Spellman,1999-06-29 Safe drinking water and effluent have long been dependent on the large scale use of chlorine Process Safety Management PSM and the Risk Management Program RMP safety regulations now enforced by OSHA and EPA are leading to serious reconsideration of chlorination as the preferred disinfection method Renewed concern about the safety of chlorination by products is also driving water and wastewater specialists and plant personnel to consider alternatives to traditional chlorine application Choosing Disinfection Alternatives for Water Wastewater Treatment is a practical explanation of all available disinfection technologies in light of management criteria legal compliance plant safety effluent quality and cost This text is designed for all who must understand and act on the challenge of finding safe and equally effective methods of wastewater and water disinfection besides traditional chlorination The Oxford Handbook of Value Theory Iwao Hirose,Jonas Olson (College teacher),2015 Value theory or axiology looks at what things are good or bad how good or bad they are and most fundamentally what it is for a thing to be good or bad Questions about value and about what is valuable are important to moral philosophers since most moral theories hold that we ought to promote the good even if this is not the only thing we ought to do This Handbook focuses on value theory as it pertains to ethics broadly construed and provides a comprehensive overview of contemporary debates pertaining not only to philosophy but also to other disciplines most notably political theory and economics The Handbook s twenty two newly commissioned chapters are divided into three parts Part I Foundations concerns fundamental and interrelated issues about the nature of value and distinctions between kinds of value Part II Structure concerns formal properties of value that bear on the possibilities of measuring and comparing value Part III Extensions finally considers specific topics ranging from health to freedom where questions of value figure prominently

When do fishes become juveniles? G.H. Copp, Vladimír Kováč, K. Hensel, 2013-06-29 Metamorphosis and the transition from larvae or embryos to juveniles in fishes are important in order to answer for example questions about 1 life history styles and their modifications in evolutionary perspective and within current environmental demands 2 the development and application of fisheries recruitment models 3 the use of ontogenetic scales for interspecific comparisons 4 the identification of ontogenetic shifts in resource use and 5 the discovery of evolutionary interrelationships of species or genera This volume is dedicated to recent studies and reviews of existing knowledge on this insufficiently addressed area of ichthyology Most of the papers in this volume were presented in Bratislava Slovakia at the 1st International Workshop of the Fish Ontogeny

Network of Europe FONE in September 1997 a meeting sponsored in part by the European Commission This volume emphasizes an integrated approach to the study of fish ontogeny which is a process during which one event is related to another and everything is related to everything else encompassing physiology morphology behaviour and niche Within this comprehensive perspective the papers in this volume are grouped along four major themes reflections on early ontogeny and metamorphosis organism environment relationships ontogeny of predator prey interactions and behaviour and ontogeny Among other issues the papers consider topics such as whether one can identify when fish metamorphosis ends whether the larva period begins with hatching or with the onset of exogenous feeding whether fish ontogeny is saltatory or gradual and whether larvae are eliminated in some fishes with direct development The keynote paper of this volume reviews the main topics within contemporary paradigms and the final paper concludes that the onset of the juvenile period can be identified in some species but precision remains problematic emphasizing the need for further research in this dynamic area of fish biology
