Appiah, Kwame Anthony. "Is the Post- in Postmodernism in the Post- in Postcolonial?" Critical Inquiry 17, no. 2 (1991): 336-357.

- Kwame Anthony Appiah is a philosopher and cultural theorist who has a lot of focus on Africa and African Americans. Appiah uses this article to present and argue about the "post" terms of postmodernism and postcolonial in regards to African Art. This article is helpful in defining how the terms of postmodernism and postcolonial relate to African art.

Barber, Charles. "The Truth in Painting: Iconoclasm and Identity in Early-Medieval Art." Speculum 72, no. 4 (1997): 1019-1036.

- Charles Barber is a professor of medieval art and Byzantine studies at the University of Notre Dame. In this article, Barber addresses reasons behind iconoclasm within the Jewish culture and the cultural attitudes toward religious art. Iconoclasm is an issue in global art because of the destruction of historical artworks.

Belting, Hans. "Contemporary Art as Global Art: A Critical Estimate." (2009).

- Hans Belting is an art historian from Germany. Although English is not his first language, Belting does a nice job of pointing out issues and criticisms within contemporary and global art. This article defines the differences between the terms "contemporary art" and "global art" and how those terms affect the art history world.

Branham, Joan R. "Sacrality and Aura in the Museum: Mute Objects and Articulate Space." The Journal of the Walters Art Gallery 52/53, (1994/1995): 33-47.

- Joan Branham is a professor of art history at Providence College and has a special interest in Judaism and Christianity iconography. Branham discusses sacred space and aura within the museum. The religious art can become stripped of any sacredness from the original site, but there is also the ability of the museum to attempt to honor the sacredness by reconstructing the original setting. There are issues with both options and this will continue to be an issue for museums in any country.

Branham, Joan R. "Sacred Space under Erasure in Ancient Synagogues and Early Churches." Art Bulletin 74, no. 3 (1992): 375-394.

Shadows in the Field Gregory F. Barz, Timothy J. Cooley, 1996-11-21 This work written by ethnomusicologists considers fieldwork as an issue laden practice rather than as a methodology requiring a prescriptive manual The contributors to this volume challenge the notion of fieldwork its goals the nature of knowledge gained in fieldwork and the place of fieldwork in historical studies The book ranges widely through the history of the discipline of ethnomusicology and the key theoretical issues to be addressed including ethics politics gender and relations with the people studied in the contemporary fieldwork environment It represents the most significant aspects of the new ethnography shifting the balance away from the data collecting model of fieldwork toward an approach that is reflexive humanistic and experiential

The Chicago Guide to Collaborative Ethnography Luke Eric Lassiter, 2024-05-31 Collaboration between ethnographers and subjects has long been a product of the close intimate relationships that define ethnographic research But increasingly collaboration is no longer viewed as merely a consequence of fieldwork instead collaboration now preconditions and shapes research design as well as its dissemination As a result ethnographic subjects are shifting from being informants to being consultants The emergence of collaborative ethnography highlights this relationship between consultant and ethnographer moving it to center stage as a calculated part not only of fieldwork but also of the writing process itself The Chicago Guide to Collaborative Ethnography presents a historical theoretical and practice oriented road map for this shift from incidental collaboration to a more conscious and explicit collaborative strategy Luke Eric Lassiter charts the history of collaborative ethnography from its earliest implementation to its contemporary emergence in fields such as feminism humanistic anthropology and critical ethnography On this historical and theoretical base Lassiter outlines concrete steps for achieving a more deliberate and overt collaborative practice throughout the processes of fieldwork and writing As a participatory action situated in the ethical commitments between ethnographers and consultants and focused on the co construction of texts collaborative ethnography argues Lassiter is among the most powerful ways to press ethnographic fieldwork and writing into the service of an applied and public scholarship A comprehensive and highly accessible handbook for ethnographers of all stripes The Chicago Guide to Collaborative Ethnography will become a fixture in the development of a critical practice of anthropology invaluable to both undergraduates graduate students and faculty alike

Overseas Research Christopher Brendan Barrett, Jeffrey W. Cason, 1997 Scholars and students engaged in overseas research projects often spend much of their time worrying about mundane details never reported in published research In fact the quality of scholarship often depends on the researcher's ability to navigate a bewildering array of social financial bureaucratic and logistical obstacles encountered in preparing for working in and recovering from the field Overseas Research A Practical Guide is the first book designed explicitly to prepare scholars and professionals for the real life challenges of living and working abroad Opening with a discussion of site selection and project funding the authors advise researchers on preparing for departure setting up residence in the field conducting research in an unfamiliar environment employing field assistants and organizing for and adjusting to the return home The text is supplemented with the insights anecdotes and tips from more than sixty scholars in a wide variety of disciplines who conducted research in more than forty countries

Islanders of the South Paul van der Grijp, 2021-08-16 Islanders of the South is an ethnography of the kingdom of Tonga in the South Pacific This is the first book to examine the interplay of Polynesian and Western ideas within contemporary social and economic practices not from the point of view of Tongan aristocracy but from that of the common people The first describes contemporary Tongan society and the main means of subsistence agriculture fishing and manufacturing An analysis of the kinship system with its economic political and ideological dimensions is intertwined with a discussion of Tongan attitudes on life and death marriage and divorce social rights and obligations migration and remittances Later chapters deal with the crucial questions of land ownership and the circulation of gifts A large number of genealogies biographies and case studies help convey how Tongans live together and how they experience their relationship to nature Effects on Tonga of global developments predominantly capitalist in nature are expressed in the commercialization of the means of subsistence bringing about changes often regarded as progress The author raises doubts about this ideology of progress by referring to aspects of nature and culture in Tonga which are disappearing Up to now Tongans have largely been able to preserve the circulation of gifts and economic self sufficiency

Overseas Research II , The Ethnographer's Magic and Other Essays in the History of Anthropology George W. Stocking, 1992 George Stocking has been widely recognized as the premier historian of anthropology ever since the publication of his first volume of essays Race Culture and Evolution in 1968 As editor of several publications including the highly acclaimed History of Anthropology series he has led the movement to establish the history of anthropology as a recognized research specialization In addition to the study Victorian Anthropology his work includes numerous essays covering a wide range of anthropological topics The eight essays collected in The Ethnographer's Magic consider the emergence of anthropology since the late nineteenth century as an academic discipline grounded in systematic fieldwork Drawing extensively on unpublished manuscript materials the essays focus primarily on Franz Boas and Bronislaw Malinowski the leading figures in the American and the British academic fieldwork traditions According to George Marcus of Rice University the essays represent the most informative and insightful writings on Malinowski and Boas and their legacies that are yet available Beyond their biographical material the essays here touch upon major themes in the history of anthropology its powerfully mythic aspect and persistent strain of romantic primitivism the contradictions of its relationship to the larger sociopolitical sphere its problematic integration of a variety of natural scientific and humanistic inquiries and the tension between its scientific aspirations and its subjectively acquired data To provide an overview against which to read the other essays Stocking has also included a sketch of the history of anthropology from the ancient Greeks to the present For this collection Stocking has written prefatory commentaries for each of the essays as well as two more extended contextualizing pieces An introductory essay Retrospective Prescriptive Reflections places the volume in autobiographical and historiographical context the Afterword Postscriptive Prospective Reflections reconsiders major themes of the essays in relation to the recent past and present situation of academic anthropology
