interest in the problems of childhood and as children's lives became increasingly medicalized as some have argued it is at least in part because of pediatricians' willingness to endorse medical definitions for certain social problems and to provide treatment for them. Pawluch's underlying concern is that medical professionals have begun to make claims for authority in the definition of what constitutes the social problems of childhood. Among the topics she examines are the dissatisfied pediatrician syndrome, the potential for a crisis in oversupply of pediatricians and competing providers of services, the push for expansion into new areas of care and possible future developments in this specialty. New Zealand Medical Journal, 1988
