Black Aged Understanding Diversity And Service Needs:

Black Aged Zev Harel, Edward McKinney, Michael Williams, 1990-07-01 How do various ethnic communities compare on levels of health income and quality of housing for their elderly This volume demonstrates that the Black community is among the poorest on all three levels especially when compared to their white counterparts The book offers conceptual perspectives on both the uniqueness of Black elderly as a group and at the same time provides analytical approaches for understanding their diversity In twelve incisive essays the state of America's Black aged is assessed and policies and programmes analyzed The authors point to the importance of gearing services to a diverse group of elderly people and highlight the severe demand for such community services curtailed by the very real discrimination Aging and Diversity Stephen Fried, Chandra Mehrotra, 1998 In a time of growing awareness of the diversity among elders Fried and Mehrotra provide an excitingly fresh perspective that helps us develop a clearer understanding of gerontology and that bridges the gap between students and service providers in the field Aging and Diversity combines a clear narrative with active learning experiences The authors invite readers to broaden their work's view enhance culturally relevant skills understand older adults through a life course perspective and view aging from a multi ethnic perspective Specific chapters address psychological aging issues in health and sexuality caregiving work and retirement religion and spirituality and death and grieving For ease of use each chapter includes orienting questions a narrative that includes an introduction and summary vignettes structured orienting questions a narrative that includes an introduction and summary vignettes structured individual and group learning experiences comprehension tests quizzes glossary and an annotated bibliography of suggested readings Aging and Diversity offers undergraduates and service providers tools that will enable them to understand diversity and its impact on the lives of older adults in the United States Aging and Diversity will be invaluable to both students and practitioners in the fields of gerontology psychology and sociology of aging counseling adult learning social work family studies and multicultural studies

Family Life in Black America Robert Joseph Taylor, James S. Jackson, Linda M. Chatters, 1997-08-13 Most studies of Black families have had a problem focus offering a narrow view of important issues such as out of wedlock births single parent families and childhood poverty Family Life in Black America moves away from this negative perspective and instead deals with a wide range of issues including sexuality procreation infancy adulthood adolescence cohabitation parenting grandparenting and ageing A fresh aspect of this book is the amount of diversity it reveals within black families and the forces that shape limit and enhance them Aging in Black America James S. Jackson, Linda M. Chatters, Robert Taylor, 1993 This book provides a systematic overview of the status and life situations of elderly black Americans Based on an empirical national survey the contributors examine the major substantive issues related to psychological and social dimensions of ageing from a perspective that addresses the population's special circumstances and strengths Sections are devoted to community friends and family church and religion health social functioning and well being group identity and political participation and retirement and work Black Aged Zev Harel, Edward A. Social Work Practice with Ethnically and Racially Diverse Nursing Home Residents and Their Families Patricia Kolb, 2007-07-06 The first of its kind this volume is a critical companion for service providers who work with African American American Indian Chinese Italian Japanese Korean Mexican American and Puerto Rican elders and their families in nursing homes and other care settings These groups are likely to use nursing homes in larger numbers as cultural shifts such as higher divorce rates and increased outside of home employment for females transform traditional family dynamics Contributors are experience social workers and most belong to the specific ethnic or racial group that is the focus of their chapter and have also provided nursing home services to this group They provide a wealth of demographic historical cultural and practice information crucial to understanding and providing services to older adults and their families Many nursing home residents experience physical and or cognitive debilitation and increased dependence as older adults and cultural and situational differences create variations in how these changes are experienced and addressed In this volume contributors touch upon all of these areas as well as ways in which prejudice and discrimination have shaped intergenerational and other relationships for members of specific ethnic and racial groups Little has been written about the characteristics needs and experiences of racially and ethnically diverse nursing home residents and their families and requirements for culturally competent social work practice Written by social workers for social workers and other service providers this book fills a gap in a rapidly growing area of gerontological service and provides a truly comprehensive examination of cultural and practice phenomena

Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging Barbara Berkman, 2006-02-09 The Handbook of Social Work in Health and Aging is the first reference to combine the fields of health care aging and social work in a single authoritative volume These areas are too often treated as discrete entities while the reality is that all social workers deal with issues in health and aging on a daily basis regardless of practice specialization As the baby boomers age the impact on practice in health and aging will be dramatic and social workers need more specialized knowledge about aging health care and the resources available to best serve older adults and their families The volume s 102 original chapters and 13 overviews written by the most experienced and prominent gerontological health care scholars in the United States and across the world provide social work practitioners and educators with up to date knowledge of evidence based practice guidelines for effectively assessing and treating older adults and their families new models for intervention in both community based practice and institutional care and knowledge of significant policy and research issues in health and aging A truly monumental resource this handbook represents the best research on health and aging available to social workers today
