Alone Across Australia One Mans Trek Across A Continent:

Alone Across Australia Jon Muir, 2003-01-01 How long can I keep going like this Never before have I pushed so hard for so long and I feel closer to the limits of my endurance than ever before In 2001 with only his dog Seraphine for company Jon Muir set off to cross Australia on foot from the tidal reaches of Port Augusta in South Australia to Burketown on the Gulf of Carpentaria It was a history making trek the first unsupported traverse of this beautiful but rugged continent One of the world s most accomplished climbers and adventurers Jon had already experienced some of the harshest conditions on the planet from the icy slopes of Everest to uncharted corners of Antarctica Yet nothing had prepared him for his 2500 kilometre Great Mission For 128 days his physical and emotional resources were taxed to the utmost Often close to despair he was thrown back on his instinct for survival his deep understanding of the country and his remarkable inner strength

Explorer Travellers and Adventure Tourism Jennifer Laing, Warwick Frost, 2014-08-04 This book examines the nexus between exploring and tourism and argues that exploration travel based heavily on explorer narratives and the promises of personal challenges and change is a major trend in future tourism In particular it analyses how romanticised myths of explorers form a foundation for how modern day tourists view travel and themselves Its scope ranges from the Golden Age of imperial explorers in the 19th and early 20th centuries through the growth of adventure and extreme tourism to possible future trends including space travel The volume should appeal to researchers and students across a variety of disciplines including tourism studies sociology geography and history Routledge Handbook of the Tourist Experience Richard Sharpley, 2021-11-17 Routledge Handbook of the Tourist Experience offers a comprehensive synthesis of contemporary research on the tourist experience It draws together multidisciplinary perspectives from leading tourism scholars to explore emergent tourist behaviours and motivations This handbook provides up to date critical discussions of established and emergent themes and issues related to the tourist experience from a primarily socio cultural perspective It opens with a detailed introduction which lays down the framework used to examine the dynamic parameters of the tourist experience Organised into five thematic sections chapters seek to build and enhance knowledge and understanding of the significance and meaning of diverse elements of the tourist experience Section 1 conceptualises and understands the tourist experience through an exploration of conventional themes such as tourism as authentic and spiritual experience as well as emerging themes such as tourism as an embodied experience Section 2 investigates the new developing tourist demands and motivations and a growing interest in the travel career Section 3 considers the significance motives practices and experiences of different types of tourists and their roles such as the tourist as photographer Section 4 discusses the relevance of place to the tourist experience by exploring the relationship between tourism and place The last section Section 5 scrutinises the role of the tourist in creating their experiences through themes such as transformations in the tourist role from passive receiver of experiences to co creator of experiences and external mediators in creating tourist experiences This handbook is the first to fill a notable gap in the tourism literature and collate within a single volume critical insights into the diverse elements of the tourist experience today It will be of key interest to academics and students across the fields of tourism hospitality management geography marketing and consumer behaviour The Chinese Hsinhai Revolution Eiko
