

Quality Assurance Faq's

1.What is Software Quality Assurance?

- (1) A planned and systematic pattern of all actions necessary to provide adequate confidence that an item or product conforms to established technical requirements.
- (2) A set of activities designed to evaluate the process by which products are developed or manufactured.

2.Explain the difference between client/server and Web Application ?

Client/server based is any application architecture where one server application and one or many client applications are involved like your mail server and MS outlook Express, it can be a web application as well, where the Web Application is a kind of client server application that is hosted on the web server and accessed over the internet or intranet. There are lots of things that differs between testing of the two type above and can't be posted in one post but you can look into the data flow, communication and servside variable like session and security etc.

3. Explain the Software Quality Assurance Activities?

Software Quality Assurance Activities:-

- Application of Technical Methods (Employing proper methods and tools for developing software)
- Conduct of Formal Technical Review (FTR)
- Testing of Software
- Enforcement of Standards (Customer imposed standards or management imposed standards)
- Control of Change (Assess the need for change, document the change)
- Measurement (Software Metrics to measure the quality, quantifiable)
