Anthropology Vol 34:

Against Relativism Ruth Macklin, 1999 This book analyzes the debate surrounding cultural diversity and its implications for ethics If ethics are relative to particular cultures or societies then it is not possible to hold that there are any fundamental human rights The author examines the role of cultural tradition often used as a defense against critical ethical judgments and explores key issues in health and medicine in the context of cultural diversity the physician patient relationship disclosing a diagnosis of a fatal illness informed consent brain death and organ transplantation rituals surrounding birth and death female genital mutilation sex selection of offspring fertility regulation and biomedical research involving human subjects Among the conclusions the author reaches are that ethical universals exist but must not be confused with ethical absolutes The existence of ethical universals is compatible with a variety of culturally relative interpretations and some rights related to medicine and health care should be considered human rights Illustrative examples are drawn from the author's experiences serving on international ethical review committees and her travels to countries in Africa Asia and Latin America where she conducted educational workshops and carried out her own research (Un)sighted Archives of Migration Cathrine Bublatzky, Fiona Siegenthaler, 2022-11-28 Un sighted Archives of Migration acknowledges that migration is a fundamental part of social practice and collective memory However archives that have undergone migration or were established by individuals or communities with migration experience gain little public and institutional attention This volume with its transversal perspective across the fields of art anthropology and social activism offers new perspectives on the enormous potential of migratory archives as resourceful spaces for encounter and remembrance and as a contribution to the plural collective memories and identities of post migratory societies Emphasizing the archival agency by migrants the chapters raise new questions with regard to the multi directional collaborative forms of knowledge production within and beyond an archive its boundaries and its materiality Focusing on the complexities of power relations spatial and temporal dynamics media practices and meaning production involved in the making maintenance viewing appropriation destruction and loss of such archives the chapters contribute to a critical methodological and theoretical discussion about un sighted archives as spaces of encounter and resistance in a liminal zone of visibility and invisibility This book was originally published as a special issue of Visual Anthropology General Anthropology Franz Boas, 1944 Ideas and Trends in World Anthropology Charles Frantz, 1981 Publications in Archeology, 1974 Anthropology of Dying Mira Menzfeld, 2017-10-10 Mira Menzfeld explores dying persons experiences of their own dying processes She reveals cultural specificities of pre exital dying in contemporary Germany paying special attention to how concepts of dying un well are perceived and realized by dying persons Her methodological focus centers on classical ethnographic approaches Close participant observation as well as informal and semi structured conversations For a better understanding of the specificities of dying in contemporary Germany the author provides a refined definition catalogue of adequate terms to describe dying force Wandering God explores the meaning of Paleolithic art the origins of social inequality the nature of cross cultural child rearing the relationship between women and agriculture and the world view of present day nomadic peoples as well as the emergence of paradoxical consciousness in the philosophical writings of the twentieth century Human origin sites and the World Heritage Convention in the Americas, volume I UNESCO Office Mexico,2015-12-31 Southwestern Journal of Anthropology ,1957 Archaeology of the High Plains James H. anthropologist Maurice Godelier highlights an essential fact the spontaneously asocial and undifferentiated character of human sexuality and the need for a social regulation of this spontaneity It thus brings to light the main teachings of anthropology on the question of incest a major social fact of burning relevance today Computer Applications in the Social Sciences Edward E. Brent, Ronald E. Anderson, 1990 Presenting an introduction to computing and advice on computer applications this book examines hardware and software with respect to the needs of the social scientist It offers a framework for the use of computers with focus on the work station the center of which is a personal computer connected to networks by a telephone based modem
