symposium held at the Art Institute of Chicago in 2005 tells the story of how medieval art was collected by both individuals and institutions in the American Midwest This book will appeal to both medievalists and scholars of nineteenth and twentieth century American history In addition it will also appeal to scholars who are interested in museum studies and the history of collecting The essays in the first section Collecting and Displaying Medieval Art consider the formation of medieval art collections at influential cultural institutions in three of the most important centers of industry and culture in the Midwest Chicago Detroit and Cleveland The second section Medieval Art as Inspiration and Education examines the motives of both private donors and museum professionals in forming collections and establishing period rooms and cloistered spaces at museums in Toledo Kansas City and St Louis among others At the opposite end of the spectrum was a new trend in curatorial practice beginning in the 1930s that favored the dismantling of period rooms and espoused displaying historical works of art in more distinctly modern settings a theme that pervades section three Medieval Art and Modernism An essay on medieval art in Midwestern university art museums and another one that considers the impact of works from medieval collections in special exhibitions serve as a remarkable coda to the rest of the volume Two appendices follow this one that provides an overview of medieval art collections in Midwestern university museums and another which provides a biographical sketch of prominent dealers of medieval art from 1900 1950

Does War Belong in Museums? Wolfgang Muchitsch, 2014-04-15
 Presentations of war and violence in museums generally oscillate between the fascination of terror and its instruments and the didactic urge to explain violence and by analysing it make it easier to handle and prevent The museums concerned also have to face up to these basic issues about the social and institutional handling of war and violence Does war really belong in museums And if it does what objectives and means are involved Can museums avoid trivializing and aestheticising war transforming violence injury death and trauma into tourist sights What images of shock or identification does one generate and what images would be desirable

A Deadly Art: European Crossbows, 1250-1850 Breiding, Dirk H., 2013 The advent of the crossbow more than 2 500 years ago effected dramatic changes for hunters and warriors For centuries it was among the most powerful and widely used handheld weapons and its popularity endures to this day A Deadly Art presents a lively accessible survey of the crossbow's golden age along with detailed descriptions of twenty four remarkable examples Beginning in the middle ages the European aristocracy's enthusiasm for the crossbow heralded shooting competitions and pageants that featured elaborately decorated weapons bearing elegant embellishments of rare materials and prized artistry In addition to being highly functional these weapons were magnificent works of art A Deadly Art includes fascinating descriptions of crossbows used by Margaret of Savoy and Holy Roman Emperors Maximilian I and Charles V among others Publisher's description Object Fantasies Philippe Cordez, Romana Kaske, Julia Saviello, Susanne Thürigen, 2018-09-10 In the modern lexicon object refers to an entity that is materially constituted spatially defined and functionally determined In contrast the Latin word fantasia has since antiquity referred to an apparition or the ability to imagine something that could be equally an object an image or a concept This tension prompts further inquiry into the interrelations and differences between the experience of tangible objects their perception and handling and the creation of new objects their conception and formation What correlations exist between object fantasies the self consciousness of subjects and the concrete and imagined conditions of human beings social lives By addressing this question this interdisciplinary book opens new perspectives in the field of object studies Anatomy of a Siege Kenneth Wiggins, 2001 A rare well preserved example of the specialised military mining techniques employed in siege warfare Chicago's Historic Hyde Park Susan O'Connor Davis, 2013-07-09 Includes bibliographical references pages 417 459 and index The Art Institute of Chicago Annual Report Art Institute of Chicago, 1984 Islamicate Occult Sciences in Theory and Practice, 2020-11-16 Islamicate Occult Sciences in Theory and Practice brings together the latest research on Islamic occult sciences from a variety of disciplinary perspectives namely intellectual history manuscript studies and material culture Its aim is not only to showcase the range of pioneering work that is currently being done in these areas but also to provide a model for closer interaction amongst the disciplines constituting this burgeoning field of study Furthermore the book provides the rare opportunity to bridge the gap on an institutional level by bringing the academic and curatorial spheres into dialogue Contributors include Charles Burnett Jean Charles Coulon Maryam Ekhtiar Noah Gardiner Christiane Gruber Bink Hallum Francesca Leoni Matthew Melvin Koushki Michael Noble Rachel Parikh Liana Saif Maria Subtelny Farouk Yahya and Travis Zadeh A Cumulative Bibliography of Medieval Military History and Technology Kelly DeVries, 2001-11-01 There is perhaps no other more lively area for study in medieval history than medieval military history with its attendant and complementary field the history of medieval military technology In the past twenty years it seems that more major scholarly inroads have been made in this field than in any other historical genre of medieval studies or chronological period of military history What this has meant is that it is now more difficult to keep up with all of the trends and sources in the field than ever before Hence the need for a reference work which covers what has previously been written and which in turn can assist the scholar both the more experienced academic and the beginner to improve his or her work in medieval military history or the history of medieval military technology Utilizing library catalogues bibliographies and footnotes this bibliography has compiled the most complete list of secondary references to works in medieval military history and the history of military technology It keeps fairly strictly to a geography which centers on conventional medieval boundaries Europe Byzantium and the Middle East However the chronology does differ from the conventional medieval dates Because of its influence on the early Middle Ages references to Late Antiquity especially to the military history and technology of the third and fourth century Roman Empire have been included For the opposite reason the influence of the Middle Ages on the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries references to military history and technology up to 1648 have been included as well This is especially important in the study of the Ottoman Turkish Wars and Arms and Armor where the end of the fifteenth century as a chronological terminus makes little sense
