Immunopharmacology of Epithelial Barriers Roy Goldie, 1994-04-05 The realisation that epithelial tissues are not simply passive barriers to the adsorption of materials into internal environments has brought about an enormous growth of investigation of mucosal functions and their active and passive protective roles Epithelia are highly organized but complex structures subserving numerous functions including immunological defence The use of pharmacological tools in these systems is increasing which is improving our understanding of epithelial immunobiology This volume adopts a step by step approach whereby each chapter builds upon the previous one progressively adding important foundation information culminating in a series of chapters concerning particular epithelia including respiratory gastrointestinal renal and ocular The result is a comprehensive but integrated treatise of epithelial function and its immunopharmacology which aims to serve as an appropriate starting point at which the clinical pulmonologist and the research scientist can obtain an appreciation of some aspects of epithelial immunopharmacology as they are currently understood

Airway Smooth Muscle in Health and Disease R.F. Coburn, 2012-12-06 I organized this book because there is a need to put together in book form recent advances in our knowledge of how airway smooth muscle works in health and in disease After a period when it seemed that progress was very slow there has been in the past few years an incredibly rapid gathering of knowledge in this area In particular our understanding has improved regarding the cascades of events that follow the initial binding of agonist to plasma membrane receptors and that lead to the cross bridge movements that determine contraction This advance in our knowledge was stimulated by use of single and whole cell channel recordings of plasma membrane currents and by description of the  $\beta_3$  receptor GTP binding protein adenylate cyclase cAMP coupling system which serves as a model for other coupling mechanisms The discovery of the receptor activated inositol phospholipid transduction system has greatly stimulated research and led to advances in our understanding of mechanisms involved in smooth muscle contraction Major advances were also triggered by the development of indicators for measuring free cytosolic calcium concentration and starting the unraveling of the events involved in Ca dependent activation of contractile proteins Although most of the studies that led to our current understanding of these areas were performed on nonairway smooth muscle these studies usually add to our understanding of airway smooth muscle and there is an enlarging body of data that have been obtained on airway smooth muscle

Airways Smooth Muscle: Peptide Receptors, Ion Channels and Signal Transduction David Raeburn, Mark A. Giembycz, 2012-12-06

Asthma and Rhinitis William W. Busse, Stephen T.
