Antitrust In Theory And Practice:

Antitrust in Theory and Practice Russell G. Warren, 1975      Competition Policy Massimo Motta, 2004-01-12 This is the first book to provide a systematic treatment of the economics of antitrust or competition policy in a global context. It draws on the literature of industrial organisation and on original analyses to deal with such important issues as cartels, joint ventures, mergers, vertical contracts, predatory pricing, exclusionary practices and price discrimination and to formulate policy implications on these issues. The interaction between theory and practice is one of the main features of the book which contains frequent references to competition policy cases and a few fully developed case studies. The treatment is written to appeal to practitioners and students, to lawyers and economists. It is not only a textbook in economics for first year graduate or advanced undergraduate courses but also a book for all those who wish to understand competition issues in a clear and rigorous way. Exercises and some solved problems are provided.      American Antitrust Law in Theory and Practice Bruce Benson, 1989

United States Economic Sanctions: Theory and Practice Michael Malloy, 2001-05-29 The growing use of U S and multilateral economic sanctions and the increasing and controversial attention such measures are attracting internationally create a need for a detailed legal analysis of the subject and its policy implications for both U S practitioners and their counterparts in other countries. The expanding field of sanctions is especially worthy of close scrutiny as it generates significant and often inadvertent influence on finance and trade. Increasingly lawyers and business people involved in international transactions must take account of the risks both actual and potential inherent in compliance with economic sanctions on trading partners. This major new work, a completely revised successor edition to the author's much cited Economic Sanctions and U S Trade, shifts the main emphasis from the mechanics of applying foreign policy objectives to a careful and complete articulation of what those goals are or ought to be, an approach that leads inevitably to a concrete methodology for assessing the effectiveness of sanctions. In the process the book examines such salient characteristics of the current and developing sanctions regime as the following: the growing prominence of U S Congressionally mandated sanctions programs; the complex interaction of economic sanctions and trade policy; and the marked increase in multilateral sanctions programs in which the U S is a participant. In depth analysis of major U S sanctions programs, those imposed on Cuba, Libya and Iraq as well as several other lesser programs, presents numerous hypothetical but realistic international scenarios demonstrating their working out under the practical application of specific elements of each sanctions program.

Resale Price Maintenance and Vertical Territorial Restrictions Barbora Jedlicková, 2016-03-25 Theoretical discussions among competition lawyers and economists on the approach to Resale Price Maintenance (RPM) and Vertical Territorial Restrictions (VTR) have often caused controversy. However, commentators agree that there is a lack of comprehensive study surrounding the topic. This book explores these two forms of anticompetitive conduct from legal, historical, economical and theoretical points of view, focusing on the EU and US.

experiences The author expertly goes beyond the current legal practice to explain among other things what approach should apply to RPM and VTR and why RPM and VTR are introduced in situations where procompetitive theories would not make economic sense or do not apply in practice The book takes account of economic values such as efficiency and welfare as well as other values such as freedom fairness and free competition Scholars and students of law will find the book s depth of legal economic and historical analysis to be a rich contribution to the scholarship This book will also be of use to EU and US practitioners and enforcers dealing with RPM and VTR cases

Antitrust, Theory and Practice Paul West Cook, 1963* Competition Law in China and the EU Xingyu Yan, 2024-12-16 This book presents a comprehensive review of the Chinese and European responses to the abuse of market dominance with a focus on the impact of antitrust institutional dynamics on enforcement decisions It uses the methods of functional comparison and case analysis to investigate how theories of harm relating to specific types of abuse differ within and across competition law regimes due to institutional dynamics The Chinese and EU competition law regimes serve as excellent examples for this investigation because they have similar substantive laws on paper but vastly different institutional settings The book examines first individually and then comparatively how the distinct institutional dynamics in the Chinese and EU regimes shape the development of theories of harm This volume will appeal to competition law scholars students and practitioners seeking a more nuanced understanding of how competition law works in the EU and China It will also interest scholars trying to approach the Chinese legal system from an engaging rather than alienating standpoint Competition Anna

Olimpia, Ricardo Motta, 2023-11-08 The proliferation of economic agents with market power especially those operating in the digital economy and which add unprecedented dynamic and complexity to it has sparked heated discussions among academics professionals and competition authorities around the world regarding the effects of their actions on the market and consumers Unlike classic cartels a conduct that has been treated as per se unlawful in Brazil regardless of the production of effects under Brazilian competition law unilateral conduct falls into a gray area encompassing different practices with different effects on the market In this sense examples of unilateral conduct that may be considered anticompetitive are numerous both under old and new labels predatory pricing abusive pricing resale price maintenance imposition of exclusivities parity clauses price discrimination discrimination of commercial conditions self preferencing price squeeze refusal to deal among others The competition analysis of such conduct which may occur in traditional brick and mortar markets as well as in digital environments involving various platforms and arrangements like blockchain for the purpose of a decision by the authority on whether they constitute anticompetitive practices or not involves a highly complex analysis of various factors The analysis must consider the presence of dominant positions real or potential detrimental effects on competition efficiencies justifications economic rationale for the conduct and for some schools of thought a weighing of anticompetitive effects and efficiencies Due to the complexity specificities and dynamism of unilateral practices especially in digital markets or hybrid digital platforms there is a question of whether the instruments currently available to competition authorities are sufficient to understand and rule on such practices In this regard the analysis of various cases in relatively recent jurisprudence shows a pursuit for new forms of interpretation and application and even updates to the methodologies of analysis and of applicable legislation in order to strike a balance between intervention to curb anticompetitive practices to the extent necessary for protecting competition without resulting on undue interference in the involved markets or on disincentives to innovation Historically discussions about exclusivity clauses and resale price maintenance have been central in this type of investigation but digital platforms are effectively changing this landscape giving rise to discussions on new types of conduct or more sophisticated forms of implementing traditional types of conduct which have become possible or potentially more serious through new technologies the broad reach of platforms the collection of massive data and the international nature of the largest players in these markets Notions of relevant market theories of harm and standards of consumer welfare or protection traditionally adopted by antitrust authorities are under study and may be revised The heterogeneity of legal systems in different jurisdictions is another complicating factor for national authorities in the analysis of conduct practiced by companies with market power internationally All these analyses are present in the 25 articles written for this publication by IBRAC We have articles focused on traditional methods of analysis in traditional markets as well as articles addressing new trends and recent discussions in digital markets and platforms In times of pandemic and economic crisis as expected approaches to prices and pricing strategies are recurring themes in the works compiled here Optimal

Data Privacy and Competition Law in the Age of Big Data Samson Y. Esayas, 2024-06-24 The monetization of personal data has become an increasingly common business practice igniting global debate on the interface between data privacy law and competition law Data Privacy and Competition Law in the Age of Big Data provides a comprehensive novel and interdisciplinary analysis of this nexus Drawing insights from emergent properties and complexity science the book exposes the commonalities and conflicts between how data privacy law and competition law address challenges resulting from the commercialization of personal data Samson Y Esayas begins by identifying key shifts in big data the growing trend of processing personal data for diverse purposes the aggregation of data across various operations and the shift from offering stand alone products and services to ecosystems of several with personal data central in connecting the different markets These shifts engender a complex economic landscape marked by multiple actors a web of interactions and non linear emergent outcomes Despite this complexity the prevailing approach to data privacy law and competition law emphasises isolated units of analysis whether a relevant market or a distinct processing operation This approach overlooks system wide emergent risks borne of cumulative processing operations and cross market practices Additionally a mindset focused on either data privacy law or competition law overlooks the increasing intersection between the two regimes missing opportunities for synergy In light of these challenges Esayas s volume calls for recalibrating data privacy law and competition law for a complex economy emphasizing a holistic systems level perspective that addresses emergent harms and a polycentric strategy that leverages the strengths of each legal regime

Intellectual Property and Antitrust Mariateresa Maggolino, 2011-01-01 This book brings to bear Professor Maggolino s considerable skills as a comparative competition law scholar on what is perhaps the single most important competition policy issue facing us today namely how to use IP policy and competition policy in tandem to further both economic competition and competition in innovation Professor Maggolino s book covers a large range of IP practices by dominant firms where competition law can be invoked including sham litigation and product design improper infringement actions predation and refusals to license This book is well researched well written and completely up to date Every serious competition law antitrust and intellectual property scholar and practitioner should regard it as must reading
