Anthropological and historical sciences. Aesthetics and the sciences of art Jacques Havet, 2019-06-04 No detailed description available for Anthropological and historical sciences Aesthetics and the sciences of art Gender, Ethnicity, and Health Research Sana Loue, 2007-05-08 Health researchers routinely evaluate health and illness across subgroups defined by their sex gender ethnicity and race All too often these classifications are proffered as an explanation for any differences that may be detected for example in access to care frequency of disease or response to treatment Relatively few researchers however have examined what these classifications mean on a theoretical level or in the context of their own research Assume for example that a researcher concludes from his or her data that African Americans utilize certain surgical procedures less frequently than whites This conclusion may mean little without an examination of the various underlying issues Is there such a construct as race at all How were whites and African Americans classified as such Does this finding reflect inappropriate overutilization of the specific procedures among whites or inappropriate underutilization among African Americans To what extent are socioeconomic status and method of payment related to the less frequent use Are there differences in the manner in which health care providers present the various treatment options to whites and to African Americans that could account for these differences in utilization Are there differences in health care seeking and health care preferences between the two groups that would explain the difference in utilization Is the racial classification a surrogate measure for another variable that has remained unidentified and unmeasured All too often unfortunately such issues are ignored or lightly dismissed with an entreaty for additional research Human Behavioral Ecology Jeremy Koster, Brooke Scelza, Mary K.

Shenk, 2024-03-14 Human behavioral ecology HBE applies the principles of evolutionary theory and optimisation to the study of human behavioural and cultural diversity Among other things HBE attempts to explain variation in behaviour as adaptive solutions to the competing life history demands of growth development reproduction parental care and mate acquisition This book is a comprehensive introduction to the theoretical orientation and specific findings of HBE It consolidates the insights of evolution and human behaviour into a single volume that reflects the current state and future of the field It brings together leading scholars from across the evolutionary social sciences to provide a comprehensive and thought provoking review of the state of the topic Throughout the authors explain the latest developments in theory and highlight critical debates in the literature while also engaging readers with ethnographic insights and field based studies that remain at the core of human behavioral ecology

Physicians of Western Medicine Robert A. Hahn, Atwood D. Gaines, 1984-12-31 After putting down this weighty in all senses of the word collection the reader be she or he physician or social scientist will or at least should feel uncomfortable about her or his taken for granted commonsense therefore cultural understanding of medicine The editors and their collaborators show the medical leviathan warts and all for what it is changing pluralistic problematic powerful provocative What medicine proclaims itself to be unified scientific biological and not social non judgmental it is shown not to resemble very much Those matters about which medicine keeps fairly silent it turns out come closer to being central to its clinical practice managing errors and learning to conduct a shared moral discourse about mistakes handling issues of competence and competition among biomedical practitioners practicing in value laden contexts on problems for which social science is a more relevant knowledge base than biological science integrating folk and scientific models of illness in clinical communication among a large number of highly pertinent ethnographic insights that illuminate medicine in the chapters that follow

Medicine, Rationality and Experience Byron J. Good, 1994 Biomedicine is often thought to provide a scientific account of the human body and of illness In this view non Western and folk medical systems are regarded as systems of belief and subtly discounted This is an impoverished perspective for understanding illness and healing across cultures one that neglects many facets of Western medical practice and obscures its kinship with healing in other traditions Drawing on his research in several American and Middle Eastern medical settings in this 1993 book Professor Good develops a critical anthropological account of medical knowledge and practice He shows how physicians and healers enter and inhabit distinctive worlds of meaning and experience He explores how stories or illness narratives are joined with bodily experience in shaping and responding to human suffering and argues that moral and aesthetic considerations are present in routine medical practice as in other forms of healing

Illness Behavior Sean McHugh, T. Michael Vallis, 2012-12-06 In August 1985 the 2nd International Conference on Illness Behaviour was held in Toronto Ontario Canada The first International Conference took place one year previous in Adelaide South Australia Australia This book is based on the proceedings of the second conference The purpose behind this conference was to facilitate the development of a single integrated model to account for illness experience and presentation A major focus of the conference was to outline methodological issues related to current behaviour research A multidisciplinary approach was emphasized because of the bias that collaborative efforts are likely to be the most successful in achieving greater understanding of illness behaviour Significant advances in our knowledge are occurring in all areas of the biological and social sciences albeit more slowly in the latter areas. Marked specialization in each of these areas has led to greater difficulty in integrating new knowledge with that of other areas and the development of a meaningful cohesive model to which all can relate. Thus there is a major need for forums such as that provided by this conference.

Ethnography and Development Richard Frank Salisbury, Harvey A. Feit, 2004 This volume commemorates and explores the life and work of anthropologist Richard F Salisbury 1926-1989 who had immense influence in the areas of economic anthropology, development, ethnographic practice, New Guinea, northern Canada, and policy formation.

Clinically Applied Anthropology N. Chrisman, T. Maretzki, 2012-12-06 like other collections of papers related to a single topic, this volume arose out of problem sharing and problem solving discussions among some of the authors. The two principal recurring issues were 1) the difficulties in translating anthropological knowledge so that our students could use it and 2) the difficulties of bringing existing medical anthropology literature to bear on this task. As we talked to other anthropologists teaching in other parts of the country and in various health-related schools, we recognized that our problems were similar. Similarities in our solutions led the Editors to believe that publication of our teaching experiences and research relevant to teaching would help others and might begin the process of generating principles leading to a more coherent approach. Our colleagues supported this idea and agreed to contribute. What we agreed to write about was Clinically Applied Anthropology. Much of what we were doing and certainly much of the relevant literature was applied anthropology. And our target group was composed mostly of clinicians. The utility of the term became apparent after 1979 when another set of anthropologists began to discuss clinical Anthropology. They too recognized the range of novel behaviors available to anthropologists in the health science arena and chose to focus on the clinical use of anthropology. We see this as an important endeavor but very different from what we are proposing.

Handbook of Health Behavior Research I David S. Gochman, 1997-08-31 The primary objective of this Handbook is to provide statements about health behaviour research as a basic body of knowledge moving into the 21st century. It is expected that the Handbook will remain in use and current through 2005 at least. The Handbook presents a broad and representative selection of mid 1990s health behaviour findings and concepts in a single work. While texts and books of readings are available in related areas such as health psychology, medical anthropology, medical sociology, behavioural health, behavioural risk factors, and changing health behaviours, none of these works was intended to address basic research-generated knowledge of health behaviour and none was intended to transcend individual disciplines. Accordingly, none of these works presents a broad and representative spectrum of basic health behaviour research reflecting multidisciplinary activities. One work with a title identical to this one but for one word the Handbook of Health Behaviour Change Shumaker et al 1990 deals almost exclusively with applications This Handbook thus presents the reader with the state of the art in health behaviour research something not found elsewhere Choice Richard K. Gardner,Phyllis Grumm,1976 Recent Developments in Alcoholism Marc Galanter,2013-11-22 Each topic is covered in sufficient depth currency and clarity to be of value to the neophyte and the seasoned researcher clinician American Journal of Psychiatry from a review of a previous volume The current volume addresses a range of issues across this diverse field including the effects on society physiology and biochemistry clinical pathology and trends in treatment SRS Research Information System: Index; Volume II; Facilities Through Young Adults United States.
