Anthropology Of Globalization: Cultural Anthropology Enters The 21st Century Ted C. Lewellen, 2002 Presents the first and only critical overview of the anthropology of globalization a subject area so new that previously it existed only as multiple unintegrated ethnographies and theoretical positions Lewellen gives us the first analytic overview of an important new subject area in a field that has long been identified with the study of relatively bounded communities Globalization refers to the increasing flows of trade finance culture ideas and people brought about by the sophisticated technology of communications and travel and by the worldwide spread of neoliberal capitalism Unlike dependency theory and world systems analysis which tended to assume a bird's eye perspective globalization offers a down and dirty ground up approach in which ethnographic research is not marginal but essential Through multiple examples selected from the latest ethnographic research from all over the world Lewellen examines the ways that globalization impacts migrants and stay at homes peasants and tribal peoples men and women A crucial theme is that the global local nexus is one of unpredictable interaction and creative adaptation not of top down determinism Theoretically globalization studies have become the focal point for the convergence of interpretive anthropology critical anthropology postmodernism and poststructuralism which are combined with a tough empiricism For the casual reader or the classroom this work draws together the ethnographic studies and cutting edge theories that comprise the anthropology of globalization Globalization George Ritzer, 2010 List of Figures Preface 1 Globalization I Liquids Flows and Structures Some of the Basics From Solids to Liquids to Gases Flows Does Globalization Hop Rather Than Flow Heavy Light Weightless Heavy Structures That Expedite Flows Heavy Structures as Barriers to Flows Subtler Structural Barriers Structure and Process On the Increasing Ubiquity of Global Flows and Processes and Structures Thinking About Global Flows and Structures Chapter Summary 2 Globalization II Some Basic Issues Debates and Controversies Is There Such a Thing as Globalization If There Is Such a Thing as Globalization When Did It Begin Globalization or Globalizations What Drives Globalization If There Is Such a Thing as Globalization Is It Inexorable Does Globophilia or Globophobia Have the Upper Hand If Globalization Is Not Inexorable Has It Gone Too Far What if Anything Can be Done About Globalization Chapter Summary 3 Globalization and Related Processes I Imperialism

Organizations, Markets and Imperial Formations Subhabrata Bobby Banerjee, Vanessa C. M.

Chio, Raza Mir, 2009-01-01 This edited collection is an extraordinarily welcome text for those of us teaching international management in the US while observing with dismay the lack of critical awareness about the rest of the world in extant disciplinary scholarship. Rather than giving us the view from the rest, the collection advances a temporal and spatial relational approach to understanding globalization and compels its audience to bridge the gap between the west and the rest by bringing to visibility the cultural and material encounters co-constructing them. In this context, the various contributions deconstruct international management as market-based activity, exposing its mode of existence within complex power relations networks extending over time and space. Marta B. Cal s, University of Massachusetts, US. Organizations, Markets and Imperial Formations offers a set of innovative critiques of contemporary economic globalization. A major theme of the book is that our imperialist histories have resulted in a globalization process that replicates exploitative colonialist patterns. Chapter authors provide insights on a variety of subjects, including a critique of mainstream international management textbooks and the simplistic toolkits they offer to managers; an analysis of how a universalistic view of capitalism and economic organization results in exploitative patterns of resource appropriation and documentation of the negative consequences of globalization, specifically patterns of inequality and class segregation. Alison M. Konrad, University of Western Ontario, Canada. This authoritative book explores the nexus between organization theory, globalization, and imperialism, and examines the effects of a global order organized around development and markets. The authors explore how interconnections between organization theory and the global political economy have led to the perpetuation of inequality and active reconfigurations of life, labour, and the economy. They contend that cultural ethnocentrism and Western ideologies of development continue to inform the field of organizational studies and offer an alternate mode of theorizing. Through theoretical and empirical reflections, the authors produce a patchwork quilt of innovatively critical approaches to globalization. Graduate students, academics, and scholars in the fields of management and organizational sciences, as well as postcolonial development and globalization studies, will find this book of particular interest. It is also an invaluable read for international management and strategy scholars, including those focused on multinational operations in the Third World. Modernities, Class, and the Contradictions of Globalization Kaja Ekholm, Jonathan Friedman, 2008. In Modernities, Class, and the Contradictions of Globalization, two distinguished anthropologists look at how global processes have shaped the emergence of our dynamic and often difficult and contradictory modern world. The authors are particularly interested in structures that link individual human beings to more general social transformations. This book is a synthesis of the Friedmans' decades-long anthropological research into the human consequences, whether for good or bad, of globalization. Anthropologica, 2004. The Globalization of Anthropology Carole E. Social Sciences Jean-Sylvestre Bergé, Sophie Harnay, Ulrike Mayrhofer, Lionel Obadia, 2017-10-26 This book offers new perspectives on global phenomena that play a major role in today's society and deeply shape the actions of individuals, organizations and nations. In a complex and rapidly changing environment, decision makers need to gain a better understanding of global phenomena to adapt and to anticipate the evolution of the global context. The authors, ten renowned international scholars of anthropology, economics, law, management and political science, propose an interdisciplinary and comparative approach to social sciences. They analyse how international phenomena such as globalisation or transnationalisation transform the disciplines of social sciences from an epistemological standpoint. Explaining what global means in different disciplines, the authors analyse several global phenomena that characterise today's international environment such as the circulation of norms and ideas, the linkages between war and globalization, corporate governance and the impact of multinational enterprises on sustainable development and poverty reduction. Providing examples of analytical disciplinary approaches and guidelines for decision makers in a fast-changing global context, this book will be useful to scholars and students of anthropology, economics, law, management and political science as well as practitioners in the private and public sectors.

Contemporary Studies in Anthropology D. C. Nanjunda, 2010-01-01 With reference to Karnataka, India.

Globalisation Thomas Hylland Eriksen, 2003-06-20 Globalisation has had a massive impact on the teaching and practice of anthropology. This book addresses the methodological problems that these changes have wrought. The essays show how the focus has shifted from traditional studies of specific sites towards the movements and shifts associated with increasing migration and population flows, the result of living in an increasingly globalised world. Written by a range of distinguished anthropologists, it offers innovative new approaches to the discipline in the light of these changes, making it indispensable as a teaching text at higher levels and as mandatory reading for practitioners and researchers in a wide range of merging disciplines. Topics explored include the methodology of studying on the internet, global and spatial identities in the Caribbean, shifting boundaries in coastal communities, the anthropology of political life, issues of law and the flow of human substances, and the diffusion of moral values created by globalisation.
