Peterson, 1979 Orientation in Birds P. Berthold, 2013-03-08 If it is true that science proceeds from a romantic through a scientific to a technological stage then research on bird orientation is certainly on its move from its first to its second grade and recent developments in radiotelemetry and satellite tracking of migrating birds might already indicate the advent of the third stage At this juncture Orientation in Birds is a timely account Even though the study of animal migration in general and bird navigation in particular has produced a literature of impressive proportions the threads provided by the plethora of research papers review articles and symposiums volumes have not yet been knitted into a theoretical fabric This is partly due to our still incomplete understanding of fundamental topics in avian navigation The answer to the most intriguing question of how a bird displaced to unknown territory finds its way back home is as obscure now as it was a few decades ago Whether and how birds solve this problem by using far ranging grid maps or more local familiar area maps as has been proposed off and on is still a matter of heated debates These debates frequently center around provocative hypotheses let alone the question about the physical topographic magnetic infrasonic olfactory parameters which might constitute such maps

Machines like Us Ronald J. Brachman, Hector J. Levesque, 2023-10-17 How we can create artificial intelligence with broad robust common sense rather than narrow specialized expertise It's sometime in the not so distant future and you send your fully autonomous self driving car to the store to pick up your grocery order The car is endowed with as much capability as an artificial intelligence agent can have programmed to drive better than you do But when the car encounters a traffic light stuck on red it just sits there indefinitely Its obstacle avoidance lane following and route calculation capacities are all irrelevant it fails to act because it lacks the common sense of a human driver who would quickly figure out what's happening and find a workaround In Machines like Us Ron Brachman and Hector Levesque both leading experts in AI consider what it would take to create machines with common sense rather than just the specialized expertise of today's AI systems Using the stuck traffic light and other relatable examples Brachman and Levesque offer an accessible account of how common sense might be built into a machine They analyze common sense in humans explain how AI over the years has focused mainly on expertise and suggest ways to endow an AI system with both common sense and effective reasoning Finally they consider the critical issue of how we can trust an autonomous machine to make decisions identifying two fundamental requirements for trustworthy autonomous AI systems having reasons for doing what they do and being able to accept advice Both in the end are dependent on having common sense

The Migration Ecology of Birds Ian Newton, 2010-08-04 This book presents an up to date detailed and thorough review of the most fascinating ecological findings of bird migration It deals with all aspects of this absorbing subject including the problems of navigation and vagrancy the timing and physiological control of migration the factors that limit their populations and more Author Ian Newton reveals the extraordinary adaptability of birds to the variable and changing conditions across the globe including current climate change This adventurous book places emphasis on ecological aspects which have received only scant attention in previous publications Overall the book provides the most thorough and in depth appraisal of current information available with abundant tables maps and diagrams and many new insights Written in a clear and readable style this book appeals not only to migration researchers in the field and Ornithologists but to anyone with an interest in this fascinating subject. Hot ecological aspects include various types of bird movements including dispersal and nomadism and how they relate to food supplies and other external conditions. Contains numerous tables, maps and diagrams, a glossary and a bibliography of more than 2 700 references. Written by an active researcher with a distinguished career in avian ecology including migration research.

Shorebirds Jan van de Kam, Bruno Ens, Theunis Piersma, Leo Zwarts, 2017-03-27. Shorebirds are the most visible inhabitants of coastal wetlands worldwide. Many undertake spectacularly long flights between their wintering and breeding grounds, embodying the miracle of long distance migration in a profound way. In this illustrated behavioural ecology, the migration, feeding and breeding of these birds are explained in a comprehensive but simple and visually stunning form. The core of the book is based on studies of shorebirds and other waterbirds such as ducks, geese and gulls that migrate along the East Atlantic Flyway. The emphasis is on those using the Dutch, German and Danish Wadden Sea; examples from the rest of the world are also included. The authors are experts in the fields of bird migration, shorebird behaviour and intertidal ecology and have contributed much to our current understanding of these subjects. The 300 magnificent portraits of waterbirds in action were taken by Jan van de Kam, one of The Netherlands' foremost wildlife photographers.

FAA Aviation News, 1993. Ballistic Missile Defense System (BMDS), 2007. Avian Navigation F. Papi, H. G. Wallraff, 2012-12-06. Right from the start of this century, field observations and the patient ringing of birds have made available a growing mass of data on the breeding and resting areas of migratory species and on the course, period and duration of their seasonal flights. Considered as a whole, this work on migration morphology commands admiration and when viewed in detail it reveals fascinating insights into the extraordinary navigational performances of many bird species which find their way over enormous distances. Yet only a few dozen physiologists are actively trying to answer the question of how these performances are achieved. Experimental work on migratory birds raises many difficulties, some of them insuperable, so that many researchers carry out their experiments on the homing pigeon which is constantly motivated by homesickness and ready to display its ability to fly away home. Many of the problems connected with bird navigation are still unsolved, but a rapidly growing body of results is being produced along with a variety of new ideas and approaches. A clear majority of the students of bird navigation met in September 1981 in Tirrenia, a seaside resort on the Tyrrhenian coast, where each of them offered new insights into his or her recent investigations. Their contributions have been connected in this volume which provides an up-to-date conspectus of the stage reached by research in this field.
