Fetal Feminization

1. What kind of intersexuality is induced by cyproterone acetate?

The specific form of intersexuality induced by antiandrogens occurs spontaneously in humans and also in some other species and is called testicular feminization.

Figure 11 shows such a person; these individuals are genetically and gonadally male, but they lack an internal efferent genital tract. The vagina ends blindly. In general, the presence of intersexuality is recognised in these persons only when menstruation fails to occur during puberty (absence of a uterus).

Figure 12 shows schematically the form of intersexuality which results in the male sex when androgens do not become effective in the phase of sexual differentiation. The reconstruction is based on serial sections of dog foetuses from the 45th day of foetal development. The testes have not yet descended at this time. It can be seen that the foetus whose mother was treated with cyproterone acetate (10 mg/kg) from the 25th to the 44th day displays normal testes. Plewig, A.M. Kligman, 2012-12-06 Twenty five years have elapsed since the first publication of this book The growth of basic knowledge since then has been both enormous and momentous This has been a joyous enterprise for us Our ability to treat acne and rosacea effectively has outpaced the vastly expanded understanding of their etiologies Acne today is not only an eminently treatable disease in some cases for example is actually curable We think that no case is so severe as to please acne conglobata it be beyond help with the array of diverse drugs now available Treatment failure is really physician failure Prevention of acne in high risk children has also become a promising possibility now that it is possible to identify small comedones in prepuberty as early as the age of 7 years Topical comedolytic agents such as retinoids prescribed at the incipient stage might then prevent the evolution of the full fledged disorder This therapeutic maneuver could prevent the dreaded sequel of scarring We adhere firmly to the beliefs expressed in 1975 regarding our mission This text is dedicated to the dermatologists and other practitioners who must diagnose and treat these disfiguring remarkably protean common disorders National Library of Medicine Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), 1989 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70 ACNE and ROSACEA Gerd Plewig, Albert M. Kligman, 2012-12-06 One Picture Is Worth a Thousand Words CONFUCIUS The material on which this account is based derives from observations of several thousand of adolescents with acne All have been treated many hundreds have been biopsied and have participated in various tests These constitute our bona fides Our plan and intentions are as follows Firstly we have sought to create a portfolio of still life pictures of the gross and microscopic anatomy of acne

This will be a photographic record of what acne looks like of its usual and unusual features its arch typical as well as of its recondite visages Secondly we wish to create a moving picture of acne rather than an atlas We hope the reader will have the feeling of being in a theater watching an unusual drama Since anatomy can only come to life when animated by physiology a vigorous attempt has been made to collate function with structure It is the eye that observes but it is the mind that sees Finally this book is intended for those who wish to understand and treat acne more effectively The themes are programmed for the clinician This book will be chiefly a didactic account and not a detailed report of research We present ourselves as teachers not as investigators We conceive it to be the prime mission of medical research to learn how to identify prevent and treat the disease We shall present our personal therapeutic strategies the ones we use to treat acne patients
