Black Africa:

Black Africa V. Klima, K.F. Ruzicka, P. Zima, 2012-12-06 In October 1972 our Czech written book Literatures of Black Africa was published in Prague presenting a survey of an extensive field. The publication which was signed at that time by all three authors differed from most contemporary introductions to the study of African literatures in a threefold way: a) The authors attempted to cover various literacy and literary efforts in the area roughly delimited by Senegal in the west, Kenya in the east, Lake Chad in the north and the Cape in the south. We were well aware even at that time that neither technically nor linguistically would it be possible to cover all literary efforts within that area. We did try however to include in our survey both the literacies and literatures written in the Indo-European languages: English, French, Portuguese and in at least several of the major African languages of the area. We did not attempt an exhaustive description but wished rather to show the mutual relationships which emerge if the literatures of this area written either in the major languages or in the African languages are studied not as isolated phenomena but as mutually complementary features. b) As two of us were linguists and one was a literary historian we did not limit our analysis of the developing literacies and literatures to the purely cultural and literary aspects. Our intention was to deal where and if it was relevant not only with the process of African literary development but also with the simultaneous complementary Black Africa Cheikh Anta Diop, 2012-09-01 This expanded edition continues Diop's campaign for the political and economic unification of the nations of black Africa. It concludes with a lengthy interview with Diop. The Mind of Black Africa Dickson A. Mungazi, 1996 The violent colonization of Africa by European nations toward the end of the 19th century, a colonization justified by theories about the African Mind promulgated in the Age of Reason, had a profound impact upon the mind of Black Africa. After World War II the mind of Black Africa rebelled; this rebellion led to a struggle for the self. After Africans achieved political independence the new African leaders betrayed their own people. Africans now have the responsibility of restoring and reaffirming their true inheritance: the mind of Black Africa. Black Africa and the US Art World in the Early 20th Century P. A. Mullins, 2024-01-09 This book will explore several critical connections between Black African objects and white Western aesthetics and artwork in the United States from the late 1800s until 1939. Drawing from primary source materials and various scholarship in the field, philosophy, history, sociology, anthropology, museum studies, art history, cultural studies, the book provides an analysis of the threads of white supremacy which run through early scholarship and understandings of Black African objects within the United States and how scholars use the objects to reinforce narratives of primitive Black Africa and civilized advanced white Europe and the United States. Urban Dynamics in Black Africa William John Hanna, Judith Hanna, Judith Lynne Hanna, 2009-01-01 Urban Dynamics in Black Africa presents a succession of worlds where we can study the development and the crystallization of major social change. The authors trace the development of former villages, towns and colonial outposts into major cities within the international community. Open air markets continue their trading beside modern department stores as individual Africans create contemporary lives from old and new William J and Judith L Hanna in this unique work introduce new data and the methods of dependency theory class and gender analysis they offer connections between Africa s internal dynamics its legacy of imperialism and the international political and economic arena At the same time the book provides a model for studying the evolution of political institutions Urban Dynamics in Black Africa illustrates how social classes modify and are modified by existing cultural forms The book examines Africa in its independence by contrasting development and dependency role adaptability and conflict in a powerful conceptual matrix Detailing the urban conditions that exist throughout Africa as well as their costs and benefits this work shows how contemporary political conflict in urban Africa is based upon both ethnic and non ethnic ties and how these ethnic and non ethnic ties serve as the bases of a system of political integration unique to poly ethnic communities As a synthesis of the relevant available knowledge on African towns and town dwellers this book is concerned primarily with the effects of external intervention and socioeconomic modernization upon the birth and development of Africa s new towns and the rapid expansion of its old ones It considers the impact of migration and town life upon Africans William J Hanna is professor of urban studies and planning at the University of Maryland His research interests include international development social planning and community planning He is the author of numerous journal articles Judith L Hanna is senior research scholar in the departments of dance and anthropology at the University of Maryland She is the author of numerous journal articles and books on the subject of dance

Black Africa versus Arab North Africa: The Great Divide Willie Moles, This work examines the gulf that exists in terms of relations between the Arab countries of North Africa and the predominantly black countries south of the Sahara desert Subjects covered include the hostility black people face in the North African countries and why the people in those countries don t even consider themselves to be Africans but consider themselves to be a part of the Middle East not Africa in spite of the fact that their countries are on the African continent The brutal treatment black Africans suffer in all the countries of North Africa Morocco Algeria Tunisia Libya and Egypt has caused severe strains on relations between the people of sub Saharan Africa and those in the northern part of the continent raising questions of how black Africans in sub Saharan Africa should respond and whether or not maintaining ties between the two is even worth it There is a great divide between Arab North Africa and Black Africa symbolised by the Sahara desert whose significance is more political than geographical The rift between the two is deeply rooted in history and the author contends that innovative and radical solutions may be necessary to address the problem including a decision by sub Saharan countries to sever ties with North African countries as they did with apartheid South Africa and at the same time accepting the fact that the gulf that exists between the two may be permanent As former Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere who was a close friend of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser stated in a speech in 1997 not long before he dies two years later Africa south of the Sahara is on its own

Gann,Peter Duignan,1969 A comprehensive study of recent African history examining the political social and economic effects of colonialism The Colonial Origins of Modern Social Thought George Steinmetz,2025-02-25 A new history of French social thought that connects postwar sociology to colonialism and empire In this provocative and original retelling of the history of French social thought George Steinmetz places the history and development of modern French sociology in the context of the French empire after World War II Connecting the rise of all the social sciences with efforts by France and other imperial powers to consolidate control over their crisis ridden colonies Steinmetz argues that colonial research represented a crucial core of the nascent academic discipline of sociology especially between the late 1930s and the 1960s Sociologists who became favored partners of colonial governments were asked to apply their expertise to such social problems as detribalization urbanization poverty and labor migration This colonial orientation permeated all the major subfields of sociological research Steinmetz contends and is at the center of the work of four influential scholars Raymond Aron Jacques Berque Georges Balandier and Pierre Bourdieu In retelling this history Steinmetz develops and deploys a new methodological approach that combines attention to broadly contextual factors dynamics within the intellectual development of the social sciences and sociology in particular and close readings of sociological texts He moves gradually toward the postwar sociologists of colonialism and their writings beginning with the most macroscopic contexts which included the postwar reoccupation of the French empire and the turn to developmentalist policies and the resulting demand for new forms of social scientific expertise After exploring the colonial engagement of researchers in sociology and neighboring fields before and after 1945 he turns to detailed examinations of the work of Aron who created a sociology of empires Berque the leading historical sociologist of North Africa Balandier the founder of French Africanist sociology and Bourdieu whose renowned theoretical concepts were forged in war torn late colonial Algeria
