Ross Silcock, Joel G. Jorgensen, 2001-01-01 Nebraska sits at the nexus of continental bird migration and serves as a home either permanently or seasonally for nearly 450 species Major migratory routes pass through the state creating numerous opportunities to observe the great variety of North American bird species The annual crane migrations in spring are legendary and other key events include winter concentrations of bald eagles flocks of up to thirty thousand grebes mergansers and gulls at Lake McConaughy in late fall and incredible concentrations of waterfowl in the Rainwater Basin in early spring Birds of Nebraska captures the variety of Nebraska's ornithological possibilities in a style useful to hobbyists and professionals alike For the first time in Nebraska ornithology the authors have provided an exhaustive summary of state bird records compiled into concise but readable accounts of all species of birds reported in the state This work covers taxonomy early and late migration dates high counts nesting areas and likely viewing locations Complete Publication List, 1965-1986, Northern Prairie Wildlife Research Center Northern Prairie Wildlife Research Center, 1987 Birds of Algonquin Legend Robert E. Superintendent of Documents, 1896 Forest Wildlife Ecology and Habitat Management David R. Patton, 2010-10-12 Across the continental United States one can identify 20 distinct forest cover types Most of these are to be found on federal lands managed by the U S Forest Service and Bureau of Land Management Those responsible for the management of trees that form the 20 different cover types and the diversity of forest wildlife that reside in them must have a solid grounding in concepts of forest management especially silviculture as well as concepts of wildlife management in order to integrate both as part of any effective natural resource management plan Forest Wildlife Ecology and Habitat Management provides both foresters and wildlife biologists responsible for managing forest resources with an integrated understanding of the relationship between forests and wildlife Based on David Patton's 50 years of experience as a forester and wildlife biologist the book shows readers how to look at forests as ecological systems and wildlife as part of the energy flow and nutrient cycling process within those systems He offers readers a fundamental understanding of the natural processes that occur in a forest taking into consideration vegetation water and the natural effects of climate and time He then provides a biological perspective on wildlife discussing reproduction behavior feeding habits and mobility He also discusses the various influences on forests and wildlife by both natural and human caused events Covering those forest types included in the U S National Atlas and associating over 1 100 wildlife species with 20 major forest types in 48 states Professor Patton provides recommendations for ways to restore and maintain wildlife habitat by direct and indirect coordination Towards this end the author Evaluates various approaches to integrate forestry and wildlife management Offers a number of practical management strategies emphasizing a progressive holistic approach Collected Reprints William Healey Dall,1892 Available Publications
