Gandhi,2009 As water scarcities increase nations throughout the world are in search of better institutions to manage water resources India has been making substantial efforts to develop its water management systems since independence and significant increases in irrigated agriculture have taken place through both public and private initiatives However scarcities are increasing and major problems presently confront the management of water resources and irrigated agriculture Resolving these problems is crucial for the future Institutional Change and Shared Management of Water Resources in Large Canal Systems D. Irrigation Fundamentals George H. Hargreaves,Gary P. Merkley,1998 IRRIGATION FUNDAMENTALS is a comprehensive text on the basic principles and practices of applied agricultural irrigation Written over a period of more than 10 years it is based on the authors extensive experience in farming consulting research teaching and other related agricultural activities The book is for use by teachers of introductory courses in irrigation farmers who have some basic technical knowledge and for administrators who need a general understanding of irrigation as an aid for policy decisions in water resource development and planning Various factors that influence crop yield and production including climate fertility water drainage and agronomic practices are addressed The various irrigation methods such as border basin contour furrow sub sprinkle and drip or trickle are described and conditions are given for selection of the appropriate method to use Recent developments and new technology are included herein when they have obvious practical applications but for the most part the material presented in this book is based on well established principles and practices Much of the content is very practical and much is essentially nontechnical Nevertheless some of the material covered in this book goes beyond the basic concepts in an attempt to better describe the relationships and techniques employed by irrigation scientists and irrigation engineers From the Preface The future of the world depends very much on how we manage natural resources Since the year 1900 there has been a ninefold increase in global carbon emissions from burning fossil fuels and the world population has increased about 3 7 times in this century Vast areas of forests have been destroyed and irrigated lands now produce 40% of the food supply Due to depletion of groundwater reserves and an increase in population irrigated area per capita is declining Consequently the irrigation of additional alluvial lands is a strategic necessity for all of humankind Much of the alluvial lands cannot be made productive without prior development of water resources through flood control drainage and irrigation The production of electricity through hydropower and the production of alcohol fuel from irrigated crops as has been practiced for many years in Brazil can slow the increase in carbon emissions Such diverse developments are typically not separable rather they must be considered as integral parts of a comprehensive development plan The conservation of natural resources and increasing productivity of irrigated lands are also strategic necessities Much of the current technology is highly transferable and crop yields can be significantly increased on lands already under irrigation The authors have worked in many countries in connection with resource inventories teaching and the planning development and use of irrigation as a tool for increasing production and providing employment They have written extensively and have been honored for their achievements They have considerable experience with everything from primitive low technology irrigation developments to highly developed irrigation in the USA and in dozens of countries around the world Both of the authors have dedicated their careers to teaching research and consulting in agricultural irrigation and water resources development and planning It is their hope and expectation that this book will provide incentives for investigating and documenting land and water resources improving development increasing crop yields conserving resources and improving the environment From the Table of Contents Chapt 1 INTRODUCTION Irrigation Fundamentals A Definition of Irrigation Statistical Perspectives of Agricultural IrrigationChapt 2 FACTORS INFLUENCING CROP PRODUCTION Introduction Temperature Radiation and Evaporative Potential Climate Change Soil Fertility and Fertilizers Water Availability and Distribution Soil Aeration and Drainage Plant Density Spacing and Leaf Area Index Crop VarietyChapt 3 AGRICULTURAL SOILS Introduction Soil Texture and Structure Soil Classification and Evaluation Bureau of Reclamation Land Classification Soil Age and Topography Soil Chemistry Infiltration Rates Soil Water Relationships Equations for Soil Water Content Soil Water Potential Measuring Soil Water ContentChapt 4 EVALUATING IRRIGATION RESOURCES Introduction Climate Hydrology Human and Other Factors Integrated DevelopmentChapt 5 IRRIGATION METHODS Introduction Graded Border Irrigation Basin Irrigation Contour

P. Koppen,Mark Giordano,John Butterworth,2007 The lack of sufficient access to clean water is a common problem faced by communities efforts to alleviate poverty and gender inequality and improve economic growth in developing countries While reforms have been implemented to manage water resources these have taken little notice of how people use and manage their water and have had limited effect at the ground level On the other hand regulations developed within communities are livelihood oriented and provide incentives for collective action but they can also be hierarchal enforcing power and gender inequalities This book shows how bringing together the strengths of community based laws rooted in user participation and the formalized legal systems of the public sector water management regimes will be more able to reach their goals Public Policy Vishal Narain,2018-05-03 Discusses theories and concepts used in the analysis of public policy processes studying theories of policy processes monitoring and evaluation

The Struggle for Water in Peru Paul B. Trawick,2003 This ecological history of peasant society in the Peruvian Andes focuses on the politics of irrigation and water management in three villages whose terraces and canal systems date back to Inca times Set in a remote valley the book tells a story of domination and resulting social decline showing how basic changes in the use of land water and labor have been pivotal in transforming the indigenous way of life The author carries out a comparison of contemporary practices in communities that vary systematically along certain dimensions He analyzes the communities similarities and differences in hydraulic organization landscaping water use and other variables Strikingly diverse patterns appear in local practice which prove to be the key to unraveling the area s history The book concludes by describing the recent intensification of a water conflict This struggle between peasants and former landlords ultimately led villagers to rise up against the national government The story culminates in the violent intrusion of the revolutionary group known as Shining Path Opportunities for private sector participation in agricultural water development and management F. W. T. Penning de Vries,H. Sally,A. Inocencio,2005 This study examines ways to increase food security reduce poverty and achieve economic growth in sub Saharan Africa with water through increased participation of the private sector and publicprivatepartnerships This report is a summary of the findings from a review of the literature and critical analysis thereof The private sector includes all farmers farm households and agriculture based micro small and medium enterprises MSMEs

That is all entities involved in crop livestock and fish production and marketing in post harvest activities and food processing and in supply chains for the goods services and information used in the process The study examines different types of agricultural water development and management These include smallholder subsistence farming cultivation of profit oriented high value crops and peri urban agriculture as well as successful examples of private sector involvement in various functions or processes including planning design construction operations and maintenance The spotlight on water does not imply that other factors such as off farm employment market development and education are unimportant Routledge Handbook of Water Law and Policy Alistair Rieu-Clarke,Andrew Allan,Sarah Hendry,2017-02-24 Water plays a key role in addressing the most pressing global challenges of our time including climate change adaptation food and energy security environmental sustainability and the promotion of peace and stability This comprehensive handbook explores the pivotal place of law and policy in efforts to ensure that water enables positive responses to these challenges and provides a basis for sound governance The book reveals that significant progress has been made in recent decades to strengthen the governance of water resource management at different scales including helping to address international and sub national conflicts over transboundary water resources It demonstrates that effective laws and policies are fundamental drivers for the safe equitable and sustainable utilization of water However it is also shown that what might constitute an effective law or policy related to water resources management is still hotly debated As such the handbook provides an important and definitive reference text for all studying water governance and management Handbook of Agricultural Economics Bruce L. Gardner,Gordon C. Rausser,2002-12-17 Annotation The subject matter of agricultural economics has both broadened and deepened in recent years and the chapters of this Handbook present the most exciting and innovative work being done today Following Volume 1 Volume 2 consists of three parts Agriculture Natural Resources and the Environment Agriculture in the Macroeconomy and Agriculture and Food Policy Although agricultural economists have always paid attention to these topics research devoted to them has increased substantially in scope as well as depth in recent years Institutional and Policy Analysis of River Basin Management William Blomquist,Ken S. Calbick,Ariel Dinar, Water Rights Reform Bryan Randolph Bruns,Claudia Ringler,Ruth Suseela Meinzen-Dick,2005-01-01 Rights to water are increasingly crucial and increasingly contested across theglobe Urbanization industrialization environmental degradation agriculturalintensification rising per capita water use increasing population andother social political and economic transformations contribute to growing scarcity and demand for better management of water resources In responding to these challenges the world can draw on a rich heritage of institutions for regulating rights to water and resolving disputes and a diversity of institutional arrangements that demonstrate great ingenuity in designing solutions to fit the conditions and priorities of various river basins However policy discussion in water management has often been impoverished by narrow polarization around a few idealized models of centrally integrated management or water commoditization even though these comprise only a small and very incomplete subset of the institutional options available for effective management The authors in this book expand the range of reflection and analysis of water rights reforms offering insights aimed especially at those seeking practical pathways to improve equity efficiency and sustainability in access to water The Politics of Water Institutional Reform in Neo-Patrimonial States Jenniver Sehring,2009-01-30 There is more than enough water in the world for domestic purposes for agriculture and for industry In short scarcity is manufactured through political processes and institutions United Nations Human Development Report 2006 3 Water scarcity water crisis water wars since the beginning of the 1990s these terms have appeared again and again in scientific debates political strategies and media reports Water is perceived as a scarce resource that needs efficient management in order to satisfy all needs and to prevent violent conflicts over its distribution Considerable research has been devoted to this topic In this research water is commonly referred to as a common pool resource a n excludable public good with rivalry in terms of consumption Hence research has long focused on collective action problems in managing this common pool resource e g Ostrom 1990 1992 In recent years anthropological and sociological scholars in particular have criticized that in these studies the complexity of water its embeddedness in a wider cultural and social c text and the role of power have been neglected Water is different from other natural sources in some important aspects its mobility its variability and its multiplicity Mehta 2006 2f Linton 2006 10 Mobility makes ownership claims difficult Water moves transcending state borders not fixed like other resources Variability refers to the fact that its availability varies temporarily depending on weather conditions Managing water for the poor: proceedings of the Regional Workshop on Pro-Poor Intervention Strategies in Irrigated Agriculture in Asia, Bangladesh, China, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Vietnam, Colombo, 9-10 August 2001.
