Anthropology and/as Education Tim Ingold, 2017-09-05 There is more to education than teaching and learning and more to anthropology than making studies of other people's lives Here Tim Ingold argues that both anthropology and education are ways of studying and of leading life with others In this provocative book he goes beyond an exploration of the interface between the disciplines of anthropology and education to claim their fundamental equivalence Taking inspiration from the writings of John Dewey Ingold presents his argument in four close knit chapters Education he contends is not the transmission of authorised knowledge from one generation to the next but a way of attending to things opening up paths of growth and discovery What does this mean for the ways we think about study and the school teaching and learning and the freedoms they exemplify And how does it bear on the practices of participation and observation on ways of study in the field and in the school on art and science research and teaching and the university Written in an engaging and accessible style this book is intended as much for educationalists as for anthropologists It will appeal to all who are seeking alternatives to
