Aspects Of Religious Belief Practice I:

Religion, Belief and Unbelief Antoon Vergote, 2024-03-11 This book focuses attention on the central elements of human religious existence Vergote's primary aim and viewpoint are clear to examine empirically and to interpret dynamically the psychological factors at work in the field of religion Vergote consistently adheres to the position that psychology is neither philosophy nor theology and that its task is not to explain religion In this work he situates religion as a cultural fact and studies how persons orient themselves to it positively and or negatively Rather than emphasise and juxtapose belief and unbelief as alternative positions he sees them as threads of experiences interwoven throughout the human existence of persons and institutions In this context he studies motivations and their ambivalences religious experiences and their ambiguities conflicts between religious belief and unbelief and the various expressions and practices of religion Dividing the Faith Richard J. Boles, 2020-12-29 Uncovers the often overlooked participation of African Americans and Native Americans in early Protestant churches Phillis Wheatley was stolen from her family in Senegambia and in 1761 slave traders transported her to Boston Massachusetts to be sold She was purchased by the Wheatley family who treated Phillis far better than most eighteenth century slaves could hope and she received a thorough education while still of course longing for her freedom After four years Wheatley began writing religious poetry She was baptized and became a member of a predominantly white Congregational church in Boston More than ten years after her enslavement began some of her poetry was published in London England as a book titled Poems on Various Subjects Religious and Moral This book is evidence that her experience of enslavement was exceptional Wheatley remains the most famous black Christian of the colonial era Though her experiences and accomplishments were unique her religious affiliation with a predominantly white church was quite ordinary Dividing the Faith argues that contrary to the traditional scholarly consensus a significant portion of northern Protestants worshipped in interracial contexts during the eighteenth century Yet in another fifty years such an affiliation would become increasingly rare as churches were by and large segregated Richard Boles draws from the records of over four hundred congregations to scrutinize the factors that made different Christian traditions either accessible or inaccessible to African American and American Indian peoples By including Indians Afro Indians and black people in the study of race and religion in the North this research breaks new ground and uses patterns of church participation to illuminate broader social histories Overall it explains the dynamic history of racial integration and segregation in northern colonies and states

Religion as a Social Determinant of Public Health Ellen L. Idler, 2014 Frequently in partnership but sometimes at odds religious institutions and public health institutions work to improve the well being of their communities There is increasing awareness among public health professionals and the general public that the social conditions of poverty lack of education income inequality poor working conditions and experiences of discrimination play a dominant role in determining health status But this broad view of the social determinants of health has largely ignored the role of religious practices and institutions in shaping the life conditions of billions around the globe In Religion as a Social Determinant of Public Health leading scholars in the social sciences public health and religion address this omission by examining the embodied sacred practices of the world's religions the history of alignment and tension between religious and public health institutions the research on the health impact of religious practice throughout the life course and the role of religious institutions in health and development efforts around the globe In addition the volume explores religion's role in the ongoing epidemics of HIV AIDS and Alzheimer's disease as well as preparations for an influenza pandemic Together these groundbreaking essays help complete the picture of the social determinants of health by including religion which has until now been an invisible determinant

Being Catholic in the Contemporary Philippines Jayeel Serrano Cornelio, 2016-06-23 This book based on extensive original research examines the nature of Catholicism in the contemporary Philippines It shows how Catholicism is apparently flourishing with good attendance at Sunday Masses impressive religious processions and flourishing charismatic groups and with interventions by the Catholic hierarchy in national and local politics However focusing in particular on the beliefs and practices of young people the book shows that young people are often adopting a different more individualised approach to Catholicism which is frequently out of step with the official position It considers the features of this a more personal and experiential relationship with God a new approach to morality in which right living is seen as more important than right believing and a critical view of what is seen as the Catholic hierarchy's misguidedness The book argues that this reinterpreting of religion by young people has the potential to alter fundamentally the nature of Catholicism in the Philippines but that nevertheless young people's new approach involves a solid enduring commitment and a strong view of their own Catholic religious identity

Institutional Logics within Faith-Based Aid Nina G. Kurlberg, 2024-07-19. This book investigates what faith means in the actual day-to-day practice of faith-based NGOs working in the development, humanitarian, and advocacy sectors. Faith-based organisations play an extremely prominent role in international aid and development, operating within the same sphere as organisations without an explicit religious affiliation. This book uses the case study of a UK-based Christian faith-based organisation to develop an analytic tool using institutional logics. Through exploration of how various institutional logics are manifested and negotiated across organisational practice, the book describes how the telos or objective of the corporate logic to sustain the organisation interacts with the telos of the religious logic, namely to worship God. The book demonstrates that since organisational practices must ultimately work to sustain the organisation at the organisational level, faith is restricted to certain spaces and forms, while at the individual level, faith is dominant and active. Bringing a fresh perspective to discussions of religion and development by highlighting how faith influences development at the organisational level, this book will be an important read for researchers working on global development.
