Anthropology For Contemporaneous Worlds:

An Anthropology for Contemporaneous Worlds Marc Augé, 1999 Under what conditions is anthropology possible today when a crisis of social meaning a crisis that makes it more difficult to conceive and manage our relation to the other makes the need for anthropology appear more clearly than ever before This book sets forth at least the beginning of an answer to this question The volume's title combines a singular noun anthropology with a plural one contemporaneous worlds It aims to register the double movement of universalization and particularization that is simultaneously affecting the entire planet Social anthropology has always taken into account the context of the groups and phenomena it studied Today while multiplicity is being maintained or more precisely renewed that context has become in all cases planetary Positioned in opposition not only to political theories of universalization and uniformization more or less tied to the theme of the end of history but also to postmodernist versions of anthropological theories of multiplicity and relativism the author argues that social anthropology through its self-critical tradition is fully capable of adapting to the accelerated change that is continuously recomposing relations between universalism and particularisms It is for social anthropology to select analyze and understand the new modes of sociality and the new spaces in which not without calamities and contradictions these utterly new recompositions a major aspect of our contemporary world manifest themselves Cultural Studies Approaches in the Study of Eastern European Cinema Andrea Virginás, 2017-01-06 The spatial the bodily and the memory turn in the humanities and cultural studies are well canonized developments These features of our being in the world are fundamental in the medium of cinema which is an art of spaces bodies and memories increasingly so today when the analogue platform has been running parallel with the digitalized method of filmmaking The three nodal concepts define the tripartite structure of this volume composed of an overview study and twelve case studies of post 1989 Eastern European film and cinema The overarching questions of space representation and construction bodies on screen issues of national identification in a postcolonial framework and cinema as a form of cultural memory are explored through the lens of specific national cinemas or contemporary Croatian Hungarian Polish Serbian Slovakian Slovenian and Romanian films In addition to investigating the cohesive forces that mark the postcommunist Eastern European region as a coherent cultural entity in its cinematic representations the volume also stands as a witness to the importance of transnational approaches A Sense for the Other Marc Augé, Marc Augé, 1998 This approach to anthropology focuses on negotiating the social meanings used in making sense of the world and on the processes of identification that create the difference between same and other Exile and Post-1946 Haitian Literature Martin Munro, ADA Belle Winthrop-King Professor of French Martin Munro, 2007-01-01 Haitian writing is one of the richest literary traditions in the Americas and yet is little known outside of Haiti This book is an introduction to this literature focusing on the period from 1946 to the present a time in which exile has become the dominant theme in Haitian writing Reading post 1946 Haitian writing as a literature of exile the chapters analyze key novels by the

Schatzki, 2010-04-12 This book shows that a concept of activity timespace drawn from the work of Martin Heidegger provides new insights into the nature of activity society and history

Although the book is a work of theory it has significant implications for the determination and course not just of activity but of sociohistorical change as well Drawing on empirical examples the book argues 1 that timespace is a key component of the overall space and time of social life 2 that interwoven timespaces form an essential infrastructure of important social phenomena such as power coordinated actions social organizations and social systems and 3 that history encompasses constellations of indeterminate temporalspatial events The latter conception of history in turn yields a propitious account of how the past exists in the present In addition because the concept of activity timespace highlights the teleological character of human action the book contains an extensive defense of the teleological character of such allegedly ateleological forms of activity as emotional and ceremonial actions Since finally the book's ideas about timespace and activity as an indeterminate event derive from an interpretation of Heidegger the work furthers understanding of the relevance of his thought for social and historical theory The book combines textual interpretation theoretical argumentation and empirical substantiation Many of its empirical examples are taken from the Blue Grass Horse Country around Lexington Kentucky where the author resides
