Bishops University 1843 1970:

Bishop's University, 1843-1970 Christopher Nicholl, Bishop's University, 1994 In this detailed and revealing chronicle Christopher Nicholl brings his experience as principal of Bishop's to the task of recounting the university's development from its founding as an Anglican college in 1843 to its battle for survival amid the radical reforms introduced into Quebec's system of higher education during the 1960s Bishop's University, 1843-1970 Christopher Nicholl, 1994-08-01 Most Canadian universities were created in response to society's perceived need for men and women trained in the professions or at least prepared to take up gainful employment that contributes to the national economy In contrast Bishop's was inspired by John Henry Newman's idea of the university as an academic community in which undergraduates might form their opinions and learn to defend them by living among those whose interests and competence include a wide range of disciplines The goal of such an education is to produce what Newman calls a philosophical habit of mind an ability to think which being independent of any particular subject is the instrument of all Nicholl traces the development of this defiantly Anglican transplant in an American settled corner of a largely French speaking province into an autonomous Canadian and increasingly bilingual university He reveals how its early growth was hampered by the financial stringency which resulted from its denominational character and resolutely anti utilitarian philosophy This penury was relieved under Principal McGreer 1922-47 who broke the denominational tie and persuaded a number of the financial and industrial leaders of Quebec's English speaking community that sound and liberal education provided a good foundation in life for those who hoped to be useful in more than a purely technical sense Under McGreer Bishop's achieved not only financial stability but also academic autonomy which lasted until the 1960s when the advent of government financing and an interventionist Ministry of Education placed the university's philosophy of education at risk Tracing the academic administrative and physical growth of Bishop's through periods of crisis and calm Nicholl concludes optimistically that Bishop's will be able to maintain its academic traditions although conceding that by 1970 the founders idea of the university as a moral enterprise was no longer viable Love Strong as Death J.I. Little, 2010-10-30 A transcription of Lucy Peel's wonderfully readable journal was recently discovered in her descendent's house in Norwich England Sent in regular installments to her transatlantic relatives the journal presents an intimate narrative of Lucy's Canadian sojourn with her husband Edmund Peel an officer on leave from the British navy Her daily entries begin with their departure as a young newlywed couple from the shores of England in 1833 and end with their decision to return to the comforts of home after three and a half years of hard work as pioneer settlers Lucy Peel's evocative diary focuses on the semi public world of family and community in Lower Canada's Eastern Townships and fulfils the same role as Susanna Moodie's writings had for the Upper Canadian frontier Though their perspective was from a small privileged sector of society these genteel women writers were sharp observers of their social and natural surroundings and they provide valuable insights into the ideology and behaviour of the social class that dominated the Canadian colonies during the pre

Rebellion era Women s voices are rarely heard in the official records that comprise much of the historical archives Lucy Peel s intensely romantic journal reveals how crucially important domesticity was to the local British officials Lucy Peel s diary like those of such counterparts as Catherine Parr Traill also suggests that genteel women were better prepared for their role in the New World than Canadian historians have generally assumed

Andrew Fernando Holmes Richard W. Vaudry, 2020-03-03 Physician surgeon natural historian educator Protestant evangelical Andrew Fernando Holmes s name is synonymous with the McGill medical faculty and with the discovery of a congenital heart malformation known as the Holmes heart He also played a critical role in the creation of a scientific culture in early nineteenth century Montreal Born in captivity at Cadiz Spain Holmes immigrated to Lower Canada in the first decade of the nineteenth century He arrived in a province that was experiencing profound social economic and cultural change as the result of a long process of integration into the British Atlantic world A transatlantic perspective therefore undergirds this biography from an exploration of how Holmes s family members were participants in an Atlantic world of trade and consumption to explaining how his educational experiences at Edinburgh and Paris informed his approach to the practice of medicine medical education and medical politics This fascinating biography also examines Holmes s deepest religious convictions positioning them at the centre of his work and life Anglicans and the Atlantic World Richard William Vaudry, 2003 All too often the religious and cultural experiences of British North Americans have been analysed without reference to the world of the Atlantic empire Anglicans and the Atlantic World seeks to redress this by demonstrating that transatlantic connections continued to shape the history of the Anglican church in Quebec throughout the nineteenth century To achieve this Richard Vaudry traces the migration of both English and Irish Protestants and examines the careers of various prominent Quebec Anglicans including Jacob Eliza and George Mountain Jasper Hume Nicolls Henry Roe Jonathan and Edmund Willoughby Sewell and finally Jeffrey Hale families with impeccable imperial credentials By stressing the importance of an imperial transatlantic culture Vaudry offers a fresh and innovative look at the history of the Anglican church in eighteenth and nineteenth century Quebec

A Brief Survey of Germanic Studies at Canadian Universities from the Beginnings to 1995 Michael S. Batts,1998 This work records the development of the teaching of Germanic languages primarily German at Canadian universities over a period of 150 years The study focusses first on the undergraduate and graduate programmes of study i e what has been and is taught and on the numbers sources and kinds of students enrolled in comes at every level A detailed analysis is made in particular of the subjects of dissertations for the MA and PhD degrees A separate chapter is devoted to the programmes of study in Germanic languages and literatures other than German Danish Dutch Icelandic Norwegian Swedish Yiddish A similar survey is then made of the teaching staff where they come from where and what they studied and what contribution they have made to research The third issue is that of the infrastructure of the discipline what professional organizations there are to represent germanists and to what extent those engaged in research are supported by public funding agencies The final chapter records the changes in all areas of the discipline over the five year period from 1990 to 1995 The Canadian Who's who ,2001 University Women Sara Z. MacDonald,2021-11-15

Bessie Scott nearing the end of her first year at university in the spring of 1890 recorded in her diary Wore my gown for first time It didn t seem at all strange to do so Often deemed a cumbersome tradition by men the cap and gown were dearly prized by women as an outward sign of their hard won admission to the rank of undergraduates For the first generations of university women higher education was an exhilarating and transformative experience but these opportunities would narrow in the decades that followed In University Women Sara MacDonald explores the processes of integration and separation that marked women s contested entrance into higher education Examining the period between 1870 and 1930 this book is the first to provide a comparative study of women at universities across Canada MacDonald concludes that women s higher education cannot be seen as a progressive narrative a triumphant story of trailblazers and firsts of doors being thrown open and staying open The early promise of equal education was not fulfilled in the longer term as a backlash against the growing presence of women on campuses resulted in separate academic programs closer moral regulation and barriers that restricted their admission into the burgeoning fields of science technology engineering and mathematics The modernization of higher education ultimately marginalized women students researchers and faculty within the diversified universities of the twentieth century University Women uncovers the systemic inequalities based on gender race and class that have shaped Canadian higher education It is indispensable reading for those concerned with the underrepresentation of girls and women in STEM and current initiatives to address issues of access and equity within our academic institutions
