Elkind, 1998 Combining insights from urban western and environmental history Elkind examines the ways that people's reactions to their natural surroundings drive both demand for improved public services and political reform She traces public works development in the Gilded Age and Progressive Era to explain how these programs united each city with its suburban neighbors creating new political entities and allowing Boston and Oakland to appropriate rural resources and thus overcome the environmental limits to their continued growth and prosperity She also shows how when the power of regionalism is turned to urban development environmental and social costs are sometimes overlooked Historical Journal of Massachusetts, 2005 Agrarian Landscapes in Transition Charles Redman, David R. Foster, 2008-07-18 Agrarian Landscapes in Transition researches human interaction with the earth With hundreds of acres of agricultural land going out of production every day the introduction spread and abandonment of agriculture represents the most pervasive alteration of the Earth's environment for several thousand years What happens when humans impose their spatial and temporal signatures on ecological regimes and how does this manipulation affect the earth and nature's desire for equilibrium Studies were conducted at six Long Term Ecological Research sites within the US including New England the Appalachian Mountains Colorado Michigan Kansas and Arizona While each site has its own unique agricultural history patterns emerge that help make sense of how our actions have affected the earth and how the earth pushes back The book addresses how human activities influence the spatial and temporal structures of agrarian landscapes and how this varies over time and across biogeographic regions It also looks at the ecological and environmental consequences of the resulting structural changes the human responses to these changes and how these responses drive further changes in agrarian landscapes The time frames studied include the ecology of the earth before human interaction pre European human interaction during the rise and fall of agricultural land use and finally the biological and cultural response to the abandonment of farming due to complete abandonment or a land use change such as urbanization Sustainable Communities on a Sustainable Planet Brent Yarnal, Colin Polsky, James O'Brien, 2009-09-24 Scientists and policymakers have realised that localities are central to addressing the causes and consequences of global environmental change The goal of the Human Environment Regional Observatory project HERO was to develop the infrastructure necessary to monitor and understand the local dimensions of global change This book presents the philosophy behind HERO the methods used to put that philosophy into action its results and the lessons learned from the project HERO used three strategies it developed research protocols and data standards for collecting data it built a web based networking environment to help investigators share data analyses and ideas from remote locations and investigators field tested these concepts by applying them in diverse biophysical and socioeconomic settings central Massachusetts central Pennsylvania southwestern Kansas and the US Mexico border region of Arizona The book highlights the unique focus of HERO regarding thinking and acting on complex integrative and interdisciplinary global change science at local scales and is valuable for global change scientists Bird Observer, 2003 New England Joseph E.
