Aspects Of The Belfast Agreement:

Aspects of the Belfast Agreement Richard A. Wilford, 2023 Experts on the politics and constitution of Northern Ireland explore and analyse aspects of the 1998 Belfast Agreement focusing on the motives of its negotiators The Peacebuilding Elements of the Belfast Agreement and the Transformation of the Northern Ireland Conflict Cornelia Albert, 2009 The aim of this book is to analyse whether the implementation of the peacebuilding elements of the Belfast Agreement contributed to the transformation of the protracted Northern Ireland Conflict Therefore this book deals with the following sections of the Agreement Rights Safeguards and Equality of Opportunity Decommissioning Security Policing and Justice and Prisoners The author comes to the conclusion that the majority of the peacebuilding elements contributed to the transformation of the Northern Ireland Conflict The results of the study were obtained in conducting interviews in consulting surveys and in studying reports and other relevant literature on the recent developments in Northern Ireland The Territorial Management of Ethnic Conflict John Coakley, 2004-08-02 The object of this book is to look at the manner in which states attempt to cope with ethnic conflict through territorial approaches This revised edition has new chapters covering Northern Ireland South Africa and Yugoslavia The Making and Remaking of the Good Friday Agreement Paul Bew, 2007 A collection of essays from a Professor of Irish Politics at Queens University Belfast discusses the many crises which have paralyzed the power sharing institutions in Northern Ireland since 2002 The Politics of Northern Ireland Arthur Aughey, 2005-01-27 In this book one of the leading authorities on contemporary Northern Ireland politics provides an original sophisticated and innovative examination of the post Belfast agreement political landscape Written in a fluid witty and accessible style this book explores how the Belfast Agreement has changed the politics of Northern Ireland whether the peace process is still valid the problems caused by the language of politics in Northern Ireland the conditions necessary to secure political stability the inability of unionists and republicans to share the same political discourse the insights that political theory can offer to Northern Irish politics the future of key political parties and institutions "Good Friday Agreement". Perspectives on the Northern Irish peace process Enrico Schlickeisen, 2019-03-07 Seminar paper from the year 2016 in the subject Politics Topic Peace and Conflict Security grade 2 3 University of Rostock language English abstract The Troubles in Northern Ireland were one of the main concerns for both British and Irish politics ever since the late 1960s However the roots of the conflict reach back centuries and have been the cause for immense bloodshed and more than 3 200 casualties These earlier stages of the conflict as well as its course in general are to be neglected in this paper whereas the emphasis is to be on the Good Friday Agreement or Belfast Agreement of 1998 as the political marking line between war and peace as well as the developments up to the present Although the end of violence as primary goal of the Agreement was largely achieved in most parts of Northern Ireland there are still developments that run contrary to a notion of peace These developments will subsequently be analyzed to identify weaknesses of the Good Friday

Agreement and make statements about the success of the peace process possible and ultimately make assumptions about the hindrances of said peace process to this day The indicator used to make said assumptions will be Wolff's post agreement reconstruction model which was already used to analyze the progress of the peace process in 2002 which led to a very cautious prognosis for the coming years This paper's task is therefore to apply the post agreement reconstruction model to today's situation to make a statement about the success of the Good Friday Agreement more than 18 years after it was signed Due to the shortness of this paper an emphasis will be laid on social psychological and security indicators for the success of post agreement reconstruction Furthermore the particular contents of the Belfast Agreement in their entirety are not to be listed here However for an analysis of the current situation in Northern Ireland it is necessary to consider at least some of the crucial points that contain the potential to obstruct the peace process or further entrench the sectarian division of Northern Ireland

Devolution, Regionalism and Regional Development Jonathan Bradbury, 2007-12-18 Devolution Regionalism and Regional Development provides an overview and critical perspective on the impact of devolution on regionalism in the UK since 1999 taking a research based look at issues central to the development of regionalism politics governance and planning This multidisciplinary book is written by academics from the fields of geography economics town planning public policy management public administration politics and sociology with a final chapter by Patrick Le Gales putting the research findings into a theoretical context This will be an important book for those researching and studying economic and political geography and planning as well as those involved in regional development

A Farewell to Arms? Michael Cox, Adrian Guelke, Fiona Stephen, 2006-04-18 This comprehensive and original study is the first to explain in detail how the Good Friday Agreement ran into trouble why we are still some way from a final settlement but why a return to war is most unlikely even in an age where global terror now threatens world order more seriously than at any time in the past This new edition of an established authoritative text will be essential reading for students researchers and academics of Irish politics conflict and peace studies and international relations

Elements of Peacemaking Revolutions Sapir Handelman, 2021-09-24 Intractable conflict is a protracted violent and long time struggle wherein generation after generation is socially conditioned to continue fighting To break the chain of destruction a revolutionary peacemaking process is required This book serves as an introduction to the study of peacemaking revolutions which are necessary to build a peaceful and well functioning society in desperate intractable conflict situations The challenge of peacemaking revolution is to turn opposing parties into a peacemaking community A peacemaking community offers political platforms to involve the different societal elements of the opposing parties in the struggle for change It offers a consensus building process that approaches the conflict from different sides dimensions and directions This book provides a fresh perspective to the study of destructive social conflicts their transformation and resolution It will serve to provoke a critical discussion among those who are interested in the new emerging study of peacemaking revolutions

Negotiating a Settlement in Northern Ireland, 1969-2019 John Coakley, Jennifer Todd, 2020 This book addresses the topical question of Northern Ireland's peace process and the manner in which it was negotiated

Settling Self-Determination Disputes Marc Weller, Barbara Metzger, 2008-01-31 The study is the result of an international collaborative project supported and funded by the Carnegie Corporation of New York This multi year venture has involved a research team of some forty chapter authors and commentators The research has been accompanied by three major workshops on project methodology initial chapter reviews and final discussions A point was made of including both scholars and practitioners involved in power sharing settlements in the review process in the hope that more would be learned about the actual implementation of the settlements under investigation The project team was united in its wish to explore whether long standing secessionist conflicts have been addressed effectively through the significant number of self determination settlements that were generated in response to the wave of internal conflicts of the 1990s It was also committed to testing whether consociationalist and integrative techniques of conflict settlement really are as mutually exclusive as is sometimes supposed or whether they can in fact be mutually reinforcing Finally the project derives its impetus from the necessity to critically rethink the doctrine of self determination One may question whether its traditional restrictive interpretation will be adequate in confronting the wide variety of future challenges to the territorial integrity of states
