Arms Trade And Europe:

Arms Trade and Europe Paul Cornish, 1995-03-12 Focusing on conventional weapons rather than nuclear biological and chemical ones this book draws attention to important differences within the EU between the trade in finished weapons and the technology used to make them It examines West European efforts since 1945 to manage both sides of conventional defence related trade and the political industrial technological and conceptual obstacles to effective multilateral coordination and regulation The book argues that in current European and international circumstances recent EU initiatives have limited prospects and may prove to be counterproductive comprehensive and in depth study of this topic a phenomenon which has continued to flourish despite the end of the Cold War and the preoccupation with global terrorism after 11 September 2001 It provides a clear description and analysis of the demand for and supply of modern weapons systems and assess key issues of concern This book will be especially useful to scholars policy analysts those in the arms industry defence professionals students of international relations and security studies media professionals government officials and those generally interested in the arms trade Arms Trade and Economic Development Jurgen Brauer, Paul Dunne, 2004-08-02 Countries that spend scarce resources to import arms from abroad often require arms sellers to reinvest part or all of the proceeds back into the arms importing country These so called arms trade offsets are therefore thought to enhance domestic economic development But does this process actually succeed This book examines the theory and policy applications of arms trade offsets and looks at more than a dozen case studies drawn from across Europe Africa Asia and the Americas The chapters based on original research and published here for the first time are all written by leading experts That an impressive lucid and cohesive volume such as this will interest defence economists can be taken almost for granted The book will also be a useful and enlightening read for those interested in international development economics military studies and policy makers across the globe World Military Expenditures and Arms Transfers, 1984 Undermining Global Security Amnesty International, 2004 Contains disturbing examples of exports from existing or new EU Member States of military security and police MSP equipment technology and expertise used for grave human rights violations or breaches of international humanitarian law Reveals the arms production and exporting activities of the ten new countries joining the EU on 1st May 2004 Explores how the enlarged EU will have over 400 companies in 23 countries producing small arms and light weapons Demonstrates how this dramatic enlargement of the EU presents both potential opportunities and dangers for European arms control Analyses the current policies and practices of 15 EU Member States and the 10 new Member States with regard to their control of the transfer of military security and police MSP technology weaponry personnel and training It demonstrates why Amnesty is convinced that more effective EU

Taking Aim at the Arms Trade Doctor Anna Stavrianakis, 2013-07-18 Taking Aim at The Arms Trade NGOs Global Civil Society and the World Military Order takes a critical look at the ways in which NGOs portray the arms trade as a problem of international politics and the strategies they use to effect change NGOs have been pivotal in bringing the suffering caused by the arms trade to public attention documenting its negative impact on human rights conflict security and development around the world and pushing for measures to control or eradicate the trade Overall however their activity has helped sideline debate on Northern military predominance while facilitating intervention in the South based on liberal understandings of the arms trade conflict development and human rights They thus contribute to the perpetuation of a hierarchical world military order and the construction of the South as a site of Northern benevolence and intervention Stavrianakis exposes the tensions inherent in NGOs engagement with the arms trade and argues for a re examination of dominant assumptions about NGOs as global civil society actors
