the process of learning in higher education over the past ten years This interest has been expressed in various ways through large scale research projects international conferences the development of principles of assessment that supports learning a growing awareness of the role of feedback as an integral part of the learning process and the publication of exemplary assessment practices At the same time more limited attention has been given to the underlying nature of assessment to the concerns that arise when assessment is construed as a measurement process and to the role of judgement in evaluating the quality of students work It is now timely to take stock of some of the critical concepts that underpin our understanding of the multifarious relationships between assessment and learning and to explicate the nature of assessment as judgement Despite the recent growth in interest noted above assessment in higher education remains under conceptualized This book seeks to make a significant contribution to conceptualizing key aspects of assessment learning and judgement Rethinking expectations in the face of competing conditions New practices are being developed to enhance students participation especially in their own assessment be it though peer review reflective assessment the introduction of new technologies or other novel solutions Though widely researched few have measured these innovations effectiveness in terms of satisfaction perceived learning or performance improvements Innovative Practices for Higher Education Assessment and Measurement bridges the gap between political discourse theoretical approach and teaching practices in terms of assessment in higher education Bringing new insights and presenting novel strategies this publication brings forth a new perception of the importance of assessment and offers a set of successful innovative practices This book is ideal for educators administrators policy makers and students of education Assessment for Excellence Alexander W. Astin,Anthony Lising Antonio,2012-07-13 Assessment for Excellence introduces a philosophy of assessment based upon the talent development concept Colleges and universities prioritize developing the talents of students and faculty rather than gathering the most resources and status for their institutions The Input Assessment theory, policy, and practice in higher education Stefanie Hillen,Peter Wolcott,Connie Schaffer,Aleksandra Lazareva,Robert Gray,2022 Most faculty and administrators and even students in higher education feel that they have heard enough already about assessment As the editors of this collection however we do not think so Rather we believe that most professionals in higher education have not approached learning about assessment in the right way This anthology addresses tools theoretical perspectives and methods related to assessment in higher education across a variety of contexts such as teacher education vocational education and other disciplines at European universities with particular attention paid to assessment as feedback and how that influences student learning We offer the reader this opportunity to learn from the contributors research experiences and reflections regarding assessment as an educational tool Student Assessment in Higher Education Allen Horace Miller,Bradford William Imrie,Kevin Cox,1998 First Published in 1998 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Improving Assessment in Higher Education Stephen Marshall,Richard Henry,Prem Ramburuth,2013-12-01 All teaching institutions recognise the need to make continual improvements in the quality of teaching and learning But how in the resource constrained environments of universities can quality be improved without increasing resources to fund it The governing body at the University of New South Wales gave its president and vice chancellor three years to find a way to do just that in the area of student assessment Improving Assessment in Higher Education offers a wealth of detail on this innovative project which aimed to improve the efficiency of student assessment while maintaining and improving its quality Reconceptualising Feedback in Higher Education Stephen Merry,Margaret Price,David Carless,Maddalena Taras,2013-07-18 Feedback is a crucial element of teaching learning and assessment There is however substantial evidence that staff and students are dissatisfied with it and there is growing impetus for change Student Surveys have indicated that feedback is one of the most problematic aspects of the student experience and so particularly in need of further scrutiny Current practices waste both student learning potential and staff resources Up until now the ways of addressing these problems has been through relatively minor interventions based on the established model of feedback providing information but the change that is required is more fundamental and far reaching Reconceptualising Feedback in Higher Education coming from a think tank composed of specialist expertise in assessment feedback is a direct and more fundamental response to the impetus for change Its purpose is to challenge established beliefs and practices through critical evaluation of evidence and discussion of the renewal of current feedback practices In promoting a new conceptualisation and a repositioning of assessment feedback within an enhanced and more coherent paradigm of student learning this book analyses the current issues in feedback practice and their implications for student learning identifies the key characteristics of effective feedback practices explores the changes needed to feedback practice and how they can be brought about illustrates through examples how processes to promote and sustain effective feedback practices can be embedded in modern mass higher education Provoking academics to think afresh about the way they conceptualise and utilise feedback this book will help those with responsibility for strategic development of assessment at an institutional level educational developers course management teams researchers tutors and student representatives

Approaches to Assessment that Enhance Learning in Higher Education Stylianos Hatzipanagos, Rebecca Rochon, 2014-10-10 This book addresses the need to diversify mainstream forms of assessment currently used in Higher Education in order to re establish the focus on the learning process Making assessment central to student learning is about returning to what current research emphasises the primary beneficiary of assessment should be the student To achieve this in the assessment context students and tutors must engage in a process of dialogue and feedback It seems to be widely accepted that assessment succeeds when the learner monitors identifies and then is able to bridge the gap between current learning achievements and agreed goals It is however more questionable whether adequate opportunities are given to students to be active participants in closing what has been termed the loop Contributors to this book have responded in different ways to the challenge of enhancing learning through assessment offering reasons for the lack of focus on learning within assessment processes as well as suggesting possible solutions The chapters demonstrate a balance between innovation and practicality drawing on the underpinning theories The result is both rich in discussion and an extremely useful resource for practitioners This book was originally published as a special issue of Assessment Evaluation in Higher Education engage and retain a group of students of such diverse culture ethnicity ambition and experience Using examples from a variety of institutions worldwide this edited collection provides a well researched evidence base of current thinking and developments in assessment practices in higher education The chapters discuss Staff and student views on assessment Engaging students through assessment feedback Assessment for learning Assessing for employability Interdisciplinary and transnational assessment Technology supported assessment for retention The book draws together a wealth of expertise from a range of contributors including academic staff academic developers pedagogical researchers National Teaching Fellows and Centres for Excellence in Higher Education Recognising that a pedagogy which is embedded and taken for granted in one context might be completely novel in another the authors share best practice and evaluate evidence of assessment strategies to enable academic colleagues to make informed decisions about adopting new and creative approaches to assessment This interdisciplinary text will prove an invaluable tool for those working and studying in higher education
