UPI Style Book & Guide to News Writing Harold Martin,Bruce Cook,2004 From the editors and reporters of United Press International an authoritative easy to use and comprehensive guide to print and broadcast writing Manuals Combined: U.S. Navy Journalist Basic, Journalist Advanced And Journalist 3 & 2 Training Publications , Over 1 300 total pages To the young man or woman choosing a Navy career field whether for one enlistment or for 30 years the journalist rating offers endless avenues for an imaginative yet mature thinker. Many of the duties and responsibilities of the journalist rank among Americans' favorite hobbies and pastimes such as writing, broadcasting, and photography. The Navy journalist learns and practices a distinguished profession and becomes an official representative of the Navy in public affairs matters. The first enlisted specialists to work full time in the field of Navy journalism were Naval Reserve personnel selected during the early years of World War II. They were designated Specialist X Naval Correspondents. In 1948, under a major overhaul affecting almost every enlisted rating, the journalist JO rating was established.

MAJOR TASKS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

LEARNING OBJECTIVE Identify the major tasks and responsibilities of the Navy journalist, the personal traits required for one to best perform the duties of the rating, the applicable NECs, and the purpose of the JO 3.2 training manual.

TRAMAN In our democratic society, government depends on the consent of the governed. This important principle means that in the long run, the United States government does only what the people want it to do. Therefore, we can have a Navy only if the people know and understand the importance of the Navy and support it. The Navy, like the other services, depends on this country's citizens for the four key tools of its trade: personnel, money, materials, and the authority to carry out its mission. As a Navy journalist, your main function will be to make the facts about your Navy available to the Navy's three main publics: the people at your ship or station, Navy people in general, and the people of the United States as a whole.

Blogger or Journalist? Evaluating What Is the Press in the Digital Age Tracy Brown, 2012-12-15

From the Introduction: The days of relying on the newspaper delivery boy to deliver information to households are long over. The Internet and mobile phone technologies have changed how information is gathered and delivered in ways that can't be overstated. They have allowed people worldwide to gather, share, and access news as it's happening. The Internet and sites such as Facebook and YouTube have made it possible for anyone to reach a broad global audience, and for anyone with a computer to be a news provider. There is an enormous amount of content available online on just about any topic. Viewers and readers must weed through this information to find sources that they trust and that they can rely on in the same way that people read their daily paper or watch their favorite television news broadcast. The difference is the people who write for newspapers or television news are journalists—people whose job it is to research and deliver news to the public. When you go online, you find content from lots of different people, many of whom are not actual journalists but interested citizens who want to share information with the public, much like journalists do. These non-journalists include writers of blogs and producers of independent news stories, people who are not working for official media outlets like established news channels or publications. Here we will look at the differences between journalists and this new breed of news providers. We will discuss what professional standards journalists must follow that bloggers are not bound to, as well as what laws protect journalists but do not offer the same protection for non-journalists. Also discussed will be the roles different types of news providers serve in society and how our definition of journalism is changing. The purpose is to help consumers of online news better understand where the news they read is coming from what news they can trust how to tell the difference between fact and opinion and how to put together everything they read to form their own ideas about current events and then perhaps even to share their ideas in their own online publications or blogs
