Philosophy of Statistics ,2011-05-31 Statisticians and philosophers of science have many common interests but restricted communication with each other This volume aims to remedy these shortcomings It provides state of the art research in the area of philosophy of statistics by encouraging numerous experts to communicate with one another without feeling restricted by their disciplines or thinking piecemeal in their treatment of issues A second goal of this book is to present work in the field without bias toward any particular statistical paradigm Broadly speaking the essays in this Handbook are concerned with problems of induction statistics and probability For centuries foundational problems like induction have been among philosophers favorite topics recently however non philosophers have increasingly taken a keen interest in these issues This volume accordingly contains papers by both philosophers and non philosophers including scholars from nine academic disciplines Provides a bridge between philosophy and current scientific findings Covers theory and applications Encourages multi disciplinary dialogue

Dark Mother Lucia Chiavola Birnbaum, 2001 Bringing a feminist perspective to contemporary findings of geneticists and archeologists Lucia Chiavola Birnbaum cultural historian points out that the oldest veneration we know is of a dark mother of central and south Africa whose signs ochre red and the pubic V were taken by african migrants after 50 000 BCE to caves and cliffs of all continents The oldest sanctuary in the world was created in 40 000 BCE by african migrants in Har Karkom later called Mt Sinai foundation place of judaism christianity and islam Lucia documents the continuing memory of the dark mother and her values in prehistoric images of the dark mother in historic black madonnas and in other dark women divinities whose sanctuaries are on african paths She tracks the memory in rituals and stories of her sicilian grandmothers in persecution of dark others in patriarchal Europe and the United States in the rise of nonviolent dark others since the 1960s in the banners of the 1995 world conference of women at Beijing and in art She finds the dark mother s values justice with compassion equality and transformation in everyday and celebratory rituals of the world s subaltern cultures and suggests that the image and values are in the submerged memories of everyone

The Columbia Companion to Modern East Asian Literature Joshua S. Mostow, 2003 This extraordinary one volume guide to the modern literatures of China Japan and Korea is the definitive reference work on the subject in the English language With more than one hundred articles that show how a host of authors and literary movements have contributed to the general literary development of their respective countries this companion is an essential starting point for the study of East Asian literatures Comprehensive thematic essays introduce each geographical section with historical overviews and surveys of persistent themes in the literature examined including nationalism gender family relations and sexuality Following the thematic essays are the individual entries over forty for China over fifty for Japan and almost thirty for Korea featuring everything from detailed analyses of the works of Tanizaki Jun ichiro and Murakami Haruki to far ranging explorations of avant garde fiction in China and postwar novels in Korea Arrayed chronologically each entry is self contained though extensive cross referencing affords readers the opportunity to gain a more synoptic view of the work author or movement The unrivaled opportunities for comparative analysis alone make this unique companion an indispensable reference for anyone interested in the burgeoning field of Asian literature Although the literatures of China Japan and Korea are each allotted separate sections the editors constantly kept an eye open to those writers works and movements that transcend national boundaries This includes for example Chinese authors who lived and wrote in Japan Japanese authors who wrote in classical Chinese and Korean authors who write in Japanese whether under the colonial occupation or because they are resident in Japan The waves of modernization can be seen as reaching each of these countries in a staggered fashion with eddies and back flows between them then complicating the picture further This volume provides a vivid sense of this dynamic interplay Changes in Attitudes to Immigrants in Britain, 1921-2021 Ben Braber, 2025-03-04 This book reviews changes in attitudes towards immigrants in Britain and the language that was used to put these feelings into words between 1921 and 2021 It analyses in what context attitudes were articulated and where they came from To determine what was specifically British it makes international comparisons It applies a historical and linguistic method for an analysis of so far relatively unused primary sources It also explores secondary resources and to provide context engages with the existing literature that deals with immigration but is not focused on attitudes or not always covers the entire period after 1921 and links post 1921 developments to what was set in motion before 1921 to sketch a long history that runs into the present The linguistic historical approach applied in this book brings it all together for the first time It discovers when and how attitudes to immigrants in Britain changed after 1921 where they originated and what language was used to voice these attitudes in particular specific words their meanings the under or overtones they bore and what people meant or felt when they used them
