the Central Platte River Valley and Adjacent Counties Paul A. Johnsgard, Mary Bomberger Brown, 2013-03-01 The central Platte River Valley region of Nebraska is described ecologically and defined as encompassing 11 counties and nearly 10,000 square miles, extending about 120 miles from the western edge of Lincoln County to the eastern edge of Merrick County. At its center is the Platte River, the historic spring staging area for Sandhill and Whooping cranes, five species of geese, and millions of waterfowl and water dependent birds, in addition to providing the breeding habitats for more than 100 other bird species. Collectively, at least 373 bird species have been reported from the Central Platte Valley, making it the most species rich bird location in Nebraska and one of the most species diverse regions in the Great Plains. The abundance, distribution, and habitats of these species are summarized, with special consideration given to the Valley's three nationally threatened and endangered birds: the Whooping Crane, Interior Least Tern, and Piping Plover, and the now probably extinct Eskimo Curlew. Also included are a species checklist, a list of 82 regional birding sites, and a bibliography of 130 citations. THREATENED
