Foundation for Anthropological Research,1955 Anthropology and the Behavioral and Health Sciences Otto von Mering,Leonard Kasdan,2010-11-23 This book acts as a catalyst for anthropology to foster research ties to its neighboring disciplines in the behavioral and health sciences It is an introspective and circumspective appraisal of the relevance of anthropology to these related disciplines and professions and assesses the usefulness of reciprocal borrowing of ideas and investigative tools among them Essays by scholars from several disciplines are included along with commentaries on each essay by noted social scientists Contributors Bernard S Cohn Albert Damon Jules Henry Donald L Hochstrasser Solon T Kimball Bertram S Kraus Wilton M Krogman Richard F Salisbury Harvey B Sarles Richard G Snyder Jesse W Tapp Jr Otto von Mering and Murray L Wax Description and Comparison in Cultural Anthropology Ward H. Goodenough,1980 How are different cultures to be described and compared This book provides a clear and concise discussion of the theoretical issues involved in ethnographic description and comparative study Taking up the classic problems in the study of of social organisation Professor Goodenough describes the major issues in the cross cultural study of kinship and the family revealing the kinds of constants both formal and functional on which such study must be based The result is new definitions of marriage family and parenthood for use in cross cultural analysis and a greater understanding of this form of analysis itself The statement on the interdependence of description and comparison in cultural anthropology and its implications for a science of culture provides fresh insights into cross cultural analysis for both the theoretical and the practical anthropologist

Robert Redfield and the Development of American Anthropology Clifford Wilcox,2006-01-01 Relying upon close readings of virtually all of his published and unpublished writings as well as extensive interviews with former colleagues and students Robert Redfield and the Development of American Anthropology traces the development of Robert Redfield s ideas regarding social change and the role of social science in American society Clifford Wilcox s exploration of Redfield s pioneering efforts to develop an empirically based model of the transformation of village societies into towns and cities is intended to recapture

Gilkeson, 2010-09-20 This book examines the intersection of cultural anthropology and American cultural nationalism from 1886 when Franz Boas left Germany for the United States until 1965 when the National Endowment for the Humanities was established Five chapters trace the development within academic anthropology of the concepts of culture social class national character value and civilization and their dissemination to non anthropologists As Americans came to think of culture anthropologically as a complex whole far broader and more inclusive than Matthew Arnold s the best which has been thought and said so too did they come to see American communities as stratified into social classes distinguished by their subcultures to attribute the making of the American character to socialization rather than birth to locate the distinctiveness of American culture in its unconscious canons of choice and to view American culture and civilization in a global perspective
