Lahusen Hyun Ok Park Andre Schmid Mariko Asano Tamanoi David Wolff
