Always A Woman Stories By Soviet Women Writers:

Always a Woman, 1987 A History of Women's Writing in Russia Adele Marie Barker, Jehanne M. Gheith, 2002-07-11 A History of Women's Writing in Russia offers a comprehensive account of the lives and works of Russia's women writers Based on original and archival research this volume forces a re-examination of many of the traditionally held assumptions about Russian literature and women's role in the tradition In setting about the process of reintegrating women writers into the history of Russian literature contributors have addressed the often surprising contexts within which women's writing has been produced Chapters reveal a flourishing literary tradition where none was thought to exist They redraw the map defining Russia's literary periods they look at how Russia's women writers articulated their own experience and they reassess their relationship to the dominant male tradition The volume is supported by extensive reference features including a bibliography and guide to writers and their works Women and Gender in Central and Eastern Europe, Russia, and Eurasia

Mary Zirin, Irina Livezeanu, Christine D. Worobec, June Pachuta Farris, 2015-03-26 This is the first comprehensive multidisciplinary and multilingual bibliography on Women and Gender in East Central Europe and the Balkans Vol 1 and The Lands of the Former Soviet Union Vol 2 over the past millennium The coverage encompasses the relevant territories of the Russian Hapsburg and Ottoman empires Germany and Greece and the Jewish and Roma diasporas Topics range from legal status and marital customs to economic participation and gender roles plus unparalleled documentation of women writers and artists and autobiographical works of all kinds The volumes include approximately 30 000 bibliographic entries on works published through the end of 2000 as well as web sites and unpublished dissertations Many of the individual entries are annotated with brief descriptions of major works and the tables of contents for collections and anthologies The entries are cross referenced and each volume includes indexes Women and World Literature Carrie Kruse, 1992 Dialogues Susan Hardy Aiken, 1994 Written over the course of the last four years a lot of ex es obviously had to be added to this comparative study of contemporary Soviet and American women writers In each of the volume's major sections two stories one by a contemporary then Soviet woman and one by a contemporary American woman become the focus of two interpretive essays one Russian Literature, 1988-1994 Norman N. Shneidman, 1995-12-15 The collapse of the Soviet Union brought about radical changes in the Russian literary world With the state's relinquishment of control over literary production writers acquired freedom of expression and publication State publishing houses now self-supporting enterprises stopped printing money losing books and turned to foreign detective novels and erotic literature effecting a considerable shift in popular taste The writer no longer a producer of ideology has been recast as a struggling competitor in a free market environment Focusing on the current Russian literary scene Russian Literature 1988 1994 examines these recent changes Beginning with a general overview of the political intellectual and social atmosphere in the country and its effect on artistic creativity Shneidman surveys the period's literature He considers the work of succeeding generations of prose fiction writers the old guard the writers of the intermediate generation and the younger authors of perestroika whose works first appeared in print after Gorbachev's ascent to power. The writing of this last group is divided into three categories: novels written in the style of conventional Russian realism; works that combine realistic prose with modernist narrative techniques; and the body of work that constitutes Russian postmodernism. Exploring artistic and social issues in an integrated manner, the volume will be of interest not only to students of Russian literature but also to those concerned with the culture and social life of the former Soviet Union.

The Creative Woman, 1989 Writing Women's History Karen M. Offen, Ruth Roach Pierson, Jane Rendall, 1991-08-23 Five essays address such themes as the relationship between feminist history and women's history; the use of the concept of experience; the development of the history of gender; demographic history and women's history; and the importance of poststructuralism to women's history.

Life Stories of Soviet Women Melanie Ilic, 2013-08-15 This book provides a rich picture of what everyday life was like for women in Soviet times by presenting the life stories of eight women who were born in the interwar period. The life stories are told through interviews with the women, who were well educated and well placed in Soviet society, often in elite positions and therefore well able to observe and articulate the wider conditions for Soviet women besides their own personal circumstances. The interviews, which are edited and preceded by a full introduction setting the context, touch on a wide variety of issues: key events in Soviet history; religion and nationalities policies; and women's everyday experiences of life in the Soviet Union, growing up and going to school, education, falling in love and getting married, giving birth and starting a family, housework and paid employment, travel, leisure and culture, and remembering the past.

Russian Women Writers Christine D. Tomei, 1999 World Literature Today, 1989 Slavic Review, 1989

Initiatives, 1990 Ukrainian Women Writers and the National Imaginary Oleksandra Wallo, 2019-11-22 By writing of Ukrainian national identity from a woman-centered perspective, female authors from the last Soviet generation established themselves as authoritative critics of their culture and paved the way to visibility and success for their younger female literary peers.

Information Bulletin, 1988-03 Reference Guide to Russian Literature Neil Cornwell, 2013-12-02 First Published in 1998 This volume will surely be regarded as the standard guide to Russian literature for some considerable time to come. It is therefore confidently recommended for addition to reference libraries, be they academic or public.

New Women's Writing in Russia, Central and Eastern Europe Rosalind Marsh, 2020-12-07 Since the late 1980s there has been an explosion of women's writing in Russia, Central and Eastern Europe greater than in any other cultural period. This book, which contains contributions by scholars and writers from many different countries, aims to address the gap in literature and debate that exists in relation to this subject. We investigate why women's writing has become so prominent in post-socialist countries and enquire whether writers regard their gender as a burden or, on the contrary, as empowering. We explore the relationship in contemporary women's writing between gender class and nationality as well as issues of ethnicity and post colonialism Mapping Experience in Polish and Russian Women's Writing Urszula Chowaniec, 2010-09-13

The volume encompasses eleven articles which discuss the critical views that Polish and Russian women writers have articulated with regard to the notion of experience and constructions of femininity in the national imagination from the 19th to the 21st centuries. Major themes of the articles include women's experiences as writers in the 19th century women's embodied experiences of a traumatic past body and sexuality in the different ages of women political and aesthetic discourses and femininity. Although the articles are arranged in chronological order they do not form an absolute chronological or periodic continuum i.e. from Romanticism to Postmodernism although references to certain aesthetic periods are made. The authors of the articles reflect in detail on how the women writers and their literary texts represent different understandings and experiences in relation to dominant perceptions for example of the memory of war of motherhood of art and aesthetics and so on. Readers are encouraged to seek parallels and continuities between the different historical times and spaces between women's writing in Russia and Poland between different scholarly approaches and aims. The articles of this volume bring together important critical standpoints in women's writing in Poland and Russia in which parallels continuities and resemblances can be traced but in which discontinuities breaks and differences also make themselves visible. Apart from the conspicuous resemblances between individual Russian and Polish women writers works or even between groups of women writers the articles document the diversity within Russian and Polish women's writing respectively and even within individual writers.
