Franz Kline in Coal Country Rebecca Rabenold Finsel, 2020-08-01 Franz Kline one of the most celebrated painters of the twentieth century once described his hometown as a little Dutch settlement wrapped up in a cloud of coal dirt He was referring to Lehighton Pennsylvania a railroad town nestled amid mountains rich with quartz and anthracite coal And like the mineral deposits Kline's later action paintings are infused with energy The black and white lines command the kind of tension that transforms coal into diamonds and single works have sold for over forty million dollars Franz Kline in Coal Country is the first biography to examine Kline's formative years in Lehighton Philadelphia Boston and London before he became a founding member of the New York School the ragtag group who stole the art world away from Paris after WWII This book according to Kline's sister Dr Louise Kline Kelly sets the record straight in more than one place Compiled over three decades Franz Kline in Coal Country also contains over 100 of his earliest drawings cartoons letters photos paintings and linoleum block prints Most of these little known works rescued from the attics and scrapbooks of friends appear here for the first time

Robert Motherwell Mary Ann Caws, 2003 Robert

Motherwell was by far the most intellectual and articulate of the Abstract Expressionists. This book, written by a friend of the artist, the well-known writer and critic Mary Ann Caws, examines Motherwell's way of thinking and writing in relation to his paintings. The artist, American by birth yet simultaneously American and European in his way of visualizing and vocalizing artistic and philosophical traditions, always worked between these two poles, and it is this tension that imbues his work with its particular intensity. The author bases her analysis of Motherwell on the artist's own writings and readings as well as on extensive conversations and interviews with him. She considers his work and interests in relation to those of other Abstract Expressionists as well as to the work of the Surrealists. Her book highlights his deep attraction to France and French literature and art and his concern with the idea of elegy and the tragedy of the Spanish Civil War. His singularly American spirit provided him with a manner of painting and thinking unique among the Abstract Expressionists as well as with a distinctive and highly personal filter through which to interpret his fascination with European literature and history.

Imperfect Fit Allen Fisher, 2016-11-15 Imperfect Fit is a dynamic study of the relationships between modern art and avant-garde poetry from the 1950s to the present that provides fascinating glimpses into both Allen Fisher's remarkable work as a poet, painter, and critic as well as the state of avant-garde aesthetics as a whole. Creativity and Academic Activism

Meaghan Morris, Mette Hjort, 2012-09-01 This work explores in detail how innovative academic activism can transform our everyday workplaces in contexts of considerable adversity. Personal essays by prominent scholars provide critical reflections on their institution building triumphs and setbacks across a range of cultural institutions. Often adopting narrative approaches, the contributors examine how effective programmes and activities are built in varying local and national contexts within a common global regime of university management policy. Here they share experiences based on developing new undergraduate degrees, setting up research centers and postgraduate schools, editing field-shaping book series and journals, establishing international artist-in-residence programs, and founding social activist networks. This book also investigates the impact of managerialism, marketization, and globalization on university cultures, asking what critical cultural scholarship can do in such increasingly adversarial conditions. Experiments in Asian universities are emphasized as exemplary of what can or could be achieved in other contexts of globalized university policy. Contributors include Tony Bennett, Stephen Ching, Kiu Chan, Kuan Hsing, Chen Douglas, Crimp, Dai, Jinhua, John, Nguyet, Erni, Josephine, Ho, Koichi, Iwabuchi, Tejaswini, Niranjana, Wang, Xiaoming, and Audrey, Yue. George Washington Barbara J. Mitnick, William S. Ayres, 1999 It is also an image that has resisted fundamental revision over the course of two centuries because of the force of Washington's character, the clarity of his political purposes, and the intensity of his charisma.

Encyclopedia of the New York School Poets Terence Diggory, 2015-04-22 Presents an alphabetical reference guide detailing the lives and works of poets associated with the New York Schools of the early twentieth century. How Poets See the World Willard Spiegelman, 2005-06-23 Although readers of prose fiction sometimes find descriptive passages superfluous or boring, description itself is often the most important aspect of a poem This book examines how a variety of contemporary poets use description in their work Description has been the great burden of poetry How do poets see the world How do they look at it What do they look for Is description an end in itself or a means of expressing desire Ezra Pound demanded that a poem should represent the external world as objectively and directly as possible and William Butler Yeats in his introduction to The Oxford Book of Modern Verse 1936 said that he and his generation were rebelling against inter alia irrelevant descriptions of nature in the work of their predecessors The poets in this book however who are distinct in many ways from one another all observe the external world of nature or the reflected world of art and make relevant poems out of their observations This study deals with the crisp elegant work of Charles Tomlinson the swirling baroque poetry of Amy Clampitt the metaphysical meditations of Charles Wright from a position in his backyard the weather reports and landscapes of John Ashbery and the new way of looking that Jorie Graham proposes to explore in her increasingly fragmented poems All of these poets plus others Gary Snyder Theodore Weiss Irving Feldman Richard Howard who are dealt with more briefly attend to what Wallace Stevens in a memorable phrase calls the way things look each day The ordinariness of daily reality is the beginning of the poets own idiosyncratic indeed unique visions and styles
