Hsu, 2020-12-15 A timely exploration of how odor seeps into structural inequality Our sense of smell is a uniquely visceral and personal form of experience As Hsuan L. Hsu points out smell has long been spurned by Western aesthetics as a lesser sense for its qualities of subjectivity volatility and materiality But it is these very qualities that make olfaction a vital tool for sensing and staging environmental risk and inequality Unlike the other senses smell extends across space and reaches into our bodies Hsu traces how writers artists and activists have deployed these embodied biochemical qualities of smell in their efforts to critique and reshape modernity's olfactory disparities The Smell of Risk outlines the many ways that our differentiated atmospheres unevenly distribute environmental risk Reading everything from nineteenth century detective fiction and naturalist novels to contemporary performance art and memoir Hsu takes up modernity's differentiated atmospheres as a subject worth sniffing out From the industrial revolution to current day environmental crises Hsu uses ecocriticism geography and critical race studies to for example explore Latinx communities exposed to freeway exhaust and pesticides Asian diasporic artists response to racialized discourse about Asiatic odors and the devastation settler colonialism has reaped on Indigenous smellscape In each instance Hsu demonstrates the violence that air maintenance control and conditioning enacts on the poor and the marginalized From nineteenth century miasma theory theory to the synthetic chemicals that pervade twenty first century air Hsu takes smell at face value to offer an evocative retelling of urbanization public health and environmental violence Narratives of Migrant and Refugee Discrimination in New Zealand Angela McCarthy, 2022-08-31 This book explores the question of whether the conceptualisation of New Zealand as a welcoming nation is accurate Examining historical and contemporary narratives of migrant and refugee discrimination it considers the economic social political cultural and historical contexts from which discrimination emerges and its repercussions Alert to

Andrew Kettler, Will Tullett, 2025-06-26 The Routledge History of the Senses presents readers with an overview of the field As well as pointing to directions for the future of the discipline it illustrates the extent to which the subject offers a considerable space for the exploration of diverse historical topics through the lens of sensory experience The handbook brings together essays and case studies from some of the leading academics on the history of the senses Together they not only chart topics and arguments in existing scholarship but introduce fresh methodologies for future analyses Specifically the chapters collectively show that the senses of the historical body often portray the intensity of the invasion of capital upon the functions of the mind throughout global history As a global history this work arrives at a time when many sensory historians are looking for a touchstone for moving beyond the often heavily Western frameworks that dominate the existing literature on the historical senses Not only will this book appeal to students and scholars of the history of senses visual studies art history food studies and many of the social sciences but individual chapters also offer useful reading material for a wide range of history modules and contemporary topics Breaking Connections Albert Wendt, 2015-11-16 A dynamic group has emerged in Auckland whose members refer to themselves as the Tribe Mainly Polynesian they grow up together rise from poverty and become successful professionals bound by love and fierce loyalty At the centre is Aaron who lives at the edge of danger shady dealings and self destruction When Daniel receives a call in Hawaii telling him that Aaron has been killed he returns to New Zealand and steps into the most dangerous crisis the Tribe has faced They must confront the truth about who Aaron is and what they as the Tribe have become while facing the infidelity and greed that threatens to tear the group apart

Indigenous Literature of Oceania Nicholas J. Goetzfridt, 1995-02-28 Oceania has a rich and growing literary tradition The imaginative literature that emerged in the 1960s often reflected the forms and structures of European literature though the ideas expressed were typically anticolonial After three decades the literature of Oceania has become much more complex in terms of style as well as content and authors write in a multiplicity of styles and voices While the written literature of Oceania is continuously gaining more critical attention questions about the imposition of European literary standards and values as a further extension of colonialism in the Pacific have become a central issue This book is a detailed survey of the expanding amount of critical and interpretive material written about the imaginative literature of authors from Oceania It focuses on commentary and scholarship concerned with the poetry fiction and drama written in English by indigenous peoples of the Pacific Islands New Zealand and Australia The criticisms have appeared in academic books and journals since the mid 1960s They have developed to the point at which critical issues related to decolonization and the expression of ideas without having to first satisfy foreign expectations often determine the direction of such discussions Entries are grouped in topical chapters and each entry includes an extensive annotation An introductory essay summarizes the evolution of Pacific literature

Books and Bookmen, 1986 Concert of Voices Victor J. Ramraj, 1994-12-30 Concert of Voices combines poetry fiction drama and essays in a wide ranging anthology of world literature in English The collection includes a number of established writers who despite their great reputations have often been perceived as standing apart from the main currents of English literature and have rarely found their way into English Department reading lists Most selections though are by a remarkable range of much less established authors In addition to the selections the editor has provided a general introduction and a brief biographical note on each author The intention in Concert of Voices is both to provide an alternative text to anthologies of traditional and established writings in which the new writings in English invariably are displaced and marginalized and to complement these anthologies In this regard the word other which points up apartness and division was found wanting and dropped from the provisional main title Its omission draws attention to a concept and conviction operative in the construction of the anthology despite historical and cultural specificities the focus of cross cultural and multicultural studies commonalities and affinities exist among these writings and between writing on both sides of the hegemonic divide The anthology then is not intended simply as an offering of sociological or anthropological insights into these different peoples The pieces in Concert of Voices also demonstrate that imaginative writings can evolve from a cocoon of particularities into what can be called modifying a catch phrase of certain other disciplines Literature Without Borders from the introduction
