Marjorie M. Schweitzer, 1991-06-19 During the 1970s Comparative Cultural Gerontology or the Anthropology of Aging with its focus on aging from a cross cultural perspective attained the status of a new speciality in the field of anthropology It was only in the late 1960s to the mid 70s that elderly people and the process of aging became recognized as a bona fide research topic for anthropology Majorie M Schweitzer s Anthropology of Aging looks at aging from this cross cultural perspective and updates the Association for Anthropology and Gerontology's previously published Topical Bibliography and the Supplement to the Topical Bibliography on the Anthropology of Aging. Schweitzer focuses on citations that represent anthropological perspectives and or cross cultural data with data from other disciplines included when warranted. Besides a greatly expanded number of bibliographical references, Schweitzer's work includes annotations for particularly important citations including those that address special issues such as method and theory as they relate to aging and those that provide the clearest treatment of a particular topic. The topical outline of the 1982 volume has been retained with only minor additions and changes making the Bibliography both easy to use and a rich resource for researchers. Over 40 international scholars in the field of aging have updated the various sections of the original bibliography. Organized according to two kinds of topics: subject topics such as Modernization and regional cultural group topics such as Great Britain, American Indian, the reference contains 14 chapters that investigate research on the subject from Africa to the Pacific Rim, USSR, USA, Europe, Israel and more. Beginning with a chapter that zeroes in on general theoretical and comparative works, the volume proceeds with chapters that examine demography, biology and longevity, medical aspects of aging, non industrialized societies, national cultures, modernization and ethnic rural segments of the United States. The last six chapters examine social structure, community organization and age homogeneous residences, urban aged, social networks, support systems, women, death and dying and methods. The final chapter contains a list of additional bibliographies. A must for most research libraries, this comprehensive bibliography will be widely used by teachers, students, researchers, social workers, service providers and administrators from many different disciplines.

Women Among Women Jeanette Dickerson-Putman, Judith K. Brown, 1998. Cross cultural in nature, the volume looks at relationships between women of different age groups in a village in Taiwan, a town in central Sudan, a rural setting in western Kenya, an Andean peasant community, a horticultural village in Melanesia and an Aboriginal community in Australia. Adding an interspecies perspective is a study of two age groups of Japanese macaque monkeys. Included is an ethnographic bibliography that lists books with a wealth of information on women in sixty societies.

Encyclopedia of Medical Anthropology Carol R. Ember, Melvin Ember, 2003-12-31. Medical practitioners and the ordinary citizen are becoming more aware that we need to understand cultural variation in medical belief and practice. The more we know how health and disease are managed in different cultures, the more we can recognize what is culture bound in our own medical belief and practice. The Encyclopedia of Medical Anthropology is unique because it is the first reference work to describe the cultural practices relevant to health in the world's cultures and to provide an overview of important topics in medical anthropology. No other single reference work comes close to matching the depth and breadth of information on the varying cultural background of health and illness around the world. More than 100 experts, anthropologists and other social scientists have contributed their firsthand experience of medical cultures from around the world Biological Anthropology and Aging Douglas E. Crews, Ralph M. Garruto, 1994 This timely volume explores evolutionary cross cultural physiological environmental and pathological influences on variation in human biological aging Chapters by leading experts use models traditionally unique to anthropological research in order to illuminate human biological aging as a heterogeneous and variable process By explicitly emphasizing evolutionary biology and human variation the book presents the fascinating perspective of human biological aging as the end result of a set of co adapted genetic complexes associated with successful growth development reproduction and parenting of offspring While examining human life span and life history parameters as population level phenomena the book also emphasizes human phenotypic plasticity as key to understanding aging This broad evolutionary perspective is unique in biological gerontology a field that is often reductionist in method and theory The book is sure to appeal to students teachers and researchers of geriatrics gerontology biology and anthropology of aging and human population biology

Aging and Human Nature Mark Schweda, Michael Coors, Claudia Bozzaro, 2020-01-11 This book focuses on ageing as a topic of philosophical theological and historical anthropology It provides a systematic inventory of fundamental theoretical questions and assumptions involved in the discussion of ageing and old age What does it mean for human beings to grow old and become more vulnerable and dependent How can we understand the manifestations of ageing and old age in the human body How should we interpret the processes of change in the temporal course of a human life What impact does old age have on the social dimensions of human existence In order to tackle these questions the volume brings together internationally distinguished scholars from the fields of philosophy theology cultural studies social gerontology and ageing studies The collection of their original articles makes a twofold contribution to contemporary academic discourse On one hand it helps to clarify and deepen our understanding of ageing and old age by examining it from the fundamental point of view of philosophical theological and historical anthropology At the same time it also enhances and expands the discourses of philosophical theological and historical anthropology by systematically taking into account that human beings are essentially ageing creatures Aging Across Cultures Helaine Selin, 2022-01-01 This volume brings together chapters about aging in many non Western cultures from Africa and Asia to South America from American Indians to Australian and Hawaii

Aboriginals It also includes articles on other issues of aging such as falling dementia and elder abuse It was thought that in Africa or Asia elders were revered and taken care of This certainly used to be the case But the Western way has moved into these places and we now find that elders are often left on their own or in institutions as younger people have migrated to other cities and even countries Grandparents often find themselves being parents to their grandchildren a far cry from the kind of life they believed they would have as they aged This book will explore all these issues and will be of use to students and researchers in this relatively new field Old Age, Gender, Social Security in Africa and Europe LIT

Verlag, 2023-07-01 In the Decade of Healthy Ageing UN WHO this collection of essays contains interdisciplinary contributions

by authors from African and European cultures who address questions about the situation of old people in the past and present comparing the situation of men and women and focussing on their protection and care within society While at first glance it appears that the phenomena in the young African countries are completely different from those in European countries there is a certain convergence between the continents The challenges of migration globalisation and the climate crisis are triggering social transformation processes that are weakening older traditions The focus is on the dissolution of the extended family and the associated loss of the stabilising function within the framework of the so called intergenerational contract This development triggers crises However new models for organising old age are also developing Old people are finding new ways to organise their lives

Honouring Age Mona Tokarek LaFosse, 2023-12-05 We all age But how we understand age and aging depends on cultural context The early followers of Jesus experienced growing up and growing old in a world where more than a third of children never reached adulthood married women could expect to become widows and above all elders were to be honoured In the ancient Mediterranean expectations associated with one's age could be a source of social power as well as a source of tension within families and communities and between generations Honouring Age positions age as an essential aspect of communal identity and familial roles in the early Christian experience by examining one of the most contentious and perplexing texts in the New Testament the first letter to Timothy First Timothy reflects a one sided conversation between an older Paul and a younger Timothy in which the author hopes to influence both the old and young in fulfilling their traditional roles in the household of God It was a time of tumult and relations were fraught with potential consequences for the reputation of the nascent Christian community some children were neglecting their aging parents which was culturally unacceptable behaviour older women who should have been encouraging young widows to remarry were discouraging them exposing them to ridicule young men who should have been respectful to their elders were shamefully turning on them In recognizing the responsibilities of young and old to each other and the reputational damage they otherwise risked this study demonstrates that age is integral to understanding the complexities of 1 Timothy Drawing on modern ethnographies corroborated by ancient evidence to interpret social aspects of 1 Timothy Honouring Age shows convincingly that in emerging Christian communities in the ancient Mediterranean world age mattered
